LONDON, Aug. 2.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill tonight made Lord Beaverbrook a member of the inner war cabinet, increasing that body from five to six members. Beaverbrook will also hold his present office of minister of aircraft production "for the time being."

This announcement was believed to foreshadow a basic reconstruction of the present government, which may be revised to include David Lloyd George, world war premier.

According to the political correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, Former Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's illness is more serious "than is generally realized." He said the operation which Chamberlain underwent recently is "almost bound to prove one of a major kind" for a man 71 years old.

Return Is Doubtful.

The writer added that it was therefore doubtful whether Chamberlain, who now is lord president of the council, would be able to return to his duties within the time hoped for by his doctor, which was thought to be two or three weeks.

Chamberlain's illness points the way toward a graceful exit of the various members of the government who recently have been attacked as advocates of the prewar appeasement policy.

Lord Beaverbrook has proved a great and popular success as minister of aircraft production. His appointment to a major, but as yet unspecified job in the war cabinet, was interpreted as the first move toward wider changes in the government.

May Control Propaganda.

It was predicted that Beaverbrook soon may control all propaganda, the handling of which has been attacked both by the press and public from the very beginning of the of the war. That criticism now is directed mostly at the ministry of information's "Cooper's Snoopers," who have been asking individuals many questions to determine the public attitude toward the war.

However, if Beaverbrook should be given control of the ministry of propaganda, newspapers suggest that its present incumbent, Alfred Duff Cooper, would find government employment elsewhere. Cooper is effective as a speaker in whipping up war spirit.

The suggestion that Lloyd George may be invited to join the government seemed to indicate that his services are desired particularly to step up agricultural production, which he advocated even before the war began.

ELGIN HAS HOT WEATHER, BUT IT ISN'T THIS HOT

Horned toads are happy in Arizona and New Mexico and Texas. They're really lizards, and like to slither in the sand and breakfast on desert bugs. Why should they want to live in Elgin?

That question was puzzling Elgin residents yesterday. They counted 22 of the creatures, distinguished by scaly bodies and hornlike spines on their heads, moving about on lawns in various parts of the city.

"I brought the toads home from Texas," he said. "They demanded so many ants and flies I didn't have time for anything else. So I turned them loose to forage for themselves."

Forbid Norway to Celebrate Haakon's Birthday Today

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 2 (AP).—Public celebrations were banned for tomorrow, 68th birthday of exiled King Haakon of German mastered Norway, to prevent any possibility of demonstrations.

HALLECK FLAYS FLYNN'S RECORD IN N. Y. POLITICS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Representative Charles A. Halleck [R., Ind.], who placed Wendell Willkie's name in nomination for the Presidency at the Republican convention in Philadelphia, Pa., today linked Edward J. Flynn, newly named chairman of the Democratic national committee, to the New York underworld and Tammany Hall political corruption.

Rep. Halleck.

Halleck recalled that as sheriff of Bronx county, New York, Flynn appointed Dutch Schultz, notorious New York City gangster and associate of Jimmy Hines, jailed Tammany district leader, a deputy on his staff. The congressman emphasized that Flynn's appointment was hailed as satisfactory by Tammany Hall, the nation's most notorious political machine.

Flynn was selected yesterday by President Roosevelt to succeed James A. Farley as Democratic chairman.

Cites Convention Action.

"Selection of Edward J. Flynn as chairman of the Democratic national committee and active manager of the third term campaign is in keeping with the character of the big city machine support that was chiefly responsible for giving Mr. Roosevelt his alleged draft nomination at Chicago," Halleck said.

"We learn from the press that Tammany Hall, New York's notorious political machine that dominates both city and state politics, is thoroly satisfied with the choice as well it may be. Christopher D. Sullivan, boss of Tammany, declares, according to these reports, 'The choice is a splendid one. Ed Flynn is qualified in every way for the job. He has a good record of experience.'

Gangster Named Deputy.

"This experience includes a term as sheriff of Bronx county, New York. Thomas E. Dewey, New York prosecutor, recently called attention to the fact that Mr. Flynn appointed as a deputy sheriff the late Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer, slain gangster and policy racketeer. Dutch Schultz, it will be remembered, was an associate of Jimmy Hines, convicted Tammany district leader and Roosevelt patronage dispenser in New York.

"Mr. Flynn also has the distinction of having served as city chamberlain under the Tammany administration of Mayor James J. Walker, an administration that smelled so high to heaven that Mr. Walker resigned and made himself a temporary expatriate abroad.

"Mr. Flynn's choice undoubtedly will be equally pleasing to the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago and to Joe Guffey in Pennsylvania, as well as to the other politicians of their ilk who have joined in the conspiracy to smash the third term tradition."

Chairmen Oppose Third Term.

New York, Aug. 2 [Special].—When Edward J. Flynn becomes chairman of the Democratic national committee this month he will be the only living Democratic Presidential campaign manager who supports a third term.

Vance McCormick, chairman during Woodrow Wilson's campaign in 1916, who was among the earliest bolters to support Wendell Willkie.

George White of Ohio, who managed the campaign for James M. Cox and Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1920, and announced his support of Willkie on Wednesday.

Clem Shaver, chairman in 1924, who now is an assistant to the director of the RFC, and under the Hatch act cannot express himself publicly.

John J. Raskob, national chairman in the Al Smith campaign of 1928, who has publicly backed Willkie.

James A. Farley, outgoing national chairman, fought to the bitter end to preserve the third term tradition.

HITLER'S GREATEST ENEMY—TIME

Spurn Aid for Girl, 6, Bitten at Snake Rites

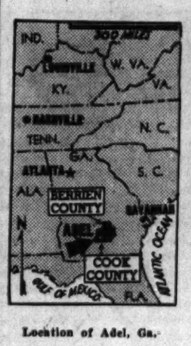
Adel, Ga., Aug. 2 [Special].—Leitha Ann Rowan, 6 years old, who was bitten by a copperhead moccasin in "snake handling" religious rites in her farm home a week ago, was brought out of hiding today, but relatives refused to allow medical treatment to be administered to her.



Location of Adel, Ga.

Her father, Albert Rowan, a tenant farmer, and the Rev. W. T. Lipham, leader of the Free Holiness snake cult, are in jail here as a result of her wound. Clasping Bibles and pacing separate cells, they have rejected food and water.

Lipham also has been ordered held for investigation in connection with the death a year ago of Mrs. Jeffie Smith, a cult member whose relatives said she succumbed after snake handling rites.

Cultists Hail "Miracle."

A crowd of overalled followers, who shouted encouragement to the prisoners from the town's dusty, sun baked square, hailed the child's reappearance and her apparent improvement as miracles.

The child's mother spirited her away from home in an effort to prevent treatment last Sunday after Sheriff W. L. Daughtrey and Dr. H. W. Clements, an Adel physician, had examined her and reported her condition as dangerous.

Leitha Ann sat sturdily upright on the physician's examination table today but uttered not a word as Dr. Clements inspected her swollen arm and the snake bite in her palm. Her mother refused to allow the doctor to do more than bandage the wound.

Condition Still Serious.

Holding that the girl is still in a serious condition, Dr. Clements ordered another examination Monday. Her relatives permitted today's examination only after Superior Judge W. R. Smith ruled yesterday in the commitment hearing of Lipman and Rowan that they would have to face murder charges if she died.

It is the cult's belief that followers can handle poisonous snakes "when the power is upon them" without serious consequences, their faith counteracting venom.

Ritual Is Described.

The snake ceremony was described in court by the imprisoned farmer's brother, Reuben Rowan. He said the family dropped their work in the fields one afternoon when the girl's father caught a snake. They gathered around, "speaking tongues when the power was upon them."

One man, Albert Lawton, "having gained victory," seized the snake from a sack and passed it to his 9 year old son. The boy passed it to his 7 year old brother. Then Leitha Ann, seeing other members of her family handling the copperhead, took it from her small cousin, despite her mother's warning not to indulge unless she "had victory." The reptile sank its fangs into her hand and she collapsed.

The girl's father has remarked that there are about 40 snake handlers in his county, Cook, and perhaps 100 in neighboring Berrien county.

TOWN TRYING A WAY TO HELP THOSE WHO HELP THEMSELVES

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 2 (AP).—A "self help" store in which work is the only medium of exchange was opened today for the city's needy.

Food, clothing, furniture, and even haircuts were offered to persons willing to work. The work will consist principally of repairing or renovating articles that have been donated by Bloomington residents for the experiment.

Mrs. Arthur G. Adams, a housewife who will serve as payless business manager of the store, explained it this way:

"One lady interested in our experiment is an expert at turning shirt collars. The hours she devotes to this work will be exchangeable for other articles. The shirts she puts in usable condition will be 'sold to other workers who perform other services.

"If she wanted a haircut for her husband, this would be supplied by an unemployed barber in need of other things we have. Or, if her husband were an upholsterer by trade, he could repair some furniture as payment for a dress for his wife."

Nude Beauty Is Drowned in Pool on Estate

Mamaroneck, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP).—The nude body of Ellen Legge Nash, beautiful New York model, was dragged tonight from a swimming pool on the estate of Neil Reed Andrews, wealthy cosmetic manufacturer.

Westchester County Medical Examiner Amos O. Squire said that the 27 year old blonde was "accidentally drowned" during a predinner swim.

Police attempted vainly for 90 minutes to revive her with artificial respiration. They, too, called the death accidental and closed the case.

House Guest at Estate.

Police said Miss Nash, who lived in New York City, came to the estate, one of the finest on Long Island sound, yesterday as Andrews' guest.

Miss Nash and another guest, Miss Vicki Grey, also of New York City, had spent the day cruising in Long Island sound off Westchester, police said, and returned to the estate and prepared for a swim in the pool.

Host Dives for Body.

While Miss Grey was searching for a bathing suit, Miss Nash apparently waded thru the shallow end of the pool beyond her depth, police said.

Andrews found the body a short time later and dived for it.

Andrews is the former husband of Dorothy Hall, Broadway actress who appeared in "The Greeks Had a Word for It" and other plays. They were divorced in 1932 and remarried six months later. She divorced him again at Reno, Nev., eight weeks ago.

$6,475 PAY ROLL SEIZED AS GANG CURBS AN AUTO

Four gunmen yesterday seized a $6,475 pay roll in a holdup that was completed in one minute. The victim was Joseph Binetti, 19 years old, 1234 North Springfield avenue, a messenger for the Birk Brothers Brewing company at 2117 Wayne avenue.

Binetti, traveling in a delivery truck and without a guard, drew the money from the National Security bank of Chicago at 767 Milwaukee avenue. The bills were in a brief case which lay on the seat beside him.

In front of 746 Schiller street the four bandits curbed Binetti's machine. One leaped out, ran over to the truck, snatched the briefcase, tossed Binetti's car keys to the street, and jumped back to the bandit car.

3 Others Flee as Car Crashes in Gun Battle

In a four mile chase in which bullets whistled and tires screamed as automobiles careened around corners on two wheels, Chicago and Cicero police yesterday captured one of four bandits and recovered $1,406 of the loot the gang seized in a daylight office holdup.

Joseph Kostek.

Search was being made last night for the three other robbers who escaped by seizing a car when their own was wrecked in the chase. One of the fugitives was believed to have been wounded.

Gain Entry Thru Ruse.

The scene of the holdup was the Hurley Machine company, manufacturers of washing machines, at 2115 South 54th avenue, Cicero. One of the bandits posed as a customer to enter the display room. After drawing a revolver he summoned two of his companions, who terrorized the office force of more than 25 men and women with sawed off shotguns.

M. W. Beck, information clerk, two salesmen, and two women customers were forced to lie on the floor. Others were ordered to bury their heads in their arms on their desks.

Joseph Burman, a supervisor in the accounting department, knocked a handset telephone from its stand as he bent over. Hiding the instrument with his arms, Berman whispered into the mouthpiece: "Get the police! A holdup!" The telephone operator heard him.

Bandit Scoops Up Cash.

In the meantime one of the bandits was scooping up four canvas bags and a tin box containing the money. Only $150 of it was in bills. The rest was in dimes and quarters, collected from apartment house washing machines which the company owns.

The gang made for the door with the money. One lagged behind. In searching a cash drawer he had dropped his .38 caliber snub nosed revolver. "Come on!" yelled the others. The bandit left the gun behind.

Policemen Frank Lange and Joseph Barloga, in a Cicero squad car, were only 200 feet from the office building when they received the radio alarm turned in by the Hurley telephone operator. They were delayed in the chase by the crowd of employés who had flocked to the street at the bandits' departure.

Exchange Shots with Bandits.

The policemen finally got thru and pursued the gang north to Roosevelt road where they fired four shots. A bullet from a .30-30 rifle in the hands of one of the bandits struck the support dividing the V-shaped windshield on the police car. The chase proceeded east to Kostner avenue and then north to Jackson boulevard.

There two Chicago policemen, Robert Bessette and Ray Young of the Fillmore street station, saw the bandits take a corner on two wheels. They took up the pursuit, going east in Jackson to Kildare avenue and north in Kildare to Madison street. A running fire of shots was exchanged.

GIVE VOLUNTEER SYSTEM A FAIR TRIAL, HE URGES

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Former Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring today condemned the Roosevelt administration's conscription program as a step toward totalitarianism that cannot be justified on the basis of military necessity.

Harry H. Woodring.

Woodring, who was removed from the cabinet on June 20 when President Roosevelt appointed Henry L. Stimson, a Republican interventionist, as secretary of war, expressed his views on the compulsory military service issue in a letter to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.].

The former secretary declared that the voluntary enlistment method of recruiting had not been given a fair trial.

No Justification, He Says.

There is no justification for conscription, he said, unless "thru the influence of increasing tendency toward paternalism we have broken down the moral stamina and fiber of the American youth, and made him a regimented automaton, rather than a free individual, and thereby broken down the voluntary instinct to serve in a patriotic way."

Senator Vandenberg commented as follows on the Woodring letter:

"With four years of experience at the head of the war department, former Secretary Woodring is entitled to speak with great authority upon this problem. His comments plainly demonstrate his constructive familiarity with the realities. I emphatically indorse his point of view. His seasoned recommendations deserve to be followed."

Significance Is Noted.

The significance of Woodring's letter, according to his friends in congress, is that during his seven years as head of the war department he always supported the army high command, regardless of the issue or the pressure from other sources, whether it came from the White House or elsewhere. Opponents of conscription said the letter proved their contention that the army was opposed to compulsory military service and did not recommend it until forced to do so two days after Stimson took his oath of office.

When Woodring was removed from office, his friends in the senate charged he was "purged" because he refused to strip the army of equipment essential to the defense of this country in order to help Great Britain and France. Woodring himself was quoted by friends as saying, three weeks before his removal, that "a small clique of international financiers" wanted to force him out of office because he opposed their demands for "the United States to declare war and get into the European mess with everything we have, including our man power."

Conscription Also Factor.

Some senators concluded from Woodring's letter to Senator Vandenberg that his opposition to conscription may have been another reason for his removal. Stimson, his successor, came out for universal compulsory military service on June 18, just 24 hours before President Roosevelt asked him to accept the cabinet post.

While Stimson and the army high command have strongly recommended the pending Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill, as modified according to the views of the war department, President Roosevelt has confined himself to an indorsement of the principle of conscription.

Favors "Selective Training."

At his press conference today the President refused again to discuss details of the pending legislation, but stated emphatically, for quotation, that: "I am in favor of a selective training bill and I consider it essential to adequate national defense." He said he not only hoped but believed that congress would enact conscription legislation at this session.

While the President was speaking at his press conferences, administration forces on the senate military affairs committee manifested a more aggressive attitude toward the conscription bill. They mustered strength to defeat, by a vote of 6 to 4, a motion by Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] and Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.] to limit to 900,000 the total number of men who could be drafted under the conscription bill. The administration forces overwhelmed all other restricting amendments, including one by Senator Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.] to make the conscription program operative only upon a declaration of war by congress.

Previously the administration forces had been much less aggressive in their support of the conscription bill. The committee had voted unanimously to limit the registration and draft to the 12,000,000 men between the ages of 21 and 31, instead of the 42,000,000 between the ages of 18 and 65, as originally proposed.

War Department Opposed.

Representatives of the war department opposed the Lee-Bridges amendment limiting the proposed draft to 900,000 men, 400,000 next fall and 500,000 next spring. The war department's program calls for the drafting of 400,000 on Oct. 1 and a total of 1,500,000 by Oct. 1, 1941.

Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], chairman, said the committee agreed to take a final vote on the conscription bill on Monday, at which time it will be reported to the senate.

"My dear senator:

"In answer to your inquiry on the compulsory military bill now before the senate, I cannot see the need of compulsory military training at this time, and I should like to see the bill amended so that it does not become effective until, and after, the chief of staff of the United States army has first advised the senate in writing that the voluntary system has completely broken down.

Lauds Voluntary Plan.

"The voluntary system is traditional, and I believe is an important factor in the American way of free government as is free speech, the will to worship God as one's own conscience dictates, free assembly, and other American principles.

"If, thru the influence of increasing tendency toward paternalism, we have broken down the moral stamina and fiber of the American youth, and made him a regimented automaton, rather than a free individual, and thereby broken down the voluntary instinct to serve in a patriotic way, we then unquestionably will have to adopt a compulsory system for the defense of this country. But we must be assured when we adopt the compulsory system that we have unquestionably left the American principle based on the individual's freedom of action and have adopted a bill that smacks of totalitarianism.

Pay Increase Proposed.

"I believe it is the duty of congress, and particularly the senate, to be certain that the voluntary system has not failed for these reasons, but because it has had disadvantages for which our government itself is to blame. For instance, several years ago, and also several months ago, I proposed to the administration the increase of the basic pay of the enlisted soldier of the United States army from $21 to $30. The reply was that it was inconsistent with the financial program of the administration. Whether that inconsistency holds good today, I would be willing for the senate to decide.

"I believe the voluntary system is at a great disadvantage. We go out over the country and propose to the American youth that he enlist in the army for a period of three years at $21 per month basic pay.

Inequality Pointed Out.

"That young man knows that 95 per cent of such enlisted men receive the $21 per month during the full three year period. And he also knows that the youth that enlist at the same time in the United States navy at $21 basic pay is advanced in grade, thru their custom, approved by, and money appropriated therefor, by the congress of the United States—is advanced within 60 or 90 days to $30, and in many instances soon thereafter to $36 per month.

"In fact there is a letter addressed to Chairman Sheppard, bearing my signature, before the senate military affairs committee, written only six or seven months ago, bearing fully on this question of inequality of pay between the two services. I have not the figures before me, but I believe it is safe to say that within a year over 66⅔ per cent of the youth that enlist in the United States navy receiver over $30 per month or more.

CCC Figure Compared.

"The same youth that is asked to join the army at $21 pay for three years sees his neighbor join the CCC for one year at $30 per month, and in many instances the CCC camp and the army post are side by side.

"How any fair minded members of congress could say that we have given the voluntary system of enlistment for the United States army service a fair trial, and that is broken down, and therefore we need the compulsory service, is beyond my understanding.

"I also think the senate should ask if our present quota of enlistments as outlined by the war department have failed to be reached in any instances. Perhaps we of the war department several months ago did not place the quota high enough. That is not the fault of the voluntary system.

"If we need a million, or two million, young men for trained service in the United States army, let's first give equal advantages to the voluntary system of raising this quota, and if necessary let's provide for one year voluntary service at $30 per month.

"I am for a trial by voluntary system before changing to the compulsory system. If the voluntary system fails, then I will join with others in obtaining the number of men, in the necessary time to defend this country, thru a compulsory system."

LUMBER YARD WORKER IS KILLED.

Ridicules Fears U. S. Is Wide Open to Attack.

Fort George G. Meade, Md., Aug. 2 (AP).—Maj. Gen. James K. Parsons advocated today a "one man command" of the armed forces to "coördinate national defense, criticized the conscription of "ungainly numbers," and told alarmists that "we are not wide open to attack."

The 3d corps area commander, addressing 231 business and professional men completing 30 days of military training, said the European war has "shown the necessity for central command of naval, land, and air arms."

"The crying need is for a national defense plan complete in every detail," said Gen. Parsons. "Such a plan must be directed by one man and must have as an integral part a statement of just what area we want to protect."

Propose Training 500,000.

In criticizing conscription of "ungainly numbers," the general recommended registration of men in the 18 to 31 age group, with only those of 21 to be drafted immediately for two years of training. This, he said, would give the nation 500,000 trainees—as many as it "truly needs and can train carefully."

"If we are going to stretch [and I think it is a long stretch] the Monroe Doctrine to include Singapore and Shanghai and South America, we will need an army of millions," Gen. Parsons said. "If we are going to defend our own nation, a relatively small but well trained force will be more than adequate."

Asserting that "alarmists who think we are wide open to attack" are "merely the victims of nightmares of ignorance," Gen. Parsons said "America can be defended by an army and navy of moderate size."

Favors Defense Criticism.

"We need criticism of our defense plans," he said. "We need attacks on the general staff. The staff, you know, is extremely vocal. Often its opinions are the only ones heard in Washington.

"There is a danger that a small group may dominate defense preparations. It is right that the staff should decide much and have the ears of congress. It is not right that it should be the only voice. It is not infallible."

For youths under 21, Gen. Parsons advocated "a vigorous athletic program" to "harden" the nation.

"We need calm intelligence," he asserted, "as perhaps we have never needed it before. Two of the steps I am arguing for have been proven recently in the European war. Impartial observers time after time have commented on the superior stamina of the German soldiers, a stamina that has made them able to carry out blitzkrieg drives.

Cites British Muddling.

"The war also has shown the necessity for central command. The British were licked in Narvik because coördination was lacking. If the air forces didn't feel like flying, the army was left without protection against strafing. If the navy decided to take a cruise, the army was stranded. We must guard against this muddling here."

The veteran officer called "broomstick brigades" as "useless and even juvenile," saying that he had seen pictures of men drilling with broomsticks and pieces of wood.

"Their intentions are good but their heads are weak," he continued. "Wars are not won by drilling. These men would be of greater service if they did a little reading on military topics so that they could play an intelligent rôle in our national defense plans."

KING OF SWEDEN URGES BIG EFFORT TO KEEP FREEDOM

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 2 (AP).—King Gustaf V., in a speech from the throne convoking a special parliament session today, declared Sweden's foreign policy unchanged and said he was continuing his efforts to "hold my country aloof from war while conserving its liberty and independence." The legislators walked from parliament to the castle to hear the king's address. The ruler declared the nation must use its productive resources to take "care of our state of preparation, exterior as well as interior."

YANK FIGHTERS REACH BRITAIN IN CANADIAN FORCE

Recruits Come from Many Parts of U. S.

A NORTHERN BRITISH PORT, England, Aug. 2 (AP).—The forces guarding embattled Britain were reinforced today when a contingent of the Canadian active services forces reached here.

Maj. Gen. Victor Odlum.

The Canadians—with a liberal sprinkling of Americans—crossed the Atlantic in an armada of ocean liners, under escort of bristling navy guns and with the friendly drone overhead of British planes. Not once had they sighted a German plane.

As he led the contingent ashore, Maj. Gen. Victor Odlum, commander of the 2d Canadian division, declared that until the British take the offensive into Germany "we cannot feel we have done our duty."

One former member of the Michigan legislature said his brigade included a number from the United States.

David Croll, the Windsor, Ont., mayor who received the king and queen on their visit last year, remarked he was "happy" to be in an enlisted man's uniform. Croll is chairman of the trust fund for the Dionne quintuplets.

Some of the United States members had hitch-hiked their way up and across the continent to Canadian recruiting stations.

There was a scattering of Indians and Negroes.

Medical Goods Still May Go to China Over Burma Road

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP).—Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs R. A. Butler disclosed today that Red Cross and medical supplies could still be sent to China over the Burma road despite the recent British agreement with Japan to ban movement of war materials over the highway for three months. In a written answer to a member of parliament Butler said Red Cross and medical supplies were not included in the deal.

REGISTRATION HIT AS A 'DRAFT' BY MONTREAL MAYOR

Refuses to Sign; Asks People to Revolt.

BY JOHN STURDY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 2.—Declaring himself opposed to national registration for home defense, which he termed a measure of conscription, Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal today said he had no intention of registering himself. He urged the people of Montreal to follow his lead.

Mayor Houde's public statement placed him in a serious position, which the fiery mayor said he realized. His detention by dominion authorities is a possibility.

Nation To Register All Adults.

The mayor, a member of the Quebec legislature, issued the statement after he had asked the city executive committee to revoke permits for the use of municipal buildings as registration bureaus. Canada will register every man and woman in the country for home defense beginning Aug. 15. In October it will start calling up 300,000 men for military training for the same purpose at the rate of 30,000 a month. Overseas service is voluntary.

Long an opponent of conscription, Mayor Houde said: "I declare myself peremptorily against national registration. It is unequivocably a measure of conscription, and the government [federal] recently elected declared by the mouths of all its chieftains . . . that there would be no conscription under any form whatsoever.

Asks People To Follow.

"Parliament, according to my belief, has no mandate to vote conscription. I do not myself believe that I am held to conform to the said law, and I have no intention of doing so; and I ask the population not to conform, knowing what I am doing, and to what I expose myself."

Offices for Canada's compulsory registration already have been set up in Canada.

POLISH STEAMER IN BRITISH PORT; ELUDED GERMANS

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP).—The 1,864 ton Polish steamer Kroman has arrived in a British port after escaping from Dakar, French port in Senegal, under the very noses of Germans who had arrived to seize her, the admiralty announced today.

The Kroman had been immobilized by the removal of a vital part of her machinery, the admiralty said, but the captain made a makeshift replacement and steamed out of the harbor after learning of the arrival of the Germans by air.

"By improvisation and engineering skill the engines of the Kroman were made to work," an admiralty communique said. "She then escaped thruout the harbor defenses and on reaching the open sea set her course for a British port. All of this was accomplished altho there were no charts on board."

Warplanes, Believed Italian, Drop Bombs Near Gibraltar

LA LINEA, Spain, Aug. 2 (AP).—Warplanes, presumably Italian, flew high over Gibraltar today and dropped bombs near Punta Europe [Europa Point, at the southernmost tip of the great British fortress]. The bombs appeared to fall into the water. There was no report of any damage.

THE RURAL STILL LOSES HONORED PLACE IN FRANCE

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Aug. 2.—Whatever is the nature of the new French constitution when it is finally elaborated by the government of Marshal Henri Petain, a drastic social change already is beginning to manifest itself in this country, only five weeks after the armistice with the Germans.

The first developments of a corporative form of government may be discerned in a crop of decree laws regulating the conduct of life. Two recent edicts are illustrative. The moonshine edict went into effect today and it is the most revolutionary and audacious act of the Petain cabinet.

Abolish Distilling Privilege.

It abolishes the privileges heretofore held by a Frenchman who had an apple orchard, a vineyard, or other fruit to distill 11 quarts of pure alcohol for his own consumption. Or he could distill 22 quarts of apple jack, brandy, or whatever it might be, of 50 degrees strength without obligation to pay any tax. The idea was that he had the right to make this much for his own consumption. Under no circumstances was he to sell or distribute it.

The system had abuses here as it did in the Kentucky hills, and several times the right to distill was abolished by an ambitious government only to be restored by crafty politicians and moonshiners who were intent upon holding their trade.

In recent years it was almost possible to make a cabinet fall by interfering with the moonshiners' racket, so consequently they generally were allowed to go along.

Alcoholism Is Prevalent.

The result was a large amount of alcoholism in the country districts. When a man called for a horse trade or a deal of any kind it was clinched by shooting down a tumbler of moonshine, maybe before breakfast. Some of the moonshine also found its way to village cafes.

Another edict aims to reduce all waste in milk production and distribution in view of the lean years it is feared the country is facing. But no new functionaries, political or otherwise, are created by the act. In this respect the French organization differs from its Fascist model, which usually had a member of the party as a delegate to all corporations.

The sole connection with the government apparently is a central committee which acts in accord with the ministry of agriculture and will be somewhat under its direction. Appeals apparently may be made to this committee and to the agriculture minister.

Control of Butter and Cheese.

The milk corporation also will have control over milk by-products, such as butter and cheese, and also the determination of prices for these products. Similar edicts, it is expected, will be issued later dealing with other phases of agricultural production. It is planned eventually to harness all production, including industrial, to the corporate principle adapted to suit the peculiar French conditions.

Minister of Agriculture Caziot today warned the country to expect a hard winter and advised all Frenchmen who could remain in the country to avoid returning to the big towns. Sugar, meat, and vegetable oil supplies will be meager and rationing daily will become more severe, he said.

French Song Writer Dies in Airplane Accident

PARIS, July 29 [Delayed] (AP via Berlin].—Charles Trent, one of France's most popular singers and song writers, has been killed in an airplane accident, the newspaper Paris Soir said today. There were no details. His songs, including "Boom" and "I Sing," were played in many countries.

SMILES, CURSES, AND SOBS—DRAMA OF WAR REFUGEES

Workers Trickle Back to Homes in France.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, July 31 [Delayed].—The question of the French government's return to Paris still hangs fire. Details have not been settled. The cabinet ministers come and go.

A steady stream of refugees flows back each day. Some days the stream is heavy, on others it is diminished. It has slackened somewhat since the Germans designated five zones of occupied France and stopped the trains across the demarcation line. The trickle slowed down greatly, but the trains have been restored and the refugees are returning to two of the five zones.

Most of the returning refugees are civil servants, workers, and farm laborers. They must possess repatriation certificates issued by French authorities and visaed by the German commander.

Speculate on Luck.

The middle classes have less chance of getting back quickly than the workers. In unoccupied France cafés and public places are filled with persons waiting and speculating on their luck in getting a repatriation certificate.

Strange scenes take place in railway stations along the line of the frontier between unoccupied and occupied France. Sometimes groups arrive and are told their papers are not in good order. Then again they learn that the regulations have been changed suddenly. Their protests are in vain. Women cry and men swear. But they wait.

Today French papers said that holders of repatriation certificates in Vichy or Clermont-Ferrand between the numbers 2,527 and 2,795 could get a place on a train.

Faces Register Joy.

It is difficult to describe the joy and satisfaction registered on faces of persons when they find that they have been allowed to return home.

Several hundred of thousands of refugees probably have returned. But that is only the beginning. Minister of the Interior Adrien Marquet announced a week ago that 4,000,000 French refugees and 1,500,000 Belgians are on this side of the barrier.

The question of prisoners is hardly less serious for French families. Probably 2,000,000 soldiers or men of military age are in prison camps. Their families are trying desperately to get word about them or send them packages. Two types of prisoners exist—those in Germany and those in camps in France. Communication with the men in camps in France is difficult. Every day newspapers print long lists of names of men known to be in camps in the occupied regions of France, thus reassuring their relatives and arranging facilities for communication.

Bewildered by Changes.

Most of the Paris papers are printed in Clermont-Ferrand, Limoges, Marseilles, and other cities. Their correspondents describe scenes in Paris under the German rule.

A writer for the newspaper Le Figaro says, "You cannot see how painful has been the defeat until you have seen Paris. For a thousand years Paris has been the mirror of France and its history. The hard moments do not come from the immediate aspects of the occupation. Contacts between the German army and the Paris people are correct and, in fact, some signs reveal a phenomena in the occupation that does not at all correspond to the traditional ideas. [He seems to mean the Parisians are too cordial to the Germans.]"

He said the German army controls the city, while the French administer its affairs.

He describes Paris as an empty shell with its former life gone. Hundreds of stores, movie houses, and cafés are barred and shuttered.

The writer complains that the German bands play everywhere. He heard a band concert in front of the Notre Dame cathedral. He remarks it seemed unfitting, with church services going on at the same time.

Persons stay in their own quarter of the city. Some have not yet seen a German soldier. The curfew rings at 11 o'clock and the city is plunged into darkness, for the Germans are still waging war with England.

Jails Husband

MRS. IRENE KORUBA.

Edward Koruba, 27 years old, who talked his way out of jail two weeks ago, was ordered jailed all over again yesterday by Judge Denis Normoyle in the Superior court. An attachment for his arrest was issued when he failed to appear in court and report on progress in paying up $180 in arrears on support for a son, Lance, 3.

Norman Becker, attorney for Mrs. Irene Koruba, 24, of 5738 South Paulina street, told Judge Normoyle that Koruba had paid nothing since the previous hearing. At that time Koruba persuaded his former wife, who divorced him last Nov. 30, that if he were jailed he would also fall behind on payments for the support of another child by a prior marriage, and his first wife would be able to send him to jail in her turn.

BERLIN GUNS FIRE AS A NAZI FLYER TAKES A JOYRIDE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—A burst of anti-aircraft fire echoed thru the Wilhelmstrasse and halls of the foreign office this noon as foreign newspaper correspondents were attending a press conference.

After the meeting everybody went out to scan the horizons for British flyers. Some said they saw a small biplane circling above Berlin. Later it was explained that light antiaircraft guns on the roofs of higher buildings went into action in several sections of the capital when persons detected a plane flying at a low altitude and apparently on a joy ride.

Air force sources said the plane was a German training plane. They said it probably was flown by a young pilot on a solo flight. They indicated the flyer would be punished with about one week's detention.

Chile to Buy U. S. Planes for Use of Army Pilots

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 2.—Chilean military aviators will be trained for the first time in American planes, it was announced today, after decision to purchase immediately a number of ships in the United States. An American air commission has been here for two months acting as expert advisors. Because of the war in Europe, Chile has been unable to obtain repair parts for training planes, a majority of which are German and Italian.

GERMANS REVEAL HOW THEY RULE JEWS IN POLAND

2 Year Service in Shovel Gang Is Required.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The Germans today revealed a few details about the treatment of Jews in former Poland, which is now under German supervision. To date no foreign correspondents have been allowed to travel freely in this area.

The Germans assert they chose the "ghetto system for the Jews in Poland because it is more practical and could be enforced quicker."

All Jews and Jewesses above the age of 10 must wear a wide white armband marked with the star of David.

Compulsory labor has been introduced for the Jewish population.

Two Years of Service.

"For this purpose," the Germans explained, "the Jews were divided into working groups headed by a Jew who is responsible to the German authorities. As a rule, the compulsory labor service is for two years. In this time the Jews are to do physical work with spades and shovels."

Jewish working centers have also been created in which artisans are to work together. A Jewish council takes care of the administrative work. It is compelled to take the orders of the German authorities and is responsible for their enforcement.

Governor General Hans Frank, whom Fuehrer Adolf Hitler placed in charge of former Poland, is the absolute ruler of this region.

Limit Clothes of Refugees.

BERLIN, Aug. 2 (AP).—A general tightening of restrictions affecting Jews in Germany was marked today by regulations issued to emigrants forbidding them to carry out of the country more than two suits of clothes, one pair of overalls, one sweater and one overcoat.

Hitherto the emigrating Jew could invest his remaining reichsmarks in personal equipment calculated to relieve him of worries in the country of his adoption. Now he may take only the most essential items of wear.

Under the new regulations an adult Jewess, for instance, may take along two dresses, two robes, two aprons, one pullover, one raincoat or costume, one winter coat or cape, and essentials of other clothing, bedding, towels, etc.

Limit Shopping Hours.

For Jews unable to emigrate—and very few can make the grade now—further restrictions are ordered. Jews here may purchase their necessities only between 4 and 5 p. m. They complain it often is impossible to complete shopping within an hour when long queues are standing.

Jewish telephone subscribers received notices today canceling their service save in the cases of doctors, nurses and hospitals. Where Jews have extensions to apparatus subscribed to by Aryans the latter were requested to sever the connections. Jewish hospitals have been forbidden to paint the red cross on their roofs.

Before the present hostilities began, Adolf Hitler stated publicly that another war would mean the elimination of the Jews.

This dictum, apparently, is being made true with unrelenting persistence.

MRS. BETTY LEWERENZ.

Dr. Carl T. Lewerenz, 41 years old, of 6641 South Francisco avenue, obtained an attachment from Judge Oscar F. Nelson in the Superior court yesterday for the arrest of his former wife, Betty, whom he accused of disappearing with their son, William, 3, whose custody was awarded him last May 13.

Mrs. Lewerenz obtained a divorce last December and at that time was granted custody of the child. The order of custody was changed last spring after the physician said she had gone to British Columbia and married a wealthy prospector. Dr. Lewerenz said that she called last week at his home and asked to take their son for a walk but never returned.

SANK BRITISH SUB, HIT BATTLESHIPS, ITALIANS CLAIM

ROME, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Italian high command in its communique today reported an Italian destroyer last night sank the 1,500 ton English submarine Oswald and took prisoner 52 men of its 55 man crew, including the commander, Capt. David Frazer. The communique said the destroyer Ugolino Vivaldi sank the submarine by ramming it and then finishing it off with a torpedo.

The high command also said an enemy naval squadron of two battleships, two aircraft carriers, and small vessels from Gibraltar was bombed intensely by Italian planes and that "several ships are known to have been hit, including a battleship."

The communique claimed the planes set fire to the battleship, but admitted one Italian plane failed to return. The attack took place near the Balearic Islands, northeast of Gibraltar.

NEW RUMANIAN CABINET WEIGHS ANTI-JEW LAW

Debates Proposals in Two Hour Session.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 2.—A two hour cabinet meeting today was devoted to deciding the future status of Jews in Rumania. Indications of the line the law will take are becoming clearer, tho today's communique said simply that the bill was studied. Five main points certain to be included are:

FIRST—Jews will be barred from various professions and businesses.

SECOND—They will be expelled from the army.

THIRD—They will be forbidden to become Christians or conceal their origin.

FOURTH—They will be forbidden to own farmlands.

FIFTH—They will be made to pay special taxes.

Barred from Journalism.

The first and third points already are in force. Jews have been barred from newspaper work and newspapers owned by them have been forced to cease publication. The ministries of the interior, of culture, and of communications have dismissed all Jewish employés. Today the ministry of propaganda was added to that list.

Most public institutions already have dismissed all Jewish doctors and obstetricians, and Jewish school teachers have been eliminated.

There has been no violence against Jews in most parts of Rumania in the present anti-Semitic campaign, but refugees who arrived here from Bukovina and Bessarabia, after they were ceded to Russia last month, reported Jews were beaten and even shot by retreating Rumanian soldiers.

Disastrous Experience.

Anti-Jewish feeling always has been strong in Rumania, where the Jews form about one twentieth of the population. A disastrous experience under the Octavian Goga anti-Semitic government in the winter of 1938, however, taught the Rumanians to go easy on anti-Semitism. At that time sweeping anti-Jewish measures disrupted the country's business and banking and damaged its credit.

Germany, anxious to be sure that nothing happens in this part of Europe at present, has warned the new Rumanian régime to go slowly. Nevertheless, the Rumanian Jews know they are in for a bad time, especially the estimated 500,000 who have come here since 1914. They are looked upon as most undesirable and will be treated most severely.

FRENCH ARMY COURT SENTENCES DE GAULLE TO DEATH AS TRAITOR

VICHY, France, Aug. 2 (AP).—France's historic trial of the old military and political leaders now blamed by the new régime for her disastrous defeat in the war will begin at nearby Riom on Aug. 8 before a quasi-civil, quasi-military national Supreme court.

This was announced today almost simultaneously with the action of a wholly military court in Clermont-Ferrand in condemning to death Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who refused to join in the surrender ordered by the government of Marshal-Premier Petain.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

[In London, De Gaulle said, "I consider the act of the Vichy men as void; I shall have an explanation with them after the victory."]

De Gaulle, who has formed a provisional French committee in England to carry on the struggle against Germany, was tried and convicted in his absence. He remained in London, working on Britain's side, while charges of treason and desertion in wartime were laid against him.

IRISH PROTEST NAZI BOMBING OF BRITISH SHIP

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Irish government information bureau announced tonight that the Irish charge d'affairés in Berlin had been instructed to protest and claim compensation for the aerial bombing of a British ship in Irish waters yesterday.

The Irish information bureau said the small British steamer Kerry Head had been attacked and damaged by a German bomber near the entrance to Oyster Haven, County Cork.

Altho Lloyd's gives the 825 ton Kerry Head's registration as British, her home port is Limerick and it was reported here that she flies the Irish flag.

BRITISH BOMBERS BLAST AWAY AT GERMAN TARGETS

Renew Raids After Claim of Great Success.

LONDON, Aug. 3. Saturday (AP).—The Bremen radio suddenly shut down late last night, indicating stern continuation of the British air raids on Germany—raids which the British declare have scored smashing successes against supply dumps, ports, airdromes, and war industries in more than 100 German cities. With such raids the British hope to sap at its roots any Nazi blitzkrieg.

At the same time German planes sped back to Britain, being reported over the northwestern area early today.

Shipping off the southeast coast was attacked by bombers and spurts of water were seen around ships several miles out. Two German bombers also flew low over the southeast coast but turned back to sea in the face of defensive fire.

German planes dropped a salvo of bombs in a district of southeast Scotland, the bomb blasts being followed by a single explosion. The objective was not disclosed.

The German port of Hamburg, biggest in all Europe, was pictured in virtual ruins by authoritative British sources—the result of three months of intermittent royal air force blasting.

Score Several Hits.

The great Krupp arms works at Essen, supply depots, synthetic oil plants, and airdromes in western Germany and Holland were the latest targets reported attacked.

The Krupp works, said the Air Ministry News service, were pounded with bombs for five minutes. The raiders, it was added, "scored several hits on the works and started fires which could plainly be seen by observers until at 11,000 feet our aircraft entered the clouds."

The air ministry said that R. A. F. raiders by day struck a hangar and strafed grounded German planes at the airdromes of Leeuwarden and Haamstede in the Netherlands Thursday.

Thursday night British squadrons swept in on western Germany and loosed bombs on synthetic oil plants at Gelsenkirchen, Kamen, Homburg, and Reisholz; the Krupp works, supply depots at Hamm, Krefeld, and Mannheim, and several airdromes in northwestern Germany.

"The damage inflicted on the oil targets is believed to be considerable," the ministry communique said.

All the night raiders returned, it was said, but one plane was missing from the daylight attack on the two Dutch airdromes.

French Join in Attack.

French airmen took part in the attacks Thursday night on German objectives, their chief objective being the oil plant at Kamen, said a communique from Gen. Charles de Gaulle, whom Britain has recognized as the leader of all "free" Frenchmen. De Gaulle has been condemned to death in absentia by a military court in Clermont-Ferrant, France.

German planes dropped bombs during the night in northeast Scotland, the Midlands, southeast England, and the Bristol channel area on England's west coast, the air ministry announced today. In a town in the Bristol channel area some bombs fell in a residential district, damaged a church, a school, and other buildings and caused a few minor casualties, the communique said.

One German bomber was believed downed yesterday in the sea off Scotland after dropping 9 high explosive and 40 incendiary bombs on a golf course.

Other German raiders bombed scattered points in Wales, eastern Scotland, and East Anglia Thursday night.

British bombers reported the bombardment of a wireless station and the crippling of a German supply ship off Norway and a "successful" daylight attack on Cherbourg, France, yesterday. Three British planes were reported lost.

Only a Sample of Damage.

The damage at Hamburg, a city of more than 1,000,000 population which handles an annual peacetime traffic of 17,000,000 tons, is only a sample of destruction wrought by British bombs dumped by day and night on hundreds of objectives, authoritative sources said.

The lesser port of Bremen, home of huge shipyards, miles of docks, and its big Focke-Wulf airplane factory; the Kiel and Wilhelmshaven naval bases, and Cologne, continental traffic center, have drawn a large share of attention from British airmen carrying the war to Germany.

In all, the British reported more than 1,000 German objectives bombed in more than 3,000 raids "of genuine weight and importance" to date. This, they asserted, is the answer which is being given with increasing vigor to Adolf Hitler's threat of invasion.

British Harbors Intact.

The British declared their harbors, including Dover, remained intact despite unending German forays, altho casualties and damage have resulted inland. Nevertheless, many of Britain's prewar channel and North sea ports have been closed because of the danger to shipping in the mine and submarine infested channel waters.

Britons studied almanacs for a clew to the launching of the expected German invasion. Based on the periods when the tides will be highest, the almanac says if it is coming this month the best times would be next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings.

The next best times to take advantage of the tides for landing troops would be from the second to the seventh of September; third choice would be Oct. 1-6, then Oct. 30-Nov. 4.

British Buy Hitler Leaflets as Souvenirs at 10c Each

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP).—Souvenir collectors paid six pence [about 10 cents] apiece for Adolf Hitler's leaflets dropped in southwestern England last night. The proceeds were donated to the Red Cross.

Seize Bandit After Chase

Captions on the map explain action in the robbery yesterday of Cicero company and the police pursuit of the bandits, which ended in the capture of one.

POLICE CAPTURE 1 OF 4 BANDITS IN WILD GUN CHASE

Three Others Seize Auto.

One was found cowering under a porch at 4145 West End avenue. He said he was Joseph Kostek, 23 years old, 608 North Paulina street. The three others who fled the crash on foot seized another car at Keeler avenue and Washington boulevard by threatening the owner, George Quinn, 523 Washington boulevard, with a sawed off shotgun and forcing him out of his machine.

The gang left behind in the wrecked car a .38 caliber Spanish type blue steel revolver, a .45 caliber Colt nickel plated revolver, a .20 gauge sawed off shotgun, and a large supply of shells and cartridges.

Kostek confessed his part in the robbery to Chief Martin Wojciechowski and Acting Capt. Ben Babka of the Cicero police. He said he knew two of his companions only as "Dago" and "Jimmy" and did not know the other's name.

Linked to Tribune Holdup.

Investigators last night worked on the possibility that the holdup was the work of the same gang that on July 19 robbed and shot Harry Walsh, chief of the Tribune guards, in a payroll holdup at St. Clair and Illinois streets. Several clews pointing in this direction were uncovered by Cicero police and Capt. Thomas Harrison of the East Chicago avenue station.

Descriptions of the automobile used in the Tribune holdup tally in every particular with the one used yesterday. It was a 1937 black two door Ford sedan, highly polished, with only one seat, the driver's, in front. The car abandoned by the Hurley robbers had a folded mattress behind the back seat to absorb the bullets of pursuers.

Some of the shooting in the Walsh holdup was done with a Spanish type .38 caliber revolver such as was left behind by the robbers yesterday. Shotgun blasts were fired into the Tribune car; loaded duck shells with special chilled steel pellets were found on the street at the scene. Similar shells were in the Hurley bandits' car.

The car has a secret, steel lined front compartment which Chief Wojciechowski discovered operates by means of an electrical contact in the glove compartment. The motor seemed to have been stepped up for extra speed.

One of the bandits who got away yesterday, believed to be the man referred to by Kostek as "Dago," was a swarthy 200 pounder, whose description answers that of one of the men who robbed Walsh.

NAZIS CLAIM GUNS ON LAND DOWNED 1,230 WARPLANES

Report New Exploits by Air-Sea Raiders.

BERLIN, Aug. 2 (AP).—This capital rejoiced tonight over reaffirmation of Russian friendship for Germany, new exploits of Nazi air and sea raiders and the reassurance of an antiaircraft defense credited with destruction of 1,230 planes since the war began.

The foreign policy address yesterday by Vyacheslav Molotov, soviet premier and foreign commissar, was welcomed by authorized spokesmen. They declared it left no doubt that any attempt to create a strain in Russian-German relations was doomed.

The high command took increasing note of British air force incursions over Germany and the continent, but minimized the results.

Report 8 Planes Shot Down.

All eight planes of a British bomber squadron which attempted to raid the German held French airport at Querville, near Cherbourg, yesterday afternoon were reported shot down by Messerschmitt pursuit planes and antiaircraft batteries.

[The British announced a "successful" raid on the Cherbourg airport and acknowledged loss of three planes.]

British planes repeated their almost nightly attacks on western Germany last night but the high command said the bombs "caused no military damage but caused considerable damage to houses in the vicinity of Cologne, killing and injuring a number of civilians."

Two British planes were reported downed in an air fight over the Netherlands yesterday, the high command announced, bringing the Aug. 1 losses for Britain to 10 planes against one acknowledged missing by Germany.

Reports Sinking 14 Ships.

The high command marked up to the credit of a submarine commander, Lieut. Capt. Wilhelm Rollman, in two recent trips to sea, destruction of a British submarine, a British destroyer and 12 armed merchant ships totaling 74,338 tons.

[The sinking of the destroyer, The Whirlwind, had been reported earlier both by Germany and Britain.]

The daily communique also reflected the continuous pressure of the air force against British shipping in St. George channel and off Yarmouth, and inland objectives. It claimed that "big fires and several explosions" resulted in a raid yesterday on an airplane factory in Norwich, England.

Authorized sources, tabulating the achievements of antiaircraft artillery thru 11 months of the war just ended said that of 1,230 planes shot down, 1,071 were destroyed between May 10 and June 24—the period of intensive warfare in the Low Countries and France.

WATCHES BRITISH TROOPS DRILL TO SMASH INVASION

Big Guns Boom, as Tho Nazis Were Coming.

BY DREW MIDDLETON.

WITH THE BRITISH FIELD ARMY'S NORTHERN COMMAND, Aug. 2 (AP).—British soldiers maneuvered across three counties thruout this long, hot day, simulating as closely as possible the situation they expect when Germany strikes.

Guns battered targets far out at sea, and on land the chatter of machine guns and the clatter of tanks provided something of a preview of possible invasion to the silent Yorkshire civilians.

Reviewing the work tonight, Lieut. Gen. Sir Ronald Adam, chief of the northern command, declared that the army, radically altered in organization and tactics, "is ready to fight and whip the best Germany can send against it."

Greatly Improved Army.

Praising the army morale, he remarked, "You know the Parisian shopkeepers have an old adage, 'Beware of a mad Englishman.' Well, there are a couple million mad Englishmen in khaki.

"This army is 50 per cent better than that which went to France in September. I'll go further! In training, equipment, and morale it is better than our armies of 1914-'18. The last six weeks have saved us.

"The response of the nation to our wants has been tremendous. We are getting a steady supply of guns, tanks, armored cars, small arms, and ammunition.

"Some American 75s are here, and we expect more. We can use them."

Speedy Expansion Difficult.

"It took Hitler seven years to produce the present German army," he said. "We are quite pleased with what we have done in one. In two years we will have revolutionized the army."

It was evident that much lethargy and conservatism had been shaken out of this army by its experiences at Dunkirk and along the Somme. Instead of light hearted young men to whom war is a great adventure, there are men soberly planning to blow up their homes, shell the towns they were born in, and destroy the fields and beaches on which they played as boys.

Miles of Barbed Wire.

This once gay seacoast has been transformed into one long death trap, festooned with miles of barbed wire, lined with great concrete and stone blockhouses and tank traps, and armed with guns from machine guns to large caliber cannon.

Watching the biggest guns smash a target far out at sea, I asked an artillery officer if they could be used on a village nestling on the shore if the Germans should gain a foothold there.

"We'd blow it to bits," he replied.

I remarked that it seemed a pity, it was such a pretty village.

"I know it is," he said. "I was born there and have lived there all my life."

Ontario Moves to Recruit Schoolboys' Farm Army

TORONTO, Ont., Aug 2 (AP).—The Ontario government moved tonight to organize hundreds of schoolboys between 12 and 17 years old, into a land army known as "soldiers of the soil," to bolster wartime farm production. All high schools will be kept closed until Oct. 1 and primary schools at least until Sept. 15.

REPORT SHOPS OWNED BY JEWS SMASHED BY MOBS AT NICE, FRANCE

Arrow indicates Nice, where disorders occurred.

BERLIN, Aug. 2 (AP).—The German radio said today that anti-Jewish demonstrations were reported to have occurred on a large scale last night at Nice, France.

The radio quoted the newspaper Eclaireur de Nice as saying that large plate glass windows of Jewish owned shops and department stores of Nice were smashed by demonstrators, who wrote such slogans as "Down with the Jews and Free Masons," in large red letters on entrances. Demonstrators who were arrested declared that in their view the Jews were to blame for France's disaster.

YIELDING OF LAND STIRS NEW HATE, RUMANIA IS TOLD

Peasant Chief Fights Hungary's Claim.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 2 (AP).—Rumania will open territorial concession talks with Bulgaria next Wednesday when Ivan Popov and Dobri Bojilov, Bulgarian foreign and finance ministers, arrive here, informed diplomatic sources said tonight.

Issue Warning Circulars.

While the government sought some plan to settle both issues, circulars opposing any cession of Rumanian territory were distributed tonight warning against creating "new hates instead of peace" in southeastern Europe.

Juliu Maniu, leader of 5,000,000 Rumanian peasants, told his followers that the Transylvanian area should be set up as an autonomous state, "even if under Russian protection," rather than go back to the Hungarians, who owned it before the world war.

Bulgaria claims southern Dobruja.

Bulgar Cabinet Meets.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 2 (AP).—The cabinet met today for the purpose, it was reliably reported, of choosing a delegation to begin discussions with Rumania over Bulgaria's demand for the return to this country of the southern Dobruja.

Growing impatience and suspicion that Rumania may be working for delay in starting the negotiations was noticeable in official quarters, and it was reported that additional cavalry was moved to the Rumanian frontier.

Hungary Warns Foreign Press.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 2 (AP).—The foreign press bureau warned foreign newspaper correspondents today against reporting news "which is either against Germany or Italy or which is in opposition with known political principles and policies of the axis."

Diplomatic sources interpreted the prohibition as a frank move to fit Hungarian censorship into accord with the censorships of the axis.

The foreign office statement, read by telephone to the correspondents, warned them "to avoid every such report which tries to contrast differences between the axis and Russia, or which seeks to show that the axis is endeavoring to subjugate smaller nations."

The Life Story of Fighting Billy Mitchell

"Nothing has so changed war as the airplane," said Brigadier General William Mitchell way back in 1926. "You can't dig a hole in the air and sit around in it."

How Mitchell fought to convince America that only adequate planes would save the country from invasion will be the subject of a color-illustrated article by William Shinnick in tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

Read how Mitchell wanted planes able to cruise 6,000 miles, what he thought of pilot training methods, how his theories of bombings, naval defense and modern warfare have been borne out by current developments.

EXPECT FRICTION WITH AMERICA, SAYS JAP LEADER

Predicts Difficulty Over Dutch Colonies.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Aug. 3, Saturday (AP).—The arrest of a number of Japanese subjects in the British empire was confirmed in authoritative quarters today. These sources said the arrests were made under the defense of the realm act, but were in no sense "reprisals" for the arrests of British subjects in Japan.

TOKIO, Aug. 2 (AP).—Friction may develop between the United States and Japan over the rich rubber resources of the Dutch East Indies, Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, who is expected to head a Japanese mission to the Indies shortly, told Japanese reporters today.

Koiso until recently was overseas minister and is a former garrison commander in Corea. He is a powerful exponent of Japanese expansion.

Koiso said "the rubber of the East Indies is indispensable for the industry of the United States and therefore the question may give rise to friction. The solution of this problem depends, however, on our decision."

Says Colonies Are Oppressed.

"The East Indies as a colony [of Holland] long have been oppressed and exploited," Koiso said. "We cannot tolerate such a condition in view of the principles on which we are establishing the new order in East Asia.

"It is necessary to emancipate the oriental races and we are destined to solve this problem.

"It may be said that the oil, rubber and tin produced in the East Indies control the world markets. We do not intend to monopolize these natural resources but it is necessary to make sure that they are disposed of impartially."

The Dutch Indies now are governed by a local colonial administration which has little contact with the government of the German-occupied homeland.

Japs Reported Seized in London.

Japanese newspapers tonight reported that British authorities had arrested Japanese business executives in London. The papers said the arrests were "regarded as retaliation" for the arrest of British citizens in Japan's antiespionage campaign.

Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, declined comment pending reports from the Japanese embassy in London. Japanese authorities recently charged the British with maintaining an espionage system in Japan. The British denied it.

Wave of Crime in Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Shanghai consular body today urged the Shanghai municipal council to "eradicate and suppress all forms of terrorism" in the city where an assassination, an attempted slaying, and a kidnaping occurred earlier in the day.

In a lengthy meeting the consular officials called for complete coöperation between the police of the International Settlement and the foreign defense forces, of which a regiment of the United States marines is a part.

White Russian Leader Slain.

The meeting of the consular body followed the slaying by a gunman of Charles Metzler, head of the White Russian community. The slaying occurred within the American defense section. Recently Metzler had resisted attempts to reorganize the Russian emigrants committee, which he headed, into a pro-Japanese body.

Metzler was the second high official of C. V. Starr's Asia Insurance Co. to be killed by terrorists. Starr is one of six Americans whose arrest and deportation was ordered last month by the Nanking régime.

A key man in Starr's company, Samuel H. Chang, Chinese businessman, was killed in a Nanking road tea house July 19.

Later today a Chinese gunman tried to kill Sung Zung-doh, manager of the China State bank, but his gun jammed and the banker escaped.

Charge GSP Aids Japan.

LONDON, Aug. 2 (AP).—An authoritative British source today charged the German GSP [secret police], thru a representative in the Japanese home office, which supervises police activities, is wielding influence over Japanese internal affairs.

It also was disclosed that two more British subjects have been arrested in Corea, Japan's colony on the Asiatic mainland, in a continuation of an anti-British campaign against alleged espionage. This left nine prominent Britons in custody. Six others have been released.

GUARD BUREAU CONFIRMS RANK OF GEN. LAWTON

The National Guard bureau in Washington announced yesterday that Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the 33d division, had been officially confirmed in the rank. Col. Thomas Colladay of Michigan was promoted to brigadier general at the same time.

Gen. Lawton, formerly a brigadier general, was given the rank of major general when Gov. Horner on May 4 appointed him to command of the Illinois National Guard, succeeding Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn. The bureau in Washington, which exercises general supervision over all guard matters, had not made the promotion official until yesterday.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the 6th corps area, left by airplane yesterday from the Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview for Camp McCoy, Wis., where he will meet with other officers in preparation of the 2d army maneuvers from Aug. 11 to Aug. 31. Gen. Ford will have charge of the maneuvers.

ASK CAR MAKERS TO BUILD TANKS AND AIR CANNON

Army and Marines' New Plan Told.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—The war department and marine corps are negotiating, it was learned today, with motor manufacturers for the manufacture of aircraft cannon and of light tanks which can be carried aboard men of war.

As a result of lessons learned from the European war, the army is negotiating with General Motors corporation and the Chrysler corporation to take over and operate two aircraft cannon factories, scheduled to be erected by the governmen. within the year.

The marine corps is seeking to place orders for tanks thru the navy ordnance department. The tanks, which will have a speed of 40 miles an hour, are designed to be carried on ships and landed from lighters.

Two Sizes of Cannon.

The army has plans for the manufacture of two light cannon, a 20 mm. weapon and a 37 mm. weapon similar in power to the present antitank gun. These guns would supplement or replace the .30 and .50 caliber machine guns which planes now mount in defensive and offensive armament.

The army also has plans to mount a three inch gun in heavy attack planes. These would function against land objectives rather than other aircraft. Such planes could pound key strategic centers that would be difficult or impossible to reach by ordinary artillery fire.

Maj. Gen. C. M. Wesson, chief of army ordnance, plans to execute contracts for the construction of aircraft cannon plants about Sept. 1. The plants, which would cost about 14 million dollars, would be placed in operation about Sept. 1, 1941.

Present Facilities Limited.

Some 37 mm. aircraft cannon are now being manufactured by the Colt Arms company, but its facilities are limited, Gen. Wesson estimated that it will take from two to three years for the new plants to turn out sufficient aircraft cannon to meet the needs of the army and navy.

The marine corps has 3 million dollars available for expenditures on light tanks, which will cost approximately $20,000 each. The present plans call for sufficient tanks for two marine brigades, and this may later be enlarged to include tanks for a third brigade.

The light tanks would prove a valuable adjunct to the marine corps in any western hemisphere operations in support of the Monroe Doctrine, according to navy experts. The tanks would be valuable not only in landing operations against an enemy but also in establishing shore defenses anywhere in the Americas for resisting an invader.

ADMITS U. S. NAVY LAYS MINES AT PANAMA CANAL

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Aug. 2 (AP).—Rear Admiral Frank H. Sadler, commandant of the fifteenth naval district, said today that four destroyers newly assigned to the Panama Canal entrances were intended to keep shipping out of mined areas.

This was the first direct official acknowledgment that newly-mined areas exist, but the admiral qualified it with the explanation that personnel was being trained in the laying and sweeping of mines.

It was said that the destroyers were not replacements for ships being overhauled, but were temporarily detached from the Atlantic squadron for their present assignment and would return to the squadron upon completion of "the job of seeing that ships entering this area with intent to transit the canal are not subjected to undue hazards." The destroyers are the W. C. Wood, Abel P. Upshur, Herndon, and Welles.

FINLAND TO GIVE KARELIAN EXILES HOMES AND WORK

35,000 to Get Farms Under New Law.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 2.—Four hundred and seventy thousand men who fled their homes in Karelia last March when Finland ceded that territory to the soviet government today welcomed the passage of a bill by the Finnish parliament which furnishes most of them with new farms, homes and working places.

Rather than remain in their homes and become citizens of Russia, the entire population of Finnish Karelia migrated across the new frontier into Finland.

Arno Tuurna, former mayor of Viipuri [Viborg] and a member of parliament, said the new measure embodies sacrifices for every one in Finland. The Karelians, he said, must realize that this is not a provisional measure. He added that there is no reason to hope or rely on outside help for restoration of their former properties and homes.

Aids Small Business Men.

The bill was passed two months after it had been proposed by the Finnish government. It benefits small business men and farm owners. Owners of estates, industrialists, and heads of large business houses, it was said, must reconcile themselves to the loss of a large part of their wealth.

Two million finnmarks [nominally about $40,000] is the maximum compensation which can be obtained by well-to-do individuals and 10,000,000 finnmarks [about $200,000] is the maximum sum which is to be paid to companies and industrial enterprises.

This compensation will take the form of non-negotiable bonds which cannot be used in credit transactions without special permission of the state controler.

Tuurna said he is confident that the Karelians will be satisfied with the measure. He admitted the Karelians are not receiving adequate compensation and said he hoped that parliament would deal with their claims again at a later date.

Create 35,000 Farms.

The law provides for the creation of 35,000 small farms of 80 acres each. Each farmer will receive state help to enable him to construct a two room house and a barn large enough to house two horses and seven cows. The parcelling out of the farms will start this month. The average Karelian farmer will get back almost 75 per cent of what he lost.

Tuurna said the Finns are recovering rapidly from the effects of the war with Russia. Altho Finland fears the development of an unemployment problem this autumn, he said that until now all able bodied men have been kept busy with reconstruction work and in building new fortifications.

"Finland is stronger today than she was last November," he said.

Saved from Lake

An amphibian in which three naval reservists were practicing landings nosed over yesterday when the front end of its pontoon broke open in rough water half a mile off the Great Lakes Naval Training station breakwater. The reservists clung to the craft until a naval crash boat rescued them a few minutes later.

The amphibian, operating from the naval reserve base at Glenview was piloted by Lieut. W. E. Larned, of 1111 Fair Oaks avenue, Oak Park. With him were Seaman William H. Christensen, 1604 22d street, North Chicago, and Radioman Edwin J. Pfiffner, of Cedar Rapids, Ia. None was injured.

After tow lines were attached, the amphibian sank in 20 feet of water. Lieut. Edward Crandall of Great Lakes said that a barge, divers, and a derrick would be used to raise the plane.

FINNISH POLICE CLUB REDS, SAYS RUSSIAN PRESS

MOSCOW, Aug. 2 (AP).—The soviet press charged Finnish police were clubbing pro-Russian workers across the border as the Russian parliament tonight undertook formal incorporation into the U. S. S. R. of three Baltic states and two former Rumanian provinces.

The supreme soviet [parliament], with Josef Stalin in attendance, created the Moldavian union republic—the U. S. S. R.'s 13th member—out of the larger part of Bessarabia, seized from Rumania, and most of the old autonomous Moldavian republic.

The council gave the remainder of Moldavia and Bessarabia, plus the territory of northern Bukovina, gained from Rumania, to the Ukrainian republic of the U. S. S. R. It adjourned until tomorrow, when the incorporation of the Baltic states of Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia may come up.

Incorporation of the Baltic states and Rumanian territory occupied by the Red army will give the soviet union the "powerful voice" of more than 193 million people, Molotov told the supreme soviet, adding that in less than a year Russia has gained more than 23 million people and considerable territory.

Tass, official news agency, declared Finnish police used batons on women and men to break up a meeting in Helsingfors, where demonstrators carried slogans reading, "Long live soviet-Finnish friendship."

That dispatch followed yesterday's warning by Premier Vyacheslav Molotov that Finland must abandon anti-soviet trends if she expects good relations with Russia.

FASHION CONTEST CALLED STEP TO U. S. LEADERSHIP

Stevens Company Official Hails Tribune Goal.

America is on the threshold of seizing leadership from Europe in the last of the finer arts so long dominated by the old country—fashion designing.

This was the statement yesterday of Elmer T. Stevens, vice chairman of Charles A. Stevens & Co., who congratulated THE TRIBUNE upon its national contest to encourage American fashions for American women. The competition comes at just the proper moment to accomplish this purpose, he asserted.

$7,500 in Prizes Offered.

The capture of Paris and its eclipse as the style center of the world brought about THE TRIBUNE's movement, in which all residents of the United States may take part. Prizes for winning designs total $7,500.

"Once upon a time our opera singers had to be foreigners," said Stevens. "Now the casts are studded with brilliant Americans.

"Formerly our great painters were from other countries. Now our galleries of current American art are glorious affairs.

"In architecture Americans have demonstrated tremendous creative and artistic ability. But in fashion, the leadership of Paris, thru ability and tradition, has dominated our thinking and, in some measure, has stifled our creative processes.

Believes in American Talent.

"Now that domination is gone—we say it sadly—and unless American talent comes to the rescue we may flounder for a while. I think that America has the talent and that it will rise to the occasion.

"THE TRIBUNE's competition serves to point out the opportunity, even the necessity, and may well be just the proper impetus at the proper moment to occasion a great revolution in fashion."

American Designs Needed.

"As head of a nationwide wholesale business of which goods is a major division," Freeman said, "I am keenly conscious of the need for America to develop further its own designs and fabrics. This is true, particularly because of the need for clothes appropriately styled to meet the requirements of American women leading normal 'hometown' American lives."

The contest closes on Aug. 15, when all designs and sketches must be in Tribune Tower, Chicago. First prize is $3,000, second, $2,000, and there will be three awards of $500 each. In addition 20 prizes of $50 each will be awarded.

The winners will be made famous by radio and press exploitation. THE TRIBUNE will pay for having the designs made into models, and after the contest these will be sold, the profits, if any, going to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., for charitable distribution.

BRITISH COASTAL SHIP SHOOTS DOWN A PAIR OF HITLER'S BOMBERS

EDINBURGH, Aug. 2 (AP).—The little coastal steamer Highlander moved proudly into port today, the wreckage of a German Heinkel bomber on her deck—one of two planes her merchant sailor gunners brought down early today in a fight off the northeast coast.

They said the other plane fell in flames into the sea. Two of the men on the steamer were wounded. The pilot of the first Heinkel apparently fell into the sea.

"We heard bombers circling over the ship," said the first mate, describing the action, "and one of them opened fire on us with cannon and machine guns.

"Our boys held their fire until they got the plane in their sights, then gave it a fast burst."

The first bomber crashed, and the other, after machine gunning the steamer, made off. Half an hour later it was back, the mate said, but the ship's gunners got it almost at once. The plane caught fire as it fell nearby, and flames momentarily menaced the ship, but were extinguished.

Germany and Jugo-Slavia Sign Trade Agreement

BERLIN, Aug. 2 (AP).—Signing of a German-Jugo-Slav trade agreement aimed at increasing commerce between the two countries was announced by the Berlin radio today.

British Claim Widespread Success in Bomb Raids on Germany—Port of Hamburg Said to Be Almost in Ruins

RFC LOAN OFFER TIES NEW KNOTS IN TRANSIT SNARL

Bus Line Purchase Also Adds Difficulties.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The conditional offer of a 53 million dollar federal loan to Chicago's traction lines, provided the lines completely revamp their present merger plan, tied new knots yesterday in the long debated traction question.

Traction officials said they were puzzled by the terms of the Reconstruction Finance corporation offer, and were apprehensive of additional strings which it was indicated Jesse H. Jones, RFC boss, plans to tie to his proposition.

Meanwhile, another storm in the involved transit controversy was threatened. Under the proposed unification the new company agrees to buy the Chicago Motor Coach company. It was learned reliably yesterday that the transit lines and bus company officials are considering a purchase price of 10 times earnings or about $8,500,000 for the bus properties.

Call Price Unreasonable.

Several transit officials asserted that a price of $8,500,000 for a public utility whose physical assets are worth only $5,000,000 is highly unreasonable.

They pointed out that whatever cash is used to buy the bus properties will leave just that much less for modernizing the remainder of Chicago's transit facilities.

The Jones' loan offer was announced by Mayor Kelly yesterday on his return from Washington, D. C., where he and Edward E. Brown, spokesman for the transit lines, conferred with Jones, federal loan administrator.

If the loan is made by the RFC it would then have a first lien on all properties in Chicago's transit system. Jones, it was learned, insisted that the transit lines pay cash for the bus company and make the bus properties subject to the RFC's first mortgage.

Terms of the Offer.

Under the RFC's loan terms the proposed unified transit company would have available at the outset only 40 million dollars in cash before buying the bus company, even tho the loan would be for 53 millions.

The RFC's terms require the surface lines to put into the unified transit program $26,480,000 in cash they now have on hand, making combined cash funds available to the new system of $79,480,000.

The RFC's second requirement is the cash payment of $39,861,000 to holders of some of the transit lines' present securities.

These terms puzzled transit officials who pointed out that they will leave less cash available for transit improvements under a 53 million dollar loan than would have been available under the 25 million dollar RFC loan requested by the lines several months ago.

More for Bondholders.

Under the lines' requested loan, the entire 25 millions would have gone into equipment for the benefit of the car riders. Under the RFC's counter proposal, only about $13,500,000 goes for new equipment and the remainder goes to the securities holders.

The RFC plan provides that the first mortgage bondholders of the surface lines, holding $72,720,000 in 5 per cent bonds, would receive in exchange 50 per cent in cash and 50 per cent in bonds of the new company. The new bonds would be 4 per cent income [interest payable only if earned] bonds. Their lien on the properties would be junior to the RFC's claim of 53 millions and their interest payable after interest of 4 per cent, or $2,120,000 a year, is paid on the RFC loan.

The merger plan, previously worked out by securities groups of the surface and elevated lines, would give the surface lines first mortgage bond holders a dollar for dollar exchange in 5 per cent first mortgage bonds of the new company, but no cash.

More Cash Allotted.

The RFC plan also provides for a new allotment to holders of $46,000,000 of the elevated lines' mortgage bonds. Under the lines' plan as previously worked out, these holders would have received $7,002,290 of first mortgage 5 per cent income bonds in the new company. The RFC plan would give them 50 per cent of the proposed new bonds in cash—$3,501,145—and another 50 per cent in the 4 per cent income bonds of the new company.

Altho representatives of the mortgage bondholders who would receive cash under the RFC terms admitted that this would be a long hoped for bonanza, they protested vigorously against another string tacked onto the proposal.

Protest Another Provision.

The protested provision, as outlined by Mayor Kelly, radically changes the terms of compensation to be paid the city by the new company for the use of streets and the subway. The change favors the city but cuts down substantially the bondholders' prospects of receiving their full 4 per cent return on their income bonds, it was charged.

Under the present tentative unified franchise agreement reached by the city and the lines, the city was to receive 1 per cent of the company's revenue [about $600,000 a year] before payment of first mortgage bond interest and another 2 per cent was to be paid if earned after the bond interest.

The RFC plan leaves the first 1 per cent untouched, but makes the other 2 per cent payable to the city before the payment of interest on the new income bonds which will be issued instead of first mortgage bonds.

In effect, the only interest charge ahead of city compensation will be 4 per cent on 53 millions owed the RFC or $2,120,000. Under the previous plan, the city's 2 per cent was junior to $3,600,000 in bond interest plus any interest on modernization loans.

Other Changes Expected.

A spokesman for the transit lines said yesterday that Jones is expected to require further changes in the merger plan. These would affect the distribution of new securities to the present holders of junior securities in the surface and elevated lines. Altho these requirements are expected to be of less significance than the terms affecting the mortgage bondholders, representatives of the junior holders are left in a state of uncertainty until the entire proposal is announced.

The RFC proposal, as well as any purchase price for the bus company, must be approved by the securities holders before the transit unification plan can become effective.

Securities groups have been closely watching the progress of negotiations for the bus company, because the resources of the securities holders must be used to pay for the acquisition.

The valuation of the bus company was contained in a report made for the city a year ago by George E. Goldthwaite, consulting engineer from New York City. Goldthwaite placed the physical value of the bus company's properties, after depreciation, at $5,000,000. He added, however, that the earnings record of the company "would tend to support an argument for more than $8,000,000 of value."

Take Issue With Estimate.

Several traction officials have taken issue with Goldthwaite's theory that the high earnings, now running about $850,000 a year, would justify a high purchase price. They argue that the worth of a public utility is based largely on the cost of the useful property used in the business, and that earnings should be regulated on the basis of the investment.

They say, for example, that if an unfriendly political faction controled the regulatory authorities, a rate case might be introduced against the bus company and its fares might be cut below the present 10 cent rate. The bus company has never been evaluated by a public regulatory commission and has never been subject to a rate investigation since its incorporation in 1924. It is unique in this respect among Chicago public utilities.

Prepare Massmeeting for Peace

Lindy to Arrive Tomorrow for Big Antiwar Meeting

In an enthusiastic meeting last night in the Hotel La Salle, final plans were made for the Keep America Out of War rally to be held tomorrow afternoon in Soldiers' field. It was announced that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, principal speaker at the rally, would arrive tomorrow.

Representatives of 300 organizations sponsoring the gathering cheered the speakers and voted to continue the organization after the Sunday rally.

Avery Brundage, general chairman of the citizens' committee in charge of arrangements, announced that Marion Claire, Chicago soprano, will sing "The Star Spangled Banner" at the opening of the meeting.

Massed Color Presentation.

Another feature will be the massed presentation of colors by color bearers of all American war veterans' organizations. No banners to identify organizations will be permitted in the ceremony, and only the American flag will be permitted to fly.

Then Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], one of the leading noninterventionists in congress, will be introduced by Col. Thomas Gowenlock, head of G-2 [intelligence service] in the first army during the world war. Senator Clark and Col. Gowenlock, buddies in the world war, were active in founding the American Legion.

Lindbergh to Speak.

The principal speaker at the meeting will be Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. He will be introduced by Merrill C. Meigs, Chicago publisher and sportsman flyer. Col. Lindbergh's address will be broadcast from 3:30 to 4 p. m. over W-G-N and the nation-wide Mutual Broadcasting system.

Civil war veterans will be represented at the rally by 11 members of the Grand Army of the Republic headed by Capt. Thomas Ambrose, adjutant general of the G. A. R. He will address the gathering.

A new feature was announced at the meeting last night when William Grace, secretary of the citizens' committee, told the gathering that James Van Zandt, three times commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and now congressman from Pennsylvania, would be present.

Grace asked that all veterans be present in their uniforms.

"It is entirely possible that some stooges might be present to wave red flags," he said, "and we want the veterans present to keep peace at the meeting."

Vote to Continue.

Amid cheers it was voted to continue the organization and a meeting was called for next Friday night at the La Salle hotel to make plans for future organization. It also was voted to take up a collection at Soldiers' field to defray expenses of the rally, making plain to the audience that contributions were purely voluntary.

The organization voted to give any surplus to veterans at Hines hospital. Henry Marquard, past commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, spoke against a proposal from the floor to use the money in future plans of the organization.

"If we need money to carry on the fight to keep America out of war we know we can always tax ourselves," he said. "Let us give any surplus to the veterans at Hines hospital who fought for our country in the last war."

Nonconformer Creeps In.

A flurry was caused in the meeting when S. W. Gould, 4038 North Pulaski road, disturbed those about him with remarks during speeches from the platform.

"I am an interventionist," Gould declared, "and if these people want to punch it out it's O. K. with me."

"Give him his say," some one called. "Remember the saying: 'I do not agree with a word you say, but I will contend to the death your right to say it.'"

Those attending the meeting were warned to cause no trouble, and Gould sat in solitary dignity until the meeting ended.

HEARING IS SET IN ELDER'S SUIT OVER COURT JOB

Judge Oscar F. Nelson in the Superior court yesterday set Aug. 9 for a hearing on quo warranto proceedings challenging the right of Municipal Judge George L. Quilici to a seat on the bench on the basis of a special election June 3 in which balloting was held in only 648 of the city's 3,648 precincts.

The contest was brought by Edgar B. Elder, the defeated Republican candidate, who contended that voters were deprived of their rights by the decision of the board of election commissioners to open only part of the polling places. The board estimated that this resulted in a $275,000 saving.

Quilici received 221,575 votes and Elder 24,399 in a race to fill the vacancy created by the elevation of Judge Joseph A. Graber to the Superior court. J. A. Cobbey, counsel for Elder, said an immediate hearing is necessary so that the candidates' names may be placed on the ballot for the November general election if the election in June is invalidated.

GIRL SWALLOWS TOY JACK; MAY GO UNDER KNIFE

Surgeons at the Englewood hospital were hopeful last night, but by no means certain they would not have to perform an operation to remove a jack [a small six pointed toy] which Donna Jean Schneider, 4 years old, had swallowed.

The child was playing with her twin brother, Donald, in their home at 340 West 59th street, when the jack slipped from her mouth into her throat where it lodged. She choked and her mother, Mrs. Elsie Schneider, called the Englewood police. As a squad car was taking them to the hospital Mrs. Schneider pounded the little girl's back, hoping to dislodge the toy. Instead of coughing it up Donna Jean swallowed it. The hospital staff, after treating her throat, said it might be passed thru the alimentary tract.

Ringling's Ex-Wife Loses Suit to Share in Estate

Tallahassee, Fla., Aug. 2 (AP).—The Florida Supreme court today upheld John Ringling's divorce in 1936 from Emily Buck Ringling and denied her right to share in his $23,000,000 estate willed to the state of Florida. The court held that the circus magnate had a legal right to sue for divorce in 1936 altho he had withdrawn a divorce action in 1933 after property agreements had been signed between him and his wife. Ringling willed her $1.

1,500 Reservists Return from Training Cruise

Fifteen hundred naval reservists and 150 officers returned to Chicago yesterday from a 14 day training cruise in Lake Michigan. Five ships were used on the trip, the third of five cruises scheduled for the 1940 training season.

PLAN PROPOSED TO SPEED TRAFFIC IN GARFIELD PARK

Recommendations that the curves in Washington boulevard at the east and west ends of Garfield park be straightened to relieve traffic congestion were made yesterday by George Barton, chief engineer for the Chicago Motor club. He spoke at a luncheon of the club's west area council in the Oak Park club.

One of the worst curves in the park is at the east entrance at Homan avenue, Barton said. There the motorist entering the park from the east must make a left turn that carries traffic a block and a half south, almost to Madison street, before veering back again to Washington boulevard westward. This cuts traveling speed, Barton said, from about 45 miles to 20 miles an hour.

At the west end at Hamlin avenue, the curve is less tortuous but no less irksome to drivers. Traveling is cut to about 30 miles an hour.

He said he will confer with Otto K. Jelinek, chief engineer for the park district, regarding the proposed realignment.

Tornado Hits N. Dakota; 2 Killed; Several Injured

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 2 (AP).—Two persons were killed and several were injured late today as a tornado struck Dawson, a community of 350 residents 50 miles east of here.

M'KELLAR AND COOPER WIN RENOMINATION BY RECORD MAJORITY

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 2 (AP).—Senator Kenneth D. McKellar and Gov. Prentice Cooper were renominated in the Democratic primary yesterday by record breaking majorities.

Unofficial returns from 2,012 of 2,279 precincts today gave the six term senator 91 per cent of the votes cast in the senatorial race, while Cooper won 83 per cent of the gubernatorial ballots.

Both had the backing of the political organization headed by National Committeeman Edward Crump of Memphis. The incomplete vote:

For United States senator—McKellar, 205,887; John R. Neal of Knoxville, 12,253; Claude Toler of Paris, 5,810.

For governor—Cooper, 217,786; George R. Dempster of Knoxville, 40,491; Bailey Wray of Knoxville, 2,210.

Opponents of McKellar and Cooper in November will be chosen tomorrow by the Republican state executive committee. The state's seven incumbent Democratic congressmen were renominated.

THE NEW WORLD IN A NEW WORLD.

Within 30 or 40 days the world may learn whether Hitler can or cannot crack Great Britain's defenses. He may try and fail and the war may go on. It seems improbable that he will not try, but the possibility that he will not cannot be entirely counted out. The war may go into the winter as one of blockade with attacks on shipping. Until spring, at least, it may be a conflict testing endurance and the reserve of supplies. And no one rules out the possibility of a quick Nazi victory, bringing in its train the greatest historical event of many hundreds of years—the conquest of England and the downfall of the British empire.

Within the next two months there may be an event to simplify or complicate American problems. If Great Britain should follow France into the Nazi captivity, the United States and the new world face a strangely altered old world. All the checks and balances which have permitted the American people to drift rather aimlessly in foreign affairs and international relations, drifting in confident security, real or fancied, will have disappeared.

There will be one great European power replacing a system of countervailing powers holding each other back from any too ambitious undertakings. The same situation probably will prevail in the far east. Asia will be dominated by Japan. If this should happen, Americans may find their problem simplified, even if it is to be regarded as more serious. It will be simplified in terms of foreign relations because the question of our alliance with this or that nation in Europe will have disappeared. Other questions will arise but there will be a greater unanimity of opinion here than there ever has been, because America in a real sense will stand alone. Great and not clearly defined responsibilities, new in our experience, will arise from such a situation and they will be unavoidable.

Americans will not debate whether it is wise to think of our frontier as being on the Rhine because it won't be there. They will not ask themselves whether it is unwise not to enter a military alliance with France and Great Britain. There is no France and if Great Britain can't hold the Nazis off there will be no British power.

That we, the American people, will face the world alone if this happens can hardly be doubted. It will be too late then to review our acts. The government at Washington has omitted little in word or deed to provoke the hostility of the countries which will predominate elsewhere than in this hemisphere. At the same time that government has done nothing to prepare the country to meet the anger of the rulers it has offended. For several years the official utterances in Washington, from the White House, from the department of state, and from various other departments have told Germany, Italy, and Japan, the three most aggressive nations in the world outside of Russia—which has not been scolded—that the United States disapproved of them, that they were held in distrust and dislike, and that their acts were abhorrent to humanity. From time to time they have been warned to change their ways.

So sharp have been some of the remarks of our government that these rulers have formally protested. The reprobation represented dominant opinion in this country, it is true, but we may later wonder whether it is always the wisest policy for a government to break down its relations with powerful aggressors, do so deliberately and with the intent to interfere and offend, and then do nothing to make it possible for the country to defend itself against the aggrieved and angry foreigner.

In contrast to this, the European opponents of these rulers, altho they fatefully failed, as the United States has failed, to take the proper precautions for their safety, nevertheless to the end endeavored to keep diplomatic relations in the tone in which one government not at war addresses another with which it is at peace. Our government was not so wise. It has been just as unfortunately lax in its defense measures as the others, but it has been far more violent in its verbal attacks upon rulers we now regard, with cause, as our enemies, and it has gone further than words. It has given substantial cause to these powerful aggressors to regard the United States as the enemy next in line.

Within a short time we may know what we have to face. Much of it we may be able to anticipate. The inflammatory statements of our government and the acts of our government have given opponents on both sides of our land, both in Asia and in Europe, reason to attack if they can see a profitable outcome, and to attack whenever they do so see the predominant chance of gain. If it were the American decision to help Great Britain now, there is little that could be done because we are not prepared to do anything for ourselves and it is likely that if our navy went to the assistance of the British Japan would immediately break loose and take everything desirable in the far east. It is preparing to do that anyway and a German victory will see the Japanese on their way.

Congress is passing huge appropriation bills, discussing conscription, and listening to all sorts of advice from government officials who wish to make the most political use out of the present dilemma and the prospective problems. All the talk about reorganizing our military forces to meet modern requirements is not yet producing results. We may be about to face inconceivable conditions, monstrously strange in our experience, and all the furor has yet failed to take the form which would be helpful. Our diplomacy has been shortsighted, our governmental policy has not been considerate of American needs, and the piled up consequences of error may be with us sooner than we think.

ENEMIES OF DEMOCRACY.

Congress decided that this country could get along nicely without Mr. David Saposs and his colleagues in the so-called division of economic research of the National Labor Relations board. Thru testimony before the Smith and Dies committees, congress had come to the conclusion that Mr. Saposs is sympathetic to communism. Accordingly, there was no appropriation this year for the division of economic research. Congress clearly intended to abolish it, as every one knew at the time.

Nevertheless, Mr. Saposs and his bright boys and girls are still drawing salaries and retain their influence as members of the staff of the NLRB. They are no longer known as the division of economic research. Now they are in the "technical service division." Chairman J. Warren Madden says they are doing much the same kind of work they always did, but denies that there has been any evasion of the congressional mandate. The change was made two days before the new appropriation became effective.

The temptation to denounce Mr. Madden for trickery and evasion is easily resisted because the facts need no embellishment and Mr. Madden isn't worth the trouble. The incident goes far beyond him in its meaning. It is a revelation of the antidemocratic character of the New Deal.

In theory the labor board, like all the other administrative boards and commissions, is an arm of congress. The assumption is that congress lacks the time to write general laws which will be sufficiently detailed to cover all the great variety of problems which it desires to meet. Accordingly, it sets up administrative bodies to which it gives general instructions and leaves it to the administrators to carry out the program.

As long as this theory is adhered to the administrative tribunals can be fitted, the not without difficulty, into the democratic concept of government. The board is responsible to congress and congress to the people. But here we find the board refusing to accept orders from congress. The board holds itself above congress. Mr. Madden's motto is "The people be damned." What the people, thru congress, instruct him to do he will regard or disregard as he pleases.

Three hundred years and more of Anglo-American history tell the story of the people's efforts to control their government thru representative assemblies. The New Dealers think the long struggle was all a mistake. They prate of their devotion to democracy, but they don't believe in its cardinal doctrines any more than the Stuarts did in their day, or Hitler or Stalin in ours. The idea that congress as the agency of the people is supreme within the prescribed field of legislation and appropriation, subject only to the President's veto which can be overriden, is hateful to the New Dealers. They want to run things according to their own notions and they don't want to take orders from anybody. They believe in unlimited government provided they are the governors.

In his attempt to pack the Supreme court Mr. Roosevelt disclosed his desire to destroy the judiciary as a check upon his abuse of power. In his attempt to purge the members of congress who had dared to block this ambitious plan he disclosed his passion to destroy the independence of congress. Now in the refusal of the labor board to accept the direction of congress, a refusal which undoubtedly had the approval of the President, he has proclaimed his belief in the supremacy of the administrative burocracy over congress.

This is a declaration of an antidemocratic revolution. If Mr. Roosevelt has his way ours will not be a government of the people, by the people, or for the people. It will be a government of, by, and for the burocrats.

A QUEER ORDINANCE.

The parking lot business in Chicago is being victimized by racketeers, and the ordinance that the city council has passed, refusing permits for any new parking lots for a period of 30 days, does not make it look any less suspicious.

The announced purpose of the permit suspension is to give time for investigation and the establishment of new rules and regulations for parking lots. There is no doubt that the parking racket should be investigated, but it should be investigated by the state's attorney and not the city council. The aldermen are apt to find themselves investigating each other before they finish.

There has been evidence of bribery in the operation of the lots and the allotting of permits for them. No other construction could be placed on the payment of an exorbitant salary to the secretary of an alderman. There have been rumors that the Capone syndicate was levying toll on the lots. A parking lot operator was shot, presumably because he displeased the syndicate gunmen in some fashion. The lots thruout the loop have a uniform price scale, regardless of the convenience of their location. Price fixing in this town is usually enforced by violence or threats of violence.

The council's suspension of permits is for 30 days only. These 30 day ordinances have a way, however, of being renewed almost indefinitely. The council made a mistake in passing the ordinance. If it renews it the aldermen will increase public suspicion as to whom they are serving. It certainly is not the motoring public that uses the lots.

WHEN THE CAT CAME OUT.

[New York Sun.]

In the Democratic convention there was active and determined rivalry in letting the cat out of the bag. When honors are dealt out, however, a conspicuous candidate for first place will be Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois. On the historic night on which Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was presented to the Democrats on an "or else" basis, Senator Lucas rose to explain his release of the Illinois delegation from its support of his own candidacy for Vice President. Senator Lucas told the convention what he might do under other circumstances and his qualifying clause ought to live long in Democratic memories. "If this were a free and open convention" were the words he used.

Senator Lucas is not a novice in politics. He is practiced in public speaking. He ordinarily makes the language which he uses fit his thoughts like a glove. Possibly the excitement of the Chicago convention was too much for him and he unwittingly told the truth about what was going on. Possibly he knew that he was being tactless enough to tell the truth. Possibly he thought it might be good for the Democratic party to hear the truth, even if it only ran to eight words.

MR. PEPYS STIRS HIS STUMPS.

2d August—Now there are only eight more days to cross off on the calendar before I go away for my annual outing; and they will see me scurrying about getting the road maps, and taking money out of the bank, and fetching my dog to a boarding house, and such things that always make a man think he should stay at home. Also, there are clothes to be packed for two kinds of weather, hot and cold, and camera films to buy, and odd jobs to be done on the car; and so by the time I am ready to rest my mind it will be worn beyond repair.

People say such fussings and fumings shake a man out of his rut, and do him much good, but I always feel shaken out so far that I may never get back again. I do believe vacations should contain one week to stay at home and get ready, and another week, at the end, to stay at home and get over it; and when the Utopias that are now being preached come to pass, this scheme should be included in the constitution.

On looking back, I find I have been boxing the compass on my vacation trips, for three years ago I went north to Canada, and two years ago, east to Maine, and last year, south to the Smokies; and now I am going west, out where men are dudes, I shall be at great pains, however, not to get on a horse, for these noble animals arouse my tenderest feelings.

WIND OFF THE LAKE.

(With apologies to John Keats.)

After hot vapors have oppressed our plains
For a fierce, blazing season, comes a wind
Born of the gentle lake with comfort kind
To soothe the city and its fevered pains.
Under its cooling spell, the town regains
Composure, spirits rise, the weary find
Refreshing sleep and temperatures that bind
Relax their grip beneath the magic rains.

Once more calm thoughts come round us as the leaves
Resume their whispered song. Once more the sun
Is welcomed with the dawn. The harvest sheaves
Are ripe and summer's course is nearly run;
Man passes but the gods do not forsake!

The Little Dogs of Malta.

Your paragraphs on the lore of Malta [July 29] should have included the Maltese dog—a toy spaniel with fluffy white hair, often weighing as little as three pounds. This is a famous and ancient breed. Aristotle mentioned the Maltese dog; women of fashion in ancient Greece and Rome sent to Malta for these pets.

There are only a few Maltese dogs in the United States, but you can find plenty of them in Europe.

Robert Briggs Logan.

[The Maltese dog can be traced back for 28 centuries or more; it was often depicted in Greek ceramic art. When the Apostle Paul was shipwrecked on Malta, the Roman governor of the island had a Maltese dog named Issa to which he was so devoted that Martial, the Latin epigrammatic poet, wrote some verses on the subject.]

That's How Song Hits Are Born.

"California, Here I Come" is making a bid for folk song longevity, so it's time to check up on its origin. In 1923, at the Blackstone theater, Al Jolson sent a business telegram to a movie firm in Hollywood to answer inquiries about what was delaying his arrival. His message was merely, "California, here I come."

"That sounds like a song title," he remarked to the girl at the telegraph desk. She agreed.

At rehearsals of the musical show, "Sinbad," in New York the next year, it was discovered that the production needed a typical Jolson number in a certain place. So Jolson, Joseph Meyer, and Buddy Da Silva went into conference, and "California, Here I Come" was knocked off in a hurry. The copyright date is 1924.

Evening in a Heat Wave.

It had been hot, and with the coming of evening we lay in porch chairs, enervated and shattered by another day of relentless sunshine. No breeze stirred the limp leaves, and bird and beast were still. As we watched, Evening slipped across the sky, drawing her thin gray veil between us and the blazing blue. Gently she pushed the reluctant sun along, until he disappeared in a pout of purple clouds. Then she began her healing ministrations. She let the gray of the sky deepen until it was a clear, bottomless pool. She set a tender young moon adrift upon its shadowed waters, and scattered a handful of stars. She blew a gentle breath across the poplar trees, and set them to whispering among themselves. She sprinkled the poor brown grass with kind tears, and wound the crickets to a merry song. And then she smiled—and it was Night. Helene.

YE CANDID CONTRIB.

(For a lady who complains of rejections.)

If you and I could write like a certain Eolus—
And this is hard, cold truth, unadorned and stark;
If we could match that refulgent B. J. K. gal,
Or organ-peal like Thomas Curtis Clark . . .
If we could burnish prose like Helene or Quizzicuss,
Or as That Fella Down in Streator, too,
I fancy 't is a fairly safe conclusion;
We'd make the Line more oft, I think; don't you?

J. F. B. Jr.

I know Chicago's weather is a bit strange, but did you hear Radio Announcer Bob Elson say, at the after-dark White Sox game, "You couldn't ask for a better night than we are having today"?

LUMBAGO OR FIBROSITIS.

ONE of these days, let us hope, we will find a sure-fire cure for lumbago or, as it is now termed, "fibrositis." Sad to relate, but little has been added to our knowledge of treatment in recent years.

What is the cause? As nearly as we can determine, there must be an infection somewhere—a streptococcus, aided perhaps by other organisms. At any rate, toxins powerful enough to produce severe symptoms are forthcoming from some source—possibly a distant region of the body. As we all know, exposure to a sudden and persistent chill—such as a draft of cold air—may be the starter and those who are susceptible to gout are strikingly prone to be faced with the disorder.

But what happens? There is an acute inflammatory reaction of the fibrous tissue low down in the back. Some of these cells may lie within the muscles or make up the tendons attached to the bones. As we would expect—in many instances, fluid is squeezed out of the cells and adhesions may form, decreasing the ability to bend the parts.

The chief complaint is pain and the most favored site involves the structures about the lower portion of the spine. One may have enjoyed good health all his life when—following a period of fatigue with unusual exhaustion—he may waken one morning with intense distress in "the small of the back." If movement is attempted, the sharp, excruciating stabs will persuade him to be quiet. There may be no sign of a cold or sore throat and the only trouble is this "misery," which is so incapacitating.

Not infrequently it will be impossible to identify the origin of the affliction. There may be no pus in the sinuses or the tonsils, and the teeth may be in good order. With the thought that perhaps some strain has been suffered along the vertebral column, X-rays may be taken but, as a rule, they will show no change.

On the other hand, if a pus pocket is located at the root of a tooth the chances are that we have spotted the culprit. With the removal of the offending molar, the task of the physician then lies in making the patient as comfortable as possible and building reserve so that the body will be able to manufacture sufficient antitoxin to obliterate the disease. That there is some relation to arthritis is borne out by the fact that many a victim will begin a long bout with this latter condition—a curtain raiser of lumbago.

When the muscles between the ribs are affected, breathing will be extremely painful. The patient will thus take jerky breaths and will avoid coughing, as each paroxysm will bring a severe, agonizing pang. After all, we are dealing with muscular rheumatism and, should the joints be affected, the regions will become greatly swollen and weeks—even months—may be spent in bed.

Aside from good nursing and plenty of fluids, potassium iodide—advocated by many of our older medical men—still remains an excellent remedy. Naturally, nests of bacteria should be routed out and bad teeth, tonsils, sinuses, an infected prostate gland, or even an old stager of a gall bladder may require attention. Physical therapy will speed recovery greatly. Heat, particularly the infra-red lamp employed for an hour several times daily, and deep massage are recommended.

Should a siege come, few will be courageous enough to carry on. The part of wisdom demands early and constant recourse to heat in order to bring enough new blood to the area to allay inflammation and thus prevent the formation of firm bands within the muscles.

SKIN REACTION.

H. B. writes: I have trouble with my skin. Every time I brush against something or get a bump, it swells up into a welt. Please tell me what this condition is and how I can get rid of it.

REPLY.

Even a slight injury may liberate a substance in the skin called histamine—enough to produce the symptom. You may be immunized against this material thru the injection of minute doses. A preparation called histaminase may also be helpful. Your physician can tell you about this.

YIELD TO THAT IMPULSE.

A. R. writes: If I don't go to bed when I am sleepy, I don't sleep. What can I do?

REPLY.

Have it understood with your friends that when the sandman arrives, you are to obey his commands. Lose as little time as possible in tumbling into bed.

SANDALS FOR CHILD.

D. S. writes: Is it all right for a 3½ year old child to wear sandals?

REPLY.

MR. FORD'S PLAN.

Evanston, Ill., July 31.—The account of the death of six young people last Sunday in a neighboring state and the serious injury of six others thru reckless driving brings to mind Henry Ford's plan to teach the youth of the country safety in handling a car. Mr. Ford gave publicity [paid space] to his plan some months ago. All youths of high school age are eligible to compete. There will be state examinations each year and the successful contestant in each state will come to New York for a nation-wide examination when scholarships will be awarded the best. It means the expenditure of a large sum and will entail considerable direction. This is one of the most timely moves in recent years. Too many young people are slaughtered and maimed by careless handling of their cars in reckless driving, and any move to reduce this fatality will be a decided contribution to youth conservation.

WHY THE CONCEALMENT?

Coldwater, Mich., July 30.—The current trend in Washington has, up to now, aroused only a smoldering discontent in the American people, but the latest mouthful ready for us is apt to stick on the way down. What is the real purpose behind the conscription bill? Obviously, this and other recent steps of the federal government are not being carried out as home defense operations; everywhere is hint of offensive war. If this is the case, then why the concealment and round-about method of "preparing the minds"? If this is not the case and the cards are all on the table, we don't like the hand! A regimented people may fight well, but not for democracy!

Paul Hurrell.

WHAT ABOUT REFUGEES?

Chicago, July 30.—I am bewildered to read about the influx of refugees. Why does the United States government permit their entrance and sanction certain clannish societies whose very purpose of existence is to feed, clothe, find employment for, and in certain groups, grant acres of our American farm land for these immigrants?

Can this be real charity when thousands of our own citizens, young and old, pound the pavements to seek any kind of employment to feed American born mouths?

FLIES STARS AND STRIPES.

Chicago, July 30.—The following letter was received by the Surf hotel today:

"From my apartment window it is most gratifying to see 'Old Glory' flying on top of your hotel—and I just can't permit this opportunity to go by without telling you how much it is appreciated—also by many others, I'm sure."

Wouldn't it be a wonderful thing in these times if all who could would fly the American flag from their places of business or homes?

A MESSAGE TO LUCAS.

Chicago, July 29.—Last night, in Oak Park, a group of Republican citizens met in an informal conference and decided to send the following telegram to Senator Lucas:

"In solving the conscription problem, why not utilize the psychology of asking for volunteers to make up as largely as possible the body of 42 million from which drafts are to be made, thereby giving all an opportunity to become volunteers and thus evade the stigma of a draft?"

WITH OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY.

Chicago, July 31.—I note that Mr. Roosevelt accused the recent "bolting" Democrats of caring more for money than for humanity [his brand, incidentally]. Say what you will, you cannot, in all fairness, accuse Mr. Roosevelt of caring for money. At least not other people's money.

OUR LIBRARY FACILITIES.

Chicago, July 31.—Since 1840 my family has paid taxes in Chicago. My mother's grandparents came here in 1834 and my father's people before 1840. Their descendants in most cases settled in Chicago. I have in my possession some of the bills for taxes of the early days.

I have few benefits from these taxes paid for four generations. One that I appreciate and use frequently is the public library. The Broadway branch is the nearest. Yet I hate to go there, for it is about as uncomfortable a place as one could find. The heat is terrific; there is no relief from it, for it is a one story building with a tin roof. It seems to me cruel to keep the attendants there for long hours when the patrons cannot endure it for more than long enough to pick out a few books and escape. The lighting is inadequate; it is crowded—being much too small. But the heat is the worst part of it.

As far as it being a free service for which one should be grateful no matter at what inconvenience, I think others like myself feel that we and our forefathers have paid enough to have something more suitable.

GOLDEN RULE IN PRACTICE.

Chicago, July 30.—Your account of the dream home of the Newborg family in Sunday's Tribune was indeed interesting—the outcome unique. Mr. Newborg must be a most deserving person to have made so many [36 or more] genuine friends who love him enough actually to sacrifice time and effort to help him in this sweltering weather.

More than anything else, the world needs to practice Christian principles of living. This group of workmen are doing a fine job of showing the rest of us what true Christianity is. It is an outstanding example of the application of the Golden Rule; a joy to see these days. Hats off and a sincere God bless you to these men and to the Newborg family.

COULD PEPPER BE MUZZLED?

Geneva, Ill., July 27.—Have just listened to a broadcast from the new flagship of the United States Lines, the S. S. America, on its maiden voyage from Newport News to New York, with various people aboard who held radio conversations with Ambassador Kennedy in London, among them Senator Claude Pepper from Florida, who made some very pointed remarks about Hitler. It seems to me if there were some way to muzzle such conversation our chances of staying out of war would be greater. Have we given up every vestige of neutrality?

Mrs. W. J. Allan.

OUR NAVY IS GROWING.

Berwyn, Ill., July 30.—Ambassador Daniels' comments on the state of the navy in 1933 were not unfair [as held by T. D. Sandringham in a recently published letter]. While the number of capital ships in commission has not altered in the last seven years, consider other types of ships:

Heavy cruisers: 1933, 10 in commission; 1940, 18 in commission. Light cruisers: 1933, no modern ships; 1940, nine modern ships in commission, 6 building. Destroyers: 1933, no modern destroyers; 1940, 84 in commission, about 20 building. Submarines: 1933, four modern craft, 4 semi-modern, in commission; 1940, 39 modern, four semi-modern craft, plus about 20 building. In addition sorely needed auxiliary craft are building.

Considering these figures, the vast improvement in the state of the navy is apparent. Nor does this take into account the improved morale. It takes more than battleships to make a navy.

George F. Dale.

WHAT ABOUT THE JOBS?

Rosamond, Ill., July 31.—The subject of "What about our jobs when we come back?" is a burning question in connection with the proposed conscription bill.

INCORPORATION.

Chicago, Ill., July 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Would you be so kind as to advise me whether it is possible for a party to form a "one man corporation"? Meaning, a person issues a number of shares on the company he owns, and buys them up in his own name, not taking in any partner.

2. Would this make a corporation out of his company?

3. Could you explain what a dummy corporation is? J. J.

1. Many corporations are practically one man corporations in the sense that one man owns practically all the stock.

2. The formation of a corporation involves compliance with definite statutory requirements, which ordinarily necessitates the employment of an attorney. You can try writing to the secretary of state, Springfield, for printed forms.

3. The term is not used in the statute. As a popular expression it is used somewhat loosely to mean a corporation which does not involve a legitimate business purpose. If you will state the context in which you would use the term we can advise you to better advantage.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 3, 1882

The United States' first immigration act adopted. Heretofore there had been virtually no restriction, and the flow of aliens was increasing each year, due to famines, hardships, and political strife abroad and opportunities in this country. This act banned criminals, paupers, and those with physical or mental deficiencies. By 1890, despite the new law, the total number of immigrants that had been admitted to this country was 15,500,000.

WILLKIE OFFERS TO ANSWER ANY ROOSEVELT QUIZ

But He'll Ignore Lesser New Dealers.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 2.—Wendell L. Willkie offered today to answer any questions President Roosevelt might put to him regarding action or legislation of immediate importance, whether conscription or the sale of American destroyers to the British empire.

Mrs. Dwight Morrow and Edmund M. Toland.

However, as Republican presidential nominee who must set forth his policies on conscription, foreign affairs, national defense and other matters in his formal acceptance speech Aug. 17, Willkie declined to be drawn into debate on current issues with any lesser figure than the President.

"I am running against the President," he said, "and I cannot answer at this time the questions and challenges of members of congress, prior to my acceptance speech. If the President asks me any questions I will be glad to answer them."

No Questions Asked So Far.

This comment was drawn out by the publication of a report that the President, through an intermediary, had asked assurances that Willkie would not criticize the contemplated sale of old American destroyers to Great Britain.

"So far as I know," said Willkie, "no representative of the administration has approached me on this question or any other question. Many individuals have communicated with me on a variety of subjects, but it is my judgment that they were not authorized by the White House."

Willkie said he would take up the question of conscription "clearly and specifically" in his acceptance speech.

"It Speaks for Itself."

Informed today that Edward J. Flynn, Democratic leader of the Bronx, had been named successor to James A. Farley as campaign manager, Willkie said:

"I understand that Boss Flynn of the Bronx has been appointed. It speaks for itself."

A letter came in today from Mrs. Dwight Morrow, retiring president of Smith college and mother-in-law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Willkie referred to her as one of the first women of America.

"Your nomination," she wrote, "was a heartening thing in these difficult days. May your courage and wisdom serve us in the White House."

Willkie heard also from Edmund M. Toland of Washington, D. C., general counsel to the special congressional committee which has been investigating the National Labor Relations board.

Toland Gives Reasons.

"I have submitted my resignation to the committee," wrote Toland, "effective as of July 31 in order that I may be in a position to volunteer any services in your campaign. I am a life long Democrat and with one exception have always voted for Democratic candidates. I join the many thousands of real Democrats in selecting you as their leader to save democracy in this country."

Willkie had dinner tonight with Joseph W. Martin Jr., chairman of the Republican national committee. He will meet tomorrow with Martin, John D. M. Hamilton, Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, and other Republican leaders, in a conference to organize the campaign and to bring it into high gear by Sept. 1.

GREEN, BROOKS COUNT ON VOTES OF DEMOCRATS

Dwight H. Green and Wayland Brooks, Republican nominees for governor and senator, declared last night at a meeting of the 48th ward Republican organization that lifelong Democrats all over Illinois would vote for Wendell L. Willkie for President.

"Old party lines are disappearing," said Brooks. "It's now the reds and New Dealers on one side and the rest of us, including the real Democrats, on the other. Our side wants Willkie because he will restore private enterprise."

Green said that hundreds of Democrats had assured him personally of their support of Republican ideals, and that this support would go to the state ticket because "the people are tired of Kelly-Nash machine government."

3 Arrested as Picketing Goes on at St. Louis Plant

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 2 (AP).—Except for the arrest of three pickets on a peace disturbance charge, all was quiet tonight at the Century Electric company, where the C. I. O. United Electrical Workers' union is conducting a strike. Pickets continued their endless marching under the vigilance of police. The calm was a contrast with yesterday, when 15 delegates attended the C. I. O. United Automobile workers' convention, 12 strikers and one nonstriker were arrested by police.

Navy Training Is Launched in Russian High Schools

MOSCOW, Aug. 2 (AP). — Soviet Russia today announced the introduction of naval training in high schools of Moscow, Leningrad, Baku, Vladivostok, Gorky, Kiev, and Odessa. The students will spend their summer vacations aboard ship.

Democratic Leaders Opposed to Third Term

BUS COMPANIES READY TO HANDLE WILLKIE THRONGS

Charter Equipment to Carry Biggest Load.

Bus companies will join other transportation facilities to carry Willkie boosters to the acceptance day ceremonies at Elwood, Ind., Aug. 17, bus company officials here said yesterday. Trains and automobiles will transport other thousands to the huge rally.

Officials of the Greyhound Bus Lines said they have had sufficient inquiries to fill 50 buses. Lack of equipment has forced the system offices in Chicago to turn down requests. Most Greyhound customers who will go to Elwood are expected to travel over the system's buses operated out of Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and other centers closer to the scene.

Bus Leaves in Morning.

Greyhound has a bus leaving Chicago at 9 a. m. from the central station at Roosevelt road and Wabash avenue, arriving at Elwood at 2:40 p. m.

The Bluebird System division of Trailways so far is sending two chartered buses from Chicago and three from Kankakee, but expects to put more in service. Each bus carries 33 persons. The system has about 27 buses operating in the Elwood area which will be available for passengers. Its two regular buses from Chicago to Elwood leave Chicago at 8:45 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. from the Trailways station at 20 East Randolph street.

The Checkerway Charter Coach Company, Inc., has about 30 buses available for charter by Chicago parties. Inquiries indicate several groups may use this line. Two groups in Valparaiso, Ind., have chartered two of the company's buses, which hold about 33 persons each.

Other Coaches Available.

The Willett Motor Coach company will have 20 or 25 buses available for private parties, picking up the various members in their own sections of the city. Each bus will hold about 35 persons.

Regular bus fares are $3 one way, or $5.40 round trip to Elwood. Where groups of 10 or more use Trailway buses the round trip fare will be $4.90. Charter buses by private companies will charge about $94.50 a bus, making the cost to an individual less than $3 for the trip.

It is expected it will take five or six hours to make the run from Chicago to Elwood because of the unusually heavy traffic. It is about 180 miles by bus from Chicago.

Railroad ticket sales are heavier than expected. The Pennsylvania already has received orders in Chicago that will fill 14 trains. Each train will carry 800 to 1,000 passengers. The Pennsylvania trains will start leaving the Union station at 7 a. m., Aug. 17, and will leave at short intervals thereafter.

FATHER OBJECTS, BUT UNCLE AND AUNT WIN CHILD

Over the protests of the child's father, who came here from San Gabriel, Cal., Judge Albert E. Isley of Newton, sitting in the County court, yesterday granted Mr. and Mrs. George Marks of 6801 Indiana avenue the right to adopt their niece, Sharon Elizabeth Hanson, 6 years old.

The child's mother, Ruth, obtained a divorce from Charles Arthur Uvaas shortly before Sharon was born. She was married again in 1938 to Morton Hanson of West Los Angeles, Cal., but died last February. Since then Sharon has been living with Mr. and Mrs. Marks.

Uvaas said he had remarried and that his income as a painting contractor was sufficient to care for his daughter properly. Judge Isley, however, ruled that he felt it to Sharon's best interests not to take her from a home with which she is familiar. Marks is a chemist.

GREEN TO CARRY FARM VIEWS TO WILLKIE IN IOWA

That government should be an umpire instead of a dictator in agriculture, is the main idea that Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for governor, plans to place before Wendell L. Willkie at the farm conference to be held Monday in Des Moines, Ia. The corn belt pow-pow on farm problems called by the Presidential candidate, is to be held in Gov. George A. Wilson's office at the Iowa statehouse. Midwest Republican governors and nominees for governor have been invited to attend.

Green said yesterday he has invited outstanding agricultural leaders in Illinois to meet with him in the La Salle hotel tomorrow afternoon. They will thresh over views to be presented at the confab with Willkie.

"In the farm program," Green said, "government must play a part, but it must determine the rules and act as umpire, rather than as dictator. Regulation of agriculture must be taken out of the hands of a growing army of burocrats at Washington and restored to the hands of the farmers themselves or their qualified representatives."

WILLKIE NOTES

Donaldsonville, La., Aug. 2 (AP).—Willkie for President buttons adorned lapels in Louisiana's Sugar bowl today as department of agriculture examiners sought facts on the low price of sugar.

The emblem of the Republican candidate for President was prominently displayed among the sugar cane growers and processors who attended a hearing here at which Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, the Democratic Vice Presidential candidate, was severely criticized for his Louisiana sugar quota restrictions.

Wallace was blamed by speakers for the record low price on raw sugar posted yesterday by New Orleans refiners. George L. Billeaud, sugar processor of Brossard, La., who represented his plant and 59 other processors, charged that the 1937 sugar act "has most positively not been administered in a manner to protect the welfare of the state of Louisiana."

12,000 Brooklyn Pledges.

New York, Aug. 2 [Special].—More than 12,000 Democrats, American Labor party members, and independent voters in Brooklyn, long a Democratic stronghold, have signed cards pledging their support to Wendell L. Willkie, it was announced today by John R. Crews, Republican leader of Brooklyn.

Crews said that 2,500 pledge cards had been signed at the Willkie headquarters since it was opened 10 days ago. Within the last week, he said, 25 branch headquarters had been opened in various parts of Brooklyn.

"We have repeatedly urged all citizens, irrespective of party affiliations, to join this movement," he said, "for all are welcome in this great campaign for defense and recovery."

Uprising in Georgia.

Macon, Ga., Aug. 2 [Special].—Independent Georgia Democrats, vexed with the third term aspirations of Franklin D. Roosevelt, have materially boosted Wendell Willkie's chances of becoming the first Republican ever to carry Georgia in a national election.

This stronghold of the once solid south has developed a political rift that many observers think might be the opening wedge for a third party or a revision of the Democratic party.

In line with increasing sentiment against a third term a group of prominent Macon men this week organized as "Independent Democrats of Bibb county" and adopted a resolution calling for all "old-fashioned Democrats" to support Willkie for President.

Officials Go West.

Officials of the Republican national committee left Chicago yesterday for Colorado Springs, Colo., for a conference with Wendell L. Willkie, party standard bearer.

Joseph W. Martin, national chairman, and Henry P. Fletcher, general counsel of the committee, paused at Chicago airport en route from New York to a dinner in the Rockies with Willkie. Martin said "all prospects are bright for the Republican ticket."

John Hamilton, executive director of the committee; Samuel F. Pryor Jr. of Connecticut, head of the eastern headquarters in New York; Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts, executive chairman, and C. B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the national committee, departed by train for Colorado Springs.

Fight Against Fraud.

George F. Barrett, nominee for attorney general and chairman of the Illinois Volunteer Committee to Stop Vote Frauds, sent a message to Wendell Willkie last night declaring "We are taking positive action to see that every vote cast for you is honestly tabulated." The message predicted that "The Nudelman-Kelly-Nash machine will be stopped by the people themselves."

ELWOOD'S 8 MAN POLICE FORCE IS ABOUT TO BE 450

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 2.—A meeting of the Indiana Chiefs of Police association here this afternoon foretold coöperation by the constabulary of the entire state in making a success of the Wendell Willkie notification ceremonies here on Aug. 17.

The eight man police department in this home town of the Republican Presidential candidate will be swollen to an organization of 450 by squads of uniformed and plain clothes men from other Indiana cities. In addition, the state police will have 140 men on approaches to the 250 acre parking fields and on highways within a radius of 25 miles from Elwood.

The chiefs at their meeting also told of plans for special traffic arrangements in their home cities for the thousands of automobiles which will traverse their jurisdictions en route to and from the celebration. The number to arrive here by private motor car is estimated at between 70,000 and 90,000.

HOTEL ROBBED OF $1,300.

Clifford Quick, night clerk in the Buena Park hotel at 4145 Broadway, was forced by two robbers to hand over $1,300 and jewelry valued at $400 from the hotel cash box and guest box early yesterday.

PLAN TO TRAIN WILLKIE CORPS OF VOLUNTEERS

Will Assist Regular Party Workers.

Plans to give political training to thousands of Republican volunteer workers were taken up yesterday at a meeting of the Cook county Republican committee. Already hundreds have signed up, asking that they be assigned tasks for the fall campaign.

John T. Dempsey, county chairman, laid down a program for an enlistment drive by wards. This would give the official party organization an auxiliary army of workers, such as has never before rounded up for a campaign. Every precinct is to be canvassed. The Dempsey idea was to get the machinery oiled this month so that all workers can go ahead full speed on specified lines of activities by Labor day. Dr. William H. Reid, 16th ward committeeman, will direct the training of volunteers; James B. Waller [43d] will be in charge of enrollments.

Election Hinges on County.

"The outcome of the national election," said Chairman Dempsey, "will depend on Cook county, which is the key to the pivotal state of Illinois. We must keep up this organizing of volunteer workers at such a pace that we'll be ready for full steam ahead by Labor day.

"In this campaign there will be more Republican precinct workers and poll watchers in every precinct than ever before. Volunteers are swarming into headquarters daily to enroll, and ward organizations should go into all precincts and find others who are willing to serve. This is to be done before the campaign reaches its peak. Our aim is to harness the enthusiasm of thousands who wear Willkie buttons and give it increased force by organizing it."

Party at Brooks' Farm.

Republican state candidates are to be guests of honor at a barbecue today at the farm of Wayland Brooks, nominee for United States senator, 12 miles north of Ottawa in La Salle county. The Republican Editorial association of the 12th congressional district is to be the host.

After the barbecue, at noon, there will be speeches by Brooks, Dwight H. Green, nominee for governor, and other candidates.

ELWOOD GETTING ALL DRESSED UP FOR HER BIG DATE

House Painters Enjoy Big Business Boom.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 2 [Special].—Wendell L. Willkie will find a lot of new paint and repairs in his old home town when he accepts the Republican Presidential nomination here on Aug. 17.

July was the biggest month the paint dealers have had in years, and painters are swamped with work. Householders who have delayed redecorating for years decided to take the steps after the Philadelphia convention and their decisions are apparent wherever the visitor walks.

Mayor George Bonham estimated that 50 per cent of the business houses either have or will undergo some renovating. A walk past the Anderson street stores gave weight to his forecast.

Wayne Drake, whose local committee on physical properties is charged with making Elwood completely presentable for the expected throng, said today that no one would have cause to be ashamed of the town when its most distinguished citizen comes back.

According to present plans, each house will display a flag and a Willkie picture or banner on the 17th.

Paint That Old Depot.

What has been done to the old wooden Nickel Plate railroad station is typical of renovations. The veteran agent, P. R. Stokes, showed off its new paint job today, and all who saw stood and marveled, for even the traditional pot bellied stoves in the waiting room and the agent's office wore gaudy coats of silver paint.

Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania today notified Homer E. Capehart, chairman of local arrangements, that he will be among the first of the Pennsylvania delegation on hand. Davis once worked in the now closed Elwood tin plate mill and was city clerk here from 1898 to 1902. The corner stone of the city hall bears his name.

Capehart was informed by telephone today that the Cook county, Ill., delegation will bring elephants, bands, drum corps, and troupe of cheer leaders from Northwestern university and the University of Chicago. George Carlson conveyed this message for John T. Dempsey, Cook county chairman.

Huge Postcard Arrives.

A new exhibit was on display at notification headquarters today—a mammoth plywood postcard from the citizens of Aberdeen, Wash., addressed to "Wendell L. 'Win' Willkie, the next President of the United States."

This piece of bona fide mail is 5 by 3 feet in size and bears $8.70 in stamps. On the message side it informs the nominee that "southwest Washington wants you in Aberdeen on your western swing," and beneath are the signatures of 2,000 citizens, headed by Mayor Herbert Horracks. It will be presented to Willkie on the 17th.

JOSLYN DANCING TEACHER TELLS ABOUT SIDESTEP

Detective, Houseman Add Divorce Testimony.

A dancing master who was hired to teach Mrs. Charlotte C. Joslyn's four children how to dance the rhumba and play gourds such as are used in Cuban bands took the stand yesterday in the Superior court of Judge John C. Lewe.

The witness, Paul Shahin, 35 years old, of the Stevens hotel, said that in December, 1937, after refusing two previous invitations to have dinner in Mrs. Joslyn's home at 5724 Dorchester avenue, he was prevailed upon to stay.

"Mrs. Joslyn put the children to bed, sat on my lap, and told me it was too late to go home," Shahin related. "Notwithstanding, I left."

Seeks Welfare of Children.

On cross-examination, Shahin said his only motive for testifying was a regard for the welfare of the four Joslyn children, Joy, 10; Lloyd, 9; Mary, 7, and Theodore, 4. He was called as a witness for George R. Joslyn, wealthy manufacturer of electrical supplies, who contends that his wife's repeated misconduct warrants dismissal of her divorce suit, charging desertion.

C. Clark Albers of 1518 Howard street, a private detective, who was employed by Joslyn last Sept. 1, testified that at 9:30 the same night a man entered her home with Mrs. Joslyn and stayed 15 minutes. The next day, Albers said, the same man came at 3:30 p. m. and stayed until 9:30, and the following day he arrived at noon and stayed "quite late."

"I was able to observe from my station outside the house that Mrs. Joslyn sat on his lap," Albers said.

The detective continued that on Sept. 4 at 8:30 p. m., he saw Mrs. Joslyn and the man go to a room on the second floor, where they stayed 25 minutes.

Shown photographs, Albers identified the caller as William F. Wolsey, alias Dr. William Bennett, a biopsychologist mentioned in previous testimony as having been a constant caller at Mrs. Joslyn's home.

Edward Richards, who was employed as a houseman when Mrs. Joslyn was living in Lake Bluff in 1938, also told of frequent calls by Wolsey.

"Mrs. Joslyn had many gentlemen callers," Richards testified, listing six. "This one gentleman always was welcomed with a kiss. Frequently he stayed for dinner. Whenever he appeared I had instructions to inform callers that Mrs. Joslyn was out."

Talks with Mrs. Joslyn.

Richards said that after he left Mrs. Joslyn's employ in May, 1939, she called on him and said, "I hear you've been talking about me." Richards said he replied, "If you want to bring your husband here, so the three of us can sit down together, I'll tell him everything I know."

Mrs. Joslyn, Richards said, replied, "I'll call you a liar." Richards said he answered her by saying, "I'll tell him I don't care who you kiss, or whose lap you sit on, but please leave me out of this mess."

After this, Richards said, Mrs. Joslyn shook hands with him and "we separated friends." Richards' wife, Catherine, former cook in the Lake Bluff home, has also been called as a witness. The case is to be resumed at 9:30 a. m. today.

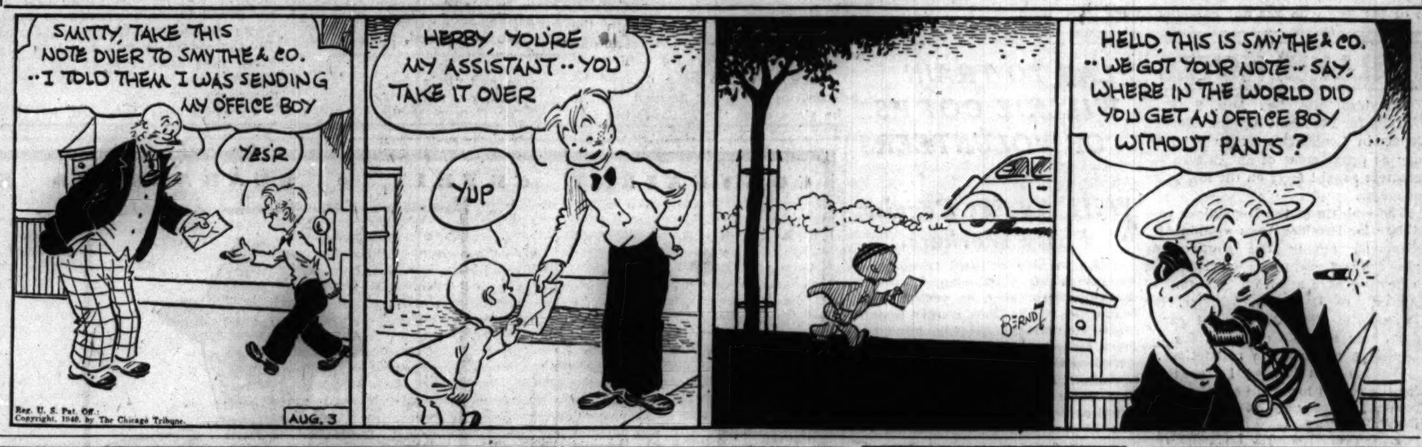
Charges of bigamy brought against Wolsey in Felony court by his wife, Helen, of South Milwaukee, Wis., were continued by Judge Francis Borrelli until Aug. 13. Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papanek said arrangements might be made by then to return Wolsey to Milwaukee to face charges of abandoning his wife and four children.

Wolsey is accused of having married an Anna Mackey here in 1935, without having divorced his first wife, and to have been married in Dubuque, Ia., in 1938 to an Alice Rost, seven months before Miss Mackey divorced him.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Truth Springs Eternal

SMITTY — BARE FACT



TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Here is the fifth and final instalment of my TEST FOR THE BOY FRIEND, based on confidential interviews with 1,187 young women who frankly listed the merits and demerits of their own sweethearts. A man who scorns these helpful pointers is either an intense egotist or afraid to be rated by the consensus of modern young women. A girl who has limited experience with men should supplement her meager knowledge of masculine psychology with the contacts made by these other 1,187 women with their sweethearts. If her boy friend has a low rating, she should either tactfully try to reëducate him or else look for better prospects at once. Marriage is a serious business, so don't accept inferior or shoddy merchandise. To score your boy friend, subtract the DEMERIT total from his MERIT total and then interpret the net score according to the norms below.

DEMERITS.	MERITS.
1. Too superstitious. Believes in luck, fortune telling, etc. [6]	1. Has attractive teeth and infectious smile. [6]
2. Accepts defeat too easily. Lacks aggressiveness and perseverance. [30]	2. Industrious. Can hold a job, so a girl feels she can lean upon him. [30]
3. Belittles men who work hard and get ahead financially. Wants the wealth shared without work or merit on his part. [6]	3. Is an intelligent, modern American, who believes in protecting his wife by an adequate amount of life insurance. [6]
4. Carelessly flicks cigaret ashes on the parlor rug. [6]	4. Comes from a family where father and mother are in love with one another. [6]
5. Too attentive and gallant to the point of effeminacy. [6]	5. Is respectful and considerate of his parents and brothers and sisters. [6]
6. Dishonest. A cheater. Thinks it is smart to "gyp" people. [30]	6. Never goes home angry. Always talks things over fairly. [30]
7. A "loud mouth." Tries to dominate every social group. [6]	7. Asks definitely for dates instead of leaving girl in uncertainty. [6]
8. Careless in personal habits. [6]	8. Has social assurance and poise. Can direct others tactfully. [6]
9. Unduly suspicious and excessively jealous. [30]	9. Has executive ability and leadership. [30]
10. Has nervous giggle, weak handshake, and excessive timidity. [6]	10. Even tempered. Doesn't fly off the handle easily. [6]

SAYS MOTHER FAILS TO WASH DAUGHTER; SUES FOR CUSTODY

Jean Weiss.

Clara Nowicki.

Because, he said, his former wife did not wash their 3 year old daughter thoroly behind the ears, Attorney Robert J. Weiss, 5400 Harper avenue, asked custody of the child yesterday. Under terms of a divorce granted Mrs. Elizabeth Weiss on March 27, 1939, the father and mother each have custody of the child, Jean, for six months of the year.

Weiss said he turned Jean over to his ex-wife July 1, and that on a recent visit, noticing a rash on the child's neck, took her to a physician, who said that it resulted from lack of scrubbing. Weiss submitted a photograph of the neck taken by a commercial photographer.

Robert Cantwell Jr., counsel for Mrs. Weiss during the divorce hearing, told Judge Oscar F. Nelson in the Superior court that he had not heard from her recently. The court directed Attorney Joseph Taussig, representing Weiss, to attempt to serve Mrs. Weiss for appearance next Monday.

SPURNED SUITOR SHOOTS WOMAN AND KILLS SELF

A rejected suitor died in Evangelical hospital yesterday less than an hour after he had dragged his sweetheart of six years from an automobile, shot and wounded her twice, then turned the gun on himself.

The suitor, Chester Ostrowski, 30 years old, unemployed, of 4747 South Wolcott avenue, drove his car after one in which his former sweetheart, Miss Clara Nowicki, 24, of 551 West 43d street, a stockyards worker, was riding to work with a woman friend and her husband. At 43d and Wallace streets he curbed the car, pulled Miss Nowicki to the street, shot her in the abdomen and leg, then fired a bullet into his head.

Stockyards police, said Ostrowski had been trying to effect a reconciliation with Miss Nowicki for six months. She is expected to recover.

RUNS RED LIGHT; WOMAN KILLED, ANOTHER IS HURT

4 Injured Seriously in Highway Crash.

Mrs. Bernice McCabe, 30 years old, of 7733 North Shore avenue, was killed yesterday and her sister, Mrs. Lucille Conroyd, 45, of 2212 Granville avenue, severely injured when they were thrown from a car to the pavement in a collision at Avondale and Devon avenues.

They and three other passengers were riding in a car driven by Mrs. Conroyd's daughter, Lucille, 18. The other driver, Matthew Pisanko, 25, of 2619 Iowa street, eastbound in Devon avenue, failed to halt for a stoplight, according to Jefferson Park police. He was held for an inquest today. Mrs. McCabe was the wife of Attorney Thomas R. McCabe.

Woman Killed and Ten Hurt.

Mrs. Hugh Ernst, 60, 1100 North Dearborn street, was killed last night and 10 persons were injured in a head-on automobile collision on U. S. route 30 at an S turn five miles east of Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. Ernst's husband, a traveling salesman; their daughter, identified only as Mrs. Taylor, and their granddaughter, Lynn, 6 months old, were going to Winona Lake, Ind. Accompanying them was Y. T. Rodeheaver, 505 North Michigan avenue, a brother of Homer Rodeheaver, one-time evangelist and choirmaster for the late Billy Sunday. Ernst's and Rodeheaver's injuries were called critical.

The Ernst car struck a truckload of six Negro CCC enrollees going to their homes in Gary, Ind. Calvin Richmond, 23, was critically injured. All those hurt were taken to the Parkview hospital in Plymouth.

Woman, 70, Fatally Hurt.

Mrs. Katherine Schweppe, 70, 6447 South Seeley avenue, was injured fatally when she was struck by an automobile at 95th street and Michigan avenue. She died in Burnside hospital. The driver of the car was W. H. Waddington, 6859 Paxton avenue. Mrs. Schweppe was the wife of Benjamin Schweppe, a watchman, and had been visiting friends.

Four persons were injured yesterday, two of them critically, in an accident involving three automobiles on Route 49 a mile north of Kankakee.

Emery H. Skinner, 45, of 6517 Minerva avenue, head of Emery H. Skinner & Co., certified public accountants at 332 South Michigan avenue, was the most gravely hurt. At St. Mary's hospital in Kankakee it was said he was not expected to recover.

Witnesses said Skinner, driving south, ran into the rear of a squad car driven by Policeman John Hassett, 48, of the village of Bradley. The impact drove the police car across the 40 foot highway into the northbound lanes. There it collided with the third machine, in which were Elmer Davison, 27, of 4600 South Sawyer avenue, and his wife, Marie, 26.

Boy Cyclist Killed.

Robert Bogdan, 12, of 7310 South Rockwell street, died in Holy Cross hospital after he had ridden his bicycle against the side of an automobile at 71st and Rockwell streets. Charles Krahn, 15, of 6809 South Ada street, was the driver.

Leslie Munn, 70, of 4131 North Bell avenue, a garbage collector, was crushed to death when he fell beneath a city garbage truck in an alley behind 4737 North Damen avenue.

James J. Jones, 65, of 1621 Prairie avenue, was fatally injured at 18th street and Indiana avenue by a trailer truck driven by Joseph Wellner, 4419 Wallace street.

Jesse Williams, 39 years old, colored, of 3621 South State street, a laborer, died yesterday in County hospital of injuries suffered Thursday night when he was struck by an automobile at Michigan avenue and 36th place. Frank McDonald, of 4029 Federal street, was the driver.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 487 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 366 were killed in Chicago, where 13,288 were injured in automobile accidents during the same period.

WILLIAM G. ANDERSON DIES.

Andover, Ill., Aug. 2 [Special].—William G. Anderson, 70, former road commissioner and tax collector in Andover township died this morning in a Moline hospital. He had lived here since 1913. The widow, Amanda Rex Anderson and 19 children survive.

OBITUARIES

Dr. James Hardy Dillard.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 2 [Special].—Dr. James Hardy Dillard, 84 years old, distinguished southern educator, who was awarded the Theodore Roosevelt medal for 1937 in recognition of his work in furthering understanding between the white and Negro races, died tonight. His career as an educator extended over a period of 60 years. In 1907 he resigned the professorship of Latin at Tulane university to become president of the Jeanes Foundation, for the promotion of Negro rural education.

William P. McCorkindale.

Holyoke, Mass., Aug. 2 [Special].—William P. McCorkindale, 51 years old, of South Hadley, well known inventor and technician in paper making circles, died today. Some years ago he invented a process and a machine to make paper by a new method. He reversed accepted paper making theories, basing the design of his machine entirely on the suction theory for removing water, thus eliminating the necessity for continuous wires and heavy press rolls.

Mrs. Claudia King.

Mrs. Claudia King, widow of Albert V. King, a Chicago banking official, died yesterday at the age of 44. She lived at 641 Lyman avenue, Oak Park. Surviving are five daughters, Mary Catherine, Dorothy, Virginia, Carol Jean, and Barbara Ann, and two sons, John C. and Albert V. King Jr. The funeral will be held at 9:30 a. m. Monday from the home to St. Catherine of Siena church in the suburb.

Lars Lidquist.

Lars Lidquist, 73 years old, 1902 North Cicero avenue, for 50 years a resident of Chicago, died of a heart ailment in his home last night. He was a retired coppersmith. A native of Sweden, Mr. Lidquist had been active in Swedish-American societies. He leaves five children, including a daughter, Mrs. Lillian Stewart, with whom he lived; and twelve grandchildren.

Donald R. Glass.

Donald R. Glass, 25 years old, 1230 Lunt avenue, died late Thursday in the Illinois Central hospital after an operation. Mr. Glass was the son of James R. Glass, former United States commissioner, and was a graduate of Northwestern university. His parents and a brother survive. Services will be held in the chapel at 6959 North Clark street at 2 p. m. today.

Frederick J. Froehde.

J. R. M'CARL DIES; FOE OF NEW DEAL SPENDING SPREES

Ex-Controler General Stricken in Office.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 [Special].—J. R. McCarl, former controler general of the United States and known as the "watchdog of the treasury" until he resigned in 1936 after controversies over New Deal extravagance, died suddenly here today. Employés found him dead in his office, where he had been working alone. It was believed he had suffered a heart attack. He was 60 years old.

J. R. McCarl.

McCarl had been practicing law here after retiring from a stormy 15 year term in the office which audits all government accounts.

Blocked Spending Scheme.

As controler general, McCarl blocked several major spending schemes of the Roosevelt administration on legal grounds. Some of his rulings hampering pet projects of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt brought loud protests from New Dealers.

He ruled out the proposed tree barrier against erosive wind and water, pointing out that the money had been appropriated to meet immediate relief demands and could not be parceled out for the geographical protection of the unborn.

He also flatly refused to allow the government to pay architects' and builders' fees for erection of a factory at Mrs. Roosevelt's Reedsville, W. Va., project because congress had not granted permission for the building of an industrial plant there.

When the New Deal tried to juggle funds around for administration of the social security act after the filibuster of the late Senator Huey P. Long had killed the deficiency measure in 1935, McCarl blocked all efforts as unlawful.

Denounces Heavy Spending.

Upon the eve of his retirement in June of 1936, McCarl issued a scathing denunciation of New Deal spending in his first and only press conference during his term of office. He attacked the Roosevelt administration's "emergency measures" as loosely and extravagantly set up and tax consuming to the extreme.

McCarl was born near Des Moines, Ia., in 1879. He graduated from the McCook, Neb. High school, and received an LL. B. degree at the University of Nebraska in 1903. He became a member of a law firm at McCook and was private secretary to Senator George W. Norris from 1914 to 1918. He is survived by his widow.

JAMES W. ELLIOTT, JACKSONVILLE BANKER, DEAD

Jacksonville, Ill., Aug. 2 [Special].—James Weir Elliott, 59 years old, member of a pioneer Illinois banking family and chairman of the board of the Elliott State bank, died at his home here tonight. He had been ill a year.

Mr. Elliott was a cousin of Frank R. Elliott, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank of Chicago, and William S. Elliott, vice president and general counsel of the International Harvester company, Chicago. His grandfather was one of the founders of the bank here, which has been headed by a member of the family ever since.

Surviving are his widow, Louise, and two daughters, Mrs. Ralph Duewer of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Cornelius Meeker of St. Louis, Mo.

COUSIN MOVES TO BREAK SLAIN SPINSTER'S WILL

An appeal was filed yesterday in Circuit court by Irving L. Leffman, of Des Moines, Ia., from a ruling in the Probate court upholding the validity of the will of Rose Neary, a wealthy spinster, who was mysteriously murdered in her home at 3248 Franklin boulevard June 2, 1939. Leffman, Miss Neary's first cousin, asserts that he is the rightful heir, but that Attorney Samuel Pincus, 3240 Franklin boulevard, obtained Miss Neary's signature to a will he had drafted by fraud and coercion. The will, disposing of an estate estimated at $60,000, permits Pincus to select various charities to which the money will be given.

Baby Shower to Be Given for Nancy Elephant

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Elephant Society of the United States, members of the Chicago Zoölogical society, directors of the zoo at Brookfield, and members of the press have been invited to a gala party at 3 o'clock a week from tomorrow afternoon in the elephant house at the zoo. It is to be a shower for Nancy, the elephant George Getz Jr. and his brother, James R. Getz, presented to Brookfield, who is expecting her first child within the three months after Aug. 12.

Delicately tinted pink and blue invitations show a fleet of storks bearing Nancy's baby earthward, followed closely by another fleet of "reserves," for after all it will be no easy task to carry as big a baby as Nancy's will be. Watching the flight is Minnie, the giraffe, who is saying "Me too—later," for she and Jack are expecting a baby some time after Aug. 30. They will be among the neighbors on hand for the shower.

The elephant pushing an empty pink pram undoubtedly is Nancy's mate, Ziggy, who formerly belonged to the late Florenz Ziegfeld. Ziggy traveled around the world three times with the Singer Midgets before settling down to domesticity at Brookfield.

Zoo Elephants Scorn Their Fellows that Work.

The Elephant society is composed of about 96 animals, all zoo elephants. Circus elephants are excluded because they work for a living, whereas zoo elephants live the idle life of the rich. John T. McCutcheon is president of the Zoölogical society, of which the directors are John P. Kellogg, John Wentworth, Graham Aldis, and Solomon A. Smith.

Edward H. Bean is director of the zoo. His son, Robert Bean, curator of mammals, has made a few suggestions for gifts which guests, unaccustomed to such parties, may bring for Nancy. A five gallon cask for a baby bottle would be acceptable, as would gallons of canned milk, wagon loads of hay, bushels of red beets, or oat straw for bedding. For one who wishes to bring something a bit different Mr. Bean suggests a bed jacket for Nancy, made by some large and reputable tent and awning firm.

The party undoubtedly will equal the success of a gay buffet supper the zoo directors gave last September to open the refectory at Brookfield. Refreshments — soft drinks only—will be served at the elephant house next Sunday, however.

Garden Club Sponsors Barrington Homes Tour.

Ideal weather, maps routing visitors to seven lovely estates, police and Boy Scouts directing the heavy traffic, and cold drink stands along the way all were part of an efficiently planned tour of Barrington country homes and gardens, sponsored yesterday afternoon by the Garden Club of Barrington.

Among those visited was Arrowhurst, the home of the Guy V. Dickinsons. It was built in 1875 by Margaret Roosevelt Kimberly and has been in the Dickinson family for five generations. The house, a white clapboard building, furnishes a most appropriate setting for the daguerreotypes and family portraits which line the walls; for the whatnots bearing porcelain figures and bowls; for the first edition books in the library, which boasts a quaint mid-Victorian shell chair; for the spinning wheel and grandfather clock in the hall. Old French prints, fireplaces, dressers with marble tops, fourposter canopied beds, and a walnut chest brought from England in the 1700s grace the second floor.

Ten thousand pheasants were the especial attraction at the Sheldon Clarks. The table settings and flower arrangements at Craftsbury Farm, the home of Miss Elizabeth Howland, were among the most exquisite on the tour.

Refreshment tables were set at the pool of the James R. Cardwell estate, with its terrace and sloping hillside, and guests wandered leisurely across the road to the home of Mrs. Kenneth Knickerbocker, Mr. Cardwell's daughter, who had opened her guest house.

Saddle and Cycle to Stage Tennis Exhibition.

The names of William T. Tilden II., Frederick J. Perry, and Vincent Richards never fail to thrill tennis enthusiasts. These three players and Ben Gorchakoff will be seen in exhibition matches at the Saddle and Cycle club on Saturday and Sunday next week, and club members already are busy reserving boxes and seats. Tickets will go on sale to the public next Wednesday. A special buffet luncheon will be served on both days.

Lots of small parties tonight will contribute to the week-end's gayety. Many of them have been planned to precede the final Saturday night performance at Ravinia park, where Kirsten Flagsted, soprano, will be heard with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, John Barbirolli conducting. The Charles H. Morses will have as their guests their daughter, Mrs. William S. Covington, and Mr. Covington of Omaha; Mrs. Euclid M. Covington of Westport, Conn., a niece; Gen. Robert E. Wood, and the Charles H. Swifts. At tomorrow afternoon's concert the Morses will have a family party, including the Covingtons, and another daughter, Baroness Beck, and Mr. Morse Jr.

Edward B. Smiths Giving Dinner at Shoreacres.

The Edward B. Smiths are giving a dinner at the Shoreacres tonight for Mrs. Smith's brother, A. Peter Dewey, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Alger Jr. of Detroit. The Algers will return home tomorrow, following a week's visit with the Smiths.

Concert Crowd Cheers Weber and Orchestra

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In Grant park last night the W-G-N orchestra under Henry Weber's direction and Maria Kurenko, Russian soprano, gave a program which was scheduled as all-Tschaikowsky and which would really have been all-Tschaikowsky if the singer's second encore group were not counted.

The concert was a tremendous success. It proved—if any proof was needed—that Tschaikowsky's music, when it is performed with love and understanding and imagination, simply makes fools of its detractors. It woos the ear, satisfies the esthetic sense, and inflames its listeners with delight. True, it is limited—but what composer, pray, is not?

As played last night the fifth symphony was anything but a series of puny episodes bound together by a trivial theme and climaxed by a few bars of meaningless sonority. Mr. Weber and his men were able to give it a sense of direction and of importance and to build up a tremendous cumulative power through its four movements. The coda was full of a genuine exaltation. There were cheers as well as applause at its end.

The excellence of the performance was due largely to the conductor's determination that each division and each subdivision of the symphony should be rich and expressive and arresting, yet not obtrude itself in such a way that its meaning and its place in relation to the whole work could be lost sight of.

Thruout the symphony there was a sense of progress toward a goal. The road was enchantingly beautiful, but it was always a road, never a cul-de-sac to turn back from nor a glade to dilly-dally in.

In arias and songs by Tschaikowsky and [in the second encore group] by Mozart, Massenet, and other composers, Mme. Kurenko brought forth all of her mighty artistic resources. Her ability to personalize a simple melody and give it a heart storming expressive power was in evidence in Liza's air from "Pique Dame." Still more so, perhaps, in her first encore, "None but the Lonely Heart."

Her ability to preserve an even, lovely line in the midst of the most harrowing difficulties was proved in Mozart's "Alleluia." Also—minus the harrowing difficulties—in the gavotte from "Manon." Here was consummate art, for the song's limpidity and purity subtly strengthened rather than weakened its emotional power.

Mme. Kurenko's taste and imagination and innate musicality were apparent in every phrase she uttered. She is an artist who has added more luster to Chicago's artistic life than almost any other importation in recent years.

Plaint of a Vacationer.

(In the morning mail.)

"It's the back trails I want to travel, not the concrete highways.

"It's the old live-in-for-years houses I want to see, not the new English inns.

"It's the brooks babbling over fallen logs I want to hear, not the splash of divers in man-made pools.

"It's the real Ozarkians I want to meet on the road—the kind Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm writes about, not the m. c. in the advertised hostelries.

"Will you please tell me where I want to go?"

HAPPINESS.

Happiness has been construed
As just a state of mind;
Appropriating cheerfulness
And gladness of a kind
That permeates the inner souls
Of those for whom we live;
And how contented we should be
That we have this to give.

By Way of Report.

Karl Ulmanis, recently ejected as president of Latvia by soviet Russia, was once a milkman in Lincoln, Neb., and in the ancient, turreted mansion where he lived the medieval, heraldic emblem of Latvia was crossed with the green pennant of the Nebraska State College of Agriculture, his alma mater. . . . Royalties on John Philip Sousa's compositions are expected to increase on account of the present popularity of patriotic music.

Suburbanite and a Mail Order.

A suburban gentleman recently ordered a fire screen from a Chicago mail order house. He received instead a garden cultivator. He returned the garden cultivator and informed the firm of the mistake. A few days later he received a polite note;

"We are sorry the garden cultivator was not satisfactory. Would you tell us what was wrong with it?"

The suburban dweller replied that there was nothing wrong with the garden cultivator, but that he had ordered a fire screen. A few days later he received a refund for the garden cultivator, with no word about his fire screen. He again ordered his fire screen. After some days of waiting he telephoned an executive of the mail order firm, whom he happened to know, and said that he would like a fire screen immediately, and if it would be sent to his office that afternoon he would take it to his Highland Park home himself. "Surely it isn't too much to ask that it be delivered immediately a few blocks away," he added.

The fire screen was duly delivered that afternoon at his office and he took it home. When he arrived there he found another fire screen, his original order having finally been filled. Now he is trying to get the second fire screen returned.

Good Morning!

There are two schools of thought regarding Bette Davis—[have I said this before?]—that of those who grit their teeth at mention of her name and of those who grit at the gritters.

But it seems to me that her finely restrained, intuitive, and warmly sympathetic portrayal of Henriette Deluzy-Desportes, the English governess who became such a tragic puppet of fate, should elicit enthusiastic commendation from everybody.

I'm afraid those who read Rachel Field's engrossing novel based upon actual occurrence—the case of Henriette was the talk of two continents—won't be overly enthusiastic about the picture. It's been pretty well adapted from the long and meaty book, but moments of clumsiness detract from its interest and appeal. . . . Especially did I dislike the closing schoolroom scenes and dialog. And I WISH the book's ending might have been adhered to. However, if you haven't read the story the film may meet with your complete approbation —and I hope so.

Henriette is employed as governess in a strangely unhappy home. The wife and mother, the duchesse des Praslin, is a passionate, beautiful, and unbalanced creature, insanely jealous of her husband who, wearied of domestic tempests, accords her courtesy and pity but is no longer able to give her his love. . . . He adores his children, and has taken over the responsibility of their education. . . . It's because he disapproves of the woman his wife had placed in charge of them that Henriette finds herself guardian of the three flowerlike girls ranging in age from 8 to 13 years and a tiny adorable boy of 4. [Richard Nichols, playing the part of Raynald, is the most appealing youngster I've seen on the screen in ages. You could eat him!]

It takes no time at all for the duc to realize how happy and safe his darlings are in Henriette's care. And, as he relaxes in the peace she has brought to his home, love for her creeps into his heart and awakens response in hers. . . . Tho nothing passes between the two that the world might not hear and see, the duchess knows him now irretrievably lost to her.

Follow terrible scenes which are to result in her murder—of which Henriette is accused—and acquitted.

Charles Boyer plays the duc understandingly, making that harried gentleman conduct himself like a gentleman and a soldier, until—his moment of madness descends upon him with such devastating results. . . . The children are beautifully portrayed. . . . Jeffrey Lynne is all right as the peaceful backwater. Barbara O'Neil gives a capable account of herself as the sultry, unpredictable duchess de Praslin.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

From the notebook:

Out of the east, where all the fashion experts are in the preautumn huddle, comes word that the pompadour is such an important fashion that many of the fall hats are especially designed to conform with it.

The jewelry people are welcoming the brushed up hair fashion, too. Earrings will be a lot more important than they've been for a long time, and these will be ensembled with combs and barrettes. One stunning set to dramatize hair brushed off the forehead features huge pearl earrings and wired half circles of pearls placed over the high roll of hair. Another ornament ensemble consists of a flexible coil of topaz worn just above the brow, with flexible coil pendant earrings that match.

There's a good bit of talk these days about a possible shortage in perfume because of the war, some asserting that by Christmas the imported perfumes will be scarce and expensive. It isn't so. The war didn't break out overnight. Perfumers were foresighted enough to begin shipping and storing here in large quantities long ago. This year's supply is quite safe, so far as most houses are concerned. About next year and the year after that, it's anybody's guess.

Incidentally, speaking of war, one of the trade papers states that English authorities are considering giving the Women's Auxiliary Air Force members a hairdressing allowance. Fair enough, wouldn't you say?

Two Smart House Dresses

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESSES.

There's no reason under the sun why house dresses should be drab. We're of the opinion that they should be, and can be, as smart as any other frocks, and these two patterns are our arguments in proof of this statement!

Left, a paneled model with deft bodice shirring. Rickrack braid is the simple, easy-to-use finish at square neckline and around simple puffed sleeves. Buttons are optional down the center of the panel. Checked materials make up handsomely in this design.

Right, a pretty, conservative model for the older woman, with contrasting collar that is rather wide and is edged with the same ruffling that trims the kimono sleeves and the pocket hems. Printed cottons with dark backgrounds are favored for this version.

Style No. 2943 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Style No. 3127 is designed for size 16 and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material, ⅛ yard of contrasting, and 3 yards of ruffling.

Each pattern costs ten cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Aug. 2.—Wesley Ruggles, the former Keystone cop, took time from making little ones out of big ones for a chat. So I asked him how you go about making little ones out of big ones.

Ruggles has just about finished one of the most talked of pictures of the neighborhood—"Arizona." He'd built a town in Arizona; he'd run up a little bill of $2,000,000; he had been plagued by heat and clouds and actors' illnesses; a couple of months or so behind shooting schedule, he had at last finished the filming of Jean Arthur, William Holden, Warren William and all that scenery.

Now he was cutting the picture—making little ones out of big ones. Having learned a couple of things he wants to know from the first few trims, on Monday he will call in his actors and start making retakes at the Columbia studio. In a few weeks the retakes and musical background will be finished and "Arizona" will be ready for its first sneak preview. If all goes well the picture will be ready for release soon afterward. "Then," says Ruggles, "no more pictures for me for a while. I'm going to collapse and have a vacation."

"I try to shoot my scenes," Ruggles explains, "so all you have to do is take the slate off."

The slate is the board with the scene number and other identifying data that a guy in his shirtsleeves, glasses and rumpled hair holds up in front of the camera at the beginning of each take. To get a picture ready for cutting you just tear off the film containing the picture of the man with the slate and paste the rest of the stuff together.

Ruggles started with 15,500 feet of "Arizona." By the time of the first sneak preview it should be down to 11,500 or 12,000 feet. When it is ready for the customers it will be down to 10,500 feet—nearly two hours' running time and a long show.

"I've been making the first trim," the director explains, "and I find I've been averaging 100 feet a reel. That makes 1,500 feet right off the bat and that's pretty good.

"In the first trim you just cut the loose ends off scenes. You always shoot too much, so that's easy. After three sets of trims it will be a pretty tight picture."

But why the retakes? Something wrong?

"No. You come to a place where you find you can make one scene tell everything that two scenes now are telling, so you make a short version. It's a funny thing, but in making a picture you find you have often told the same thing twice. You haven't realized it when you okayed the script. A man who could tell about these things from a script, and thus avoid them in the shooting, ought to be worth about a million dollars a year out here.

"Cutting a picture is a hard job, particularly when it's your own. You have to be heartless, like a good copyreader. You have to be rough on yourself as well as on others. You've got to throw bits you have become very fond of into the can."

The most unpleasant cutting-room experience Ruggles ever had was in trimming a picture he had made with Dorothy Dell and Lew Cody. Pretty, young, up-and-coming Miss Dell met a tragic death. Ruggles left work long enough to go to the funeral, then returned to the projection room—where, quite by chance, the first scene to greet him on the screen was of Dorothy singing a song. Then Cody died. Again Ruggles went to a funeral, again went back to his cutting task—and the first scene was of Cody.

Your reporter went yesterday to the preview of Metro's "Boom Town," in which Gable and Tracy play a Flagg and Quirt of the oil fields and Colbert and Lamarr look very beautiful indeed. It's good stuff all thru, but the best part, I thought, was the first half—swell action stuff of Burk Burnett and wildcatting in the early days. The part in which Gable and Tracy blow out an oil well fire with nitroglycerin is superbly done, and hair-raising.

A scout, back from the Coffeyville, Kas., première of "When the Daltons Rode," reports that Coffeyville, long noted mainly for the Daltons, now claims fame on another count. Wendell Willkie once taught history there, and a local editor says it was the largest history class in history, because at least 250 residents have claimed being members. That's more people than claim they shot the Daltons.

Among the most elaborate offices in Hollywood are Darryl Zanuck's and Walt Disney's, but Disney's new quarters don't feel so highpowered as Zanuck's. There's a grand piano and statuets of all the cartoon characters —including many not yet seen by the public—and a sofa and comfortable chairs. There is a bar behind a sliding wall, and a bedroom which Walt used just once. It was when he first moved in and he thought he ought to try it. But somebody forgot about him and turned off the air conditioning. In the middle of the night he awoke in a sweat, had to paddle down a long hall and find an axe to chop open a couple of windows for a little air.

Noted Maestro Debunks Music and Musicians

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

The usual conception of a classical orchestra conductor is a wild haired fellow, middle aged or elderly, shot thru with temperament and the convictions that the only great composers are the dead ones. Edwin McArthur doesn't fit this picture.

He is 32 years old, dapper, slender, with hair which stays put. He is informal, free spoken. He believes that Bach, Beethoven, and Wagner are among the immortals, but that there is real music, too, in the works of Cole Porter and the orchestrations of Johnny Green and Duke Ellington. And McArthur is one of the leading orchestra conductors in America.

He came here yesterday to conduct two concerts for Kirsten Flagstad, the great Wagnerian soprano. He will appear with her at Ravinia tomorrow afternoon and at the Grant park free concert next Thursday evening.

"I've been lucky to get where I am," said this heretic. "I was born in Denver, Colo., with the ability to tell when a musical pitch was wrong. I didn't have to go to Europe and change my name to McArthurnelli."

"Do you like swing?" the newspaper man asked.

"And how!" replied McArthur, emphatically, if unprofessionally. "I played a piano in a swing band for several years. Six years ago I became accompanist for Mme. Flagstad and for the last three years I've conducted for her. If Wagnerian music ever goes up the flue, I'll go back to a swing band. Of course, I think and hope Wagner will endure.

"There are too many long haired, snooty people in music. After all, the great test is what pleases the public. And don't let anybody kid you—a person takes up music as a career because he thinks it will bring him money if he is successful. Art is a great thing, but a guy has to eat.

"This country is concentrating on military defense. But it shouldn't overlook cultural rearmament. The best thing we can do is give a chance to thousands of youngsters who desire to go places in music."

"What about temperament among musicians?" was another question.

"That's the bunk," McArthur said. "Every musician is nervous after appearing before a big crowd. Some of them go into tantrums. I sleep it off."

MISS DAPHNE BJORKLUND.

Miss Daphne Bjorklund's engagement to James D. Tracy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Tracy of Chicago, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bjorklund of Kansas City, Mo. The wedding will take place on Aug. 20 in Kansas City, and Mr. Tracy and his bride will live in Detroit. Miss Bjorklund attended Sullins college in Virginia and was graduated from Northwestern university. Mr. Tracy is a graduate of Dartmouth and the University of Michigan law school.

Another Party Is in Offing for Sally's Friends

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Just one short day to wait, boys and girls!

Then you'll know two very important things. When your TRIBUNE arrives tomorrow morning, all the youngsters who've written in for invitations to see "Scatterbrain" will know what luck they had. Fifty boys and 50 girls who'll go to the Studio theater to see this funny movie with me will find their names and addresses in my column. If your name is on the list, be on the lookout for the mailman, because he'll soon bring you a personal invitation from me. If it doesn't arrive by Tuesday, at the latest, or if your address is printed incorrectly, please let me know, so that we can straighten things out in time for you to receive your invitation for Thursday, Aug. 8.

That same column will also bring you news of our next party—and it's one you're sure to want to attend.

Recently a number of you have asked if you could write in for more than one party, or if you may attend only one. I don't know where you got the idea that if you came to the circus or the baseball game, you might not write for invitations to other parties, but it's not correct. Any boy or girl may write in for any party, and when you see the good news tomorrow I know you'll dash for a paper and pencil!

Murder Is Not Mute

SYNOPSIS.

Detective Patrick Doyle of New York City is vacationing in a small town resort when, while walking in the woods on the estate of Adolph Wunsch, he stumbles upon a skeleton. He tells Thurman Briault, Wunsch's brother-in-law, his discovery, and Briault tries to bribe Doyle to keep silent. Instead the detective reports it to police headquarters, and Officer Madden and Judge Blain accompany him back to the spot only to find the skeleton gone. Trailing fresh footprints, they find the skeleton buried a short distance away. Dr. Blake, the coroner, says it is the skeleton of a girl in her late teens and that she was murdered. Madden asks Doyle to help him solve the mystery. The pedro finds some blue yarn on nearby twigs and the three men encounter Wunsch playing golf on his estate and question him. In the meantime Wunsch's young wife, Paula, is worrying about her unhappy marriage. She married for money in order to help her mother and brother, and she found that her husband has treated them all like prisoners, tho he has allowed them to live in their home along with his aged father and his 18 year old daughter, Texie. Miss Doty, a trained nurse, takes care of his father. Wunsch has sent Paula's mother as chaperon with Texie for an extended tour of Europe, and Paula has been leading a lonely existence. Lately Wunsch has been driving to town every night with his chauffeur, Follins, and Paula has become so suspicious of her husband that she puts a detective on his trail. Doyle and Madden arrive to question the household and when they find that Truman Briault, Paula's brother, is the owner of a blue sweater they ask to talk to him. They cannot find him, and when Doyle questions Follins he learns that Briault is planning to leave that night.

INSTALMENT XII.

TOUCHY CHAUFFEUR.

Doyle launched his next question accusingly. "You don't like Briault, do you?"

Follins bent lower over the motor. "What makes you say that?"

"It stuck out all over you," Doyle said, "when you brought the raincoat to him yesterday."

The chauffeur's head came up with a jerk. "Then it was you—in the shed?"

"Yes."

"But——" His good-looking, high-colored young face was eloquent with bewilderment. "Did Mr. Briault bring you here?"

"What makes you think he did?"

The chauffeur ignored that. "Did he?" His tone was stubborn, intent upon knowing.

Doyle shook his head. "No. We met by accident." He peered up at Follins narrowly. "Why don't you like him?"

"He's all right," Follins said half-heartedly.

"I don't think so," Doyle said.

For a moment something flickered in Follins' eyes. Doyle thought it looked like hope. Hope of what?

"Isn't there something you'd like to tell me about Briault?" the detective asked softly.

Instantly the flicker was gone. The green-blue eyes were opaque. "I don't know anything about him or anybody else," Follins said doggedly. "I'm just the chauffeur. I do my work and I mind my own business."

Follins' face grew close and secretive. "Not that I know."

"Don't you have a lot of night driving?"

Follins retorted with a sudden burst of spirit. "If you want to know about Mr. Wunsch why don't you ask Mr. Wunsch?"

"I don't want to know about him," the detective said softly. "I want to know about you."

At that the boldness went out of Follins. He looked scared again. "What about me?"

"I never knew such a touchy guy," Doyle said. "What's wrong with asking if you ever took your girl on a picnic?"

"Well, I didn't." Follins' voice was sharply emphatic. "Not to the woods. Only to the beach. I never go near those woods."

"Can you fire a gun?"

The ruddy face was suddenly wan. "I cannot. You can ask anybody. No one ever saw me with a gun in my hands."

"How about Briault?"

The Chauffeur's eyes wore that guarded look again. "I couldn't say bout him."

"But you think maybe Briault can fire a gun?" Doyle pressed.

After a pause, Follins admitted, very low, "Yes."

Follins looked surprised. "The boathouse was broken into last night."

"Is that so?" Doyle said casually. "What's missing?"

"A canvas cover from one of the dorys. And a shovel. And a pot of fish glue."

Fish glue, Doyle mused. What the hell was that for? Aloud he asked, "Anything else?"

Follins shook his head. "That's all. And the funny thing is, there's stuff in the boathouse worth real money. We think a kid did it," he volunteered.

Follins gasped. "What do you mean, a trick?"

"To hide that somebody came in by the door," Doyle said. "Somebody who had a key to its lock."

Follins stood still, seeming to turn this over in his mind.

"When did Briault decide to leave here?"

Doyle's voice recalled Follins from his reverie. He answered reluctantly, "This afternoon. He phoned about half an hour before you came in here."

"What time is he leaving?" the detective asked.

The chauffeur's jaw set stubbornly. "That's one of the things he told me not to tell. I don't want to get into trouble."

"O.K." Doyle grinned. "Suppose I guess. My guess is, he's pulling out of here tonight when Wunsch isn't around."

"I don't think Mr. Briault will be taking any trip anywhere," he said jovially. "Not unless he takes a little trip with me."

Again there was that curious flicker in the chauffeur's eyes. Half hope, half dread.

Doyle turned back toward the house and passed through a formal garden hedged with boxwood. He didn't think much of it, he decided. Too damn stiff. But beyond it there was a cutting garden full of bloom. That was the way a garden should be.

He did not realize until he passed the boxwood barrier that a young woman was strolling among the flowers. The starchy folds of a nurse's regalia did not conceal her exceptional figure, and her hair gleamed red-gold in the sun. Doyle liked looking at her and continued to do so, unabashed, after she had discovered his presence.

"Hello," he said genially.

She looked him over deliberately. Then she smiled.

"Hello, yourself."

"You're the nurse," he observed, "that——"

But she interrupted him mockingly. "The man ought to be a detective," she said.

"I am."

She eyed him quizzically.

"No fooling," Doyle said. "I mean it."

She tossed her bright head pertly. "I don't believe you."

"Why not? Don't I look like a detective?"

She looked him over once again before she said, a bit uncertainly, "You look kind of like a cop."

Doyle grinned. "Well, there you are. That's how I started."

"You aren't fooling, are you?" There was wonder in her tone now, and curiosity. "But if you're a detective, what on earth are you doing here?"

"A little matter of murder," he told her.

Her eyes widened.

"I heard that Mr. Wunsch found a dead man in the woods. Is that true?"

"Wrong on both counts," Doyle assured her. "It isn't a man. It's the skeleton of a woman. And Mr. Wunsch didn't find it. I did." As the young woman stared at him in startled silence he inquired, "What's your name?"

"Peggy Doty," she told him. "What's yours?"

"Patrick Doyle."

Her eyes sparkled. "The Doyles and the Dotys ought to get along."

"I'd like to get along with you," Doyle told her. He chuckled. "I'm going to see a lot of you, sister," he promised. "If I have to accuse you of murder to manage it."

Passing out of the garden and around the house, he stared up at its massive bulk, his eyes raking its three tiers of windows. The day was soon to come when Death would strike from those windows. But now their gleaming rows looked innocuous enough, reflecting blandly the late afternoon sunlight.

Dr. Fuerbringer Heads Lutheran Conference

The Rev. Dr. Ludwig Fuerbringer, head of Concordia Lutheran seminary, St. Louis, Mo., yesterday was elected president of the Synodical conference at its 37th biennial convention in session at St. James Lutheran church, 2046 Fremont street. Delegates representing 1,700,000 Lutherans from the Missouri, Wisconsin, Norwegian, and Slovak synods will discuss on Monday the proposal of a union between the Synodical conference and the American Lutheran church. The latter body has a membership of approximately 1,500,000. The convention will close Aug. 6.

Teaching Order Observes Its 75th Anniversary

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch and other high ranking dignitaries of the Catholic church in Illinois participated yesterday in services at Joliet which opened the three day observance of the diamond jubilee of the Sisters of the Third Order of St. Francis of Mary Immaculate. The order was founded in Joliet by Sister Mary Alfred Moes and three companions. Its 750 members teach in 51 parochial elementary and 15 high schools, one college and one orphanage in Chicago, Joliet, and other cities in the Chicago archdiocese and in various dioceses in Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin.

On the House

No use trying to deny facts and figures when they come straight from the offices of statisticians! . . . We've often said that electric dishwashers were a big WORK SAVER. . . . But getting down to concrete cases. . . . If you have a family of four you wash and dry some 30,000 dishes a year [counting pans and pots]. And in 30 years, if you had cared to "stack them," you would have achieved a pile of dishes, pots, and pans close to 18 or 19 miles high.

Quick orange breads are easy to make and delicious, but yeast orange breads are even more of a gastronomic delight. Some of them are flavored with orange marmalade. This one contains orange rind and juice. Nuts may be added to the recipe.

Orange Yeast Bread.
[Three loaves.]

2 cakes yeast
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups luke warm water
7 cups sifted flour
¼ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
1 egg yolk
Grated rind of 2 oranges
¾ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon salt

Dissolve yeast and 2 tablespoons sugar in lukewarm water and add 1½ cups of flour. Beat well [use electric mixer, if you have one] and cover. Let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Cream butter and sugar. Add egg yolk and beat into yeast mixture. Add orange rind, juice and salt with remaining flour. Mix well, knead until smooth, and shape into loaves. Place in greased loaf pans and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake at 400 degrees for 45 minutes.

Recipes for orange rolls, raised orange muffins, quick orange muffins, waffles and rolls are all to be found in "Better Homemade Breads and Rolls," which sells for 23 cents, by mail. There are dozens of other good bread, biscuit, and roll recipes in the book, too.

On a hot day, chilly food and drink are as necessary as hot foods on cold days. This set of booklets [25 cents for the five, by mail] can be an inspiration to a cook who wants to keep cool herself, as she prepares reviving lunches, suppers and afternoon refreshments for her family and guests.

WARM WEATHER COOKERY PAMPHLETS.

1. "Freeze the Salad," 32 recipes for frozen salads of all kinds [5 cents].
2. "Thirst Quenchers," a booklet of recipes for chilly drinks [5 cents].
3. "Cool Meals for Warm Days," menus and recipes for the kind of "eats" you want in hot weather [5 cents].

WEDDINGS

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in St. Matthew's church, Evanston, Miss Denise Gair, daughter of the Sidney R. Gairs of Evanston, will become the bride of Arthur Joy Draper Jr., son of Mrs. Draper and the late Mr. Draper of Charlotte, N. C. The bridegroom's brother, the Rev. William Draper, who is on furlough from Japan, will officiate.

Miss Patti Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred L. Fox of Woodlawn avenue, and Howard Gray Swann will be married at 4:30 o'clock at the Fox home. The Rev. Sidney Snow, president of the Meadville Theological school at the University of Chicago, will officiate. A large reception will follow.

Miss Eleanor Miller, whose home is in Utica, N. Y., and Dale Willard Patton of Fairmont, Minn., will be married this afternoon in Evanston and will go to Tyler, Tex., to live. The bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Horace M. Miller have come for the ceremony, which will take place at 3 o'clock in the Howes memorial chapel on Northwestern university's campus.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The worst bids at contract are those that are "neither fish nor fowl," in more technical terms, based neither on honest values nor on out-and-out "psychics." At duplicate bridge it often is advisable to make a shaded third or fourth hand opening bid, but in rubber bridge there is no excuse for slashing honor trick requirements to one and one-half plus, except with a very strong suit. East got just what he deserved in today's hand.

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

Speaking of East's just dessert, it must be admitted that West's pass to the take-out double was highly questionable, considering that he was void of spades. He might have anticipated that his void indicated a long line of spades in North's hand [since South was also probably short, having doubled for a take-out], and that North might convert the take-out double into a penalty double by passing. But there was also some logic in his feeling that a two club or two diamond bid on his miserable suits might only be jumping from the frying pan into the fire. North, of course, acted correctly in passing to the take-out double. His splendid spade suit speaks for itself.

East had originally opened the hand on the vague hope that he might stop an adverse game and now decided that even if he went down two or three tricks [East was an optimist!] it would be a worthwhile saving.

Actually, there was no merit in East's bid from any angle. With honors in every suit, he should have been satisfied with defensive possibilities. If his partner had as good a hand, game for the opponents would be very doubtful; if he didn't, a semi-psychic effort would be much too costly. It was much too costly!

South opened the king of clubs, and followed with the queen and ace, North discarding hearts on the latter two rounds. South shifted to the queen of hearts and North ruffed. A low diamond went to the queen, and a second heart ruff followed. On another low diamond lead South captured East's king, and gave North a third heart ruff. Now on a diamond lead from North, East was helpless. Whether he trumped with the nine or jack of spades, South was bound to make his ten spot. As it happened, East trumped with the nine of spades, South overtrumped, and North's three top spades completed the rout. Declarer was held to exactly one trump trick, and thus was defeated six tricks on a contract for only one-odd.

Even Big Boys Like Praise, Says a Mother

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Mothers of sons will be interested in this letter.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Regarding your article, 'Actual Praise Is Encouraging,' I think it is to anyone, man or child. Watch a child when you compliment him. His expression changes, a faint smile appears, then a big one. We don't compliment them often enough, even our big lads. It often brings them out of their reserve. We always seem to be searching for future things and benefits. The present good actions we overlook. I think so much is expected of our boys today, even more than of the girls.

"Your articles on recommending that mothers do something in a social way for their sons was 100 per cent correct, to my way of thinking, and also to that of many of my friends. We all seem to have read that article at that time, and it struck home, because we were trying to pave the way for our sons to make headway with their school graduation prom. It was their first, which they wanted to pass up due to their not having enough social freedom. Little gatherings at that time were arranged as your article read, just to break the restraint you spoke of, due to nonexperience.

"Good luck. A MOTHER."

Students Give Play.

Summer drama students of Northwestern university theater will close a four night run of "June Mad," a comedy, with this evening's performance at the school of speech on the Evanston campus. Clarence V. Miller has directed the production.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Saturday, Aug. 3.

Mixed psychology is among us today, with extra caution advised where the leaning is toward extravagance, quarreling, and where relations with superiors are involved. If you have routine to take care of, this is a good time for it.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from this to next birthdays brings series of major ups-downs-ups in occupation; be just, cooperative, with inferiors, loved ones, partners, associates, and way will clear. Danger: Nov. 29-Dec. 10; April 4-18, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Take it easy, on the highway and in personal affairs.

Do you want an individual interpretation for your own personal date? Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth and address.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Mum's the Word

BOB, I THINK I OUGHT TO WARN YOU NOT TO CONFIDE IN TOO MANY PEOPLE IN THIS SHOW!
I THINK YOU'RE ALL SWELL AND I KNOW I CAN TRUST YOU ALL TO KEEP MY SECRET!
OH, THAT'S ONE THING YOU CAN BE SURE OF! NONE OF US WILL TELL - BUT THERE'S ONE THING I CAN'T FIGURE OUT!!
AND WHAT IS THAT?
WELL, YOU TOLD ME YOU WERE WANTED FOR MURDER! YOU TOLD ADA YOU WERE A BANK ROBBER AND YOU TOLD NICK YOU WERE HEAD OF THE BIGGEST RACKET IN THE COUNTRY!

Knitted Set for Infants

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

This clever infant's set of four pieces may be created quickly and easily. The jiffy knitted sacque, mittens, and bootees are easy to do and the crocheted shoes are cunning little numbers which cannot be kicked off. The instructions include detailed directions for making these tiny garments together with the kind of material in which they may be successfully executed.

For instructions in knitting the infant's sacque, mittens, bootees, and crocheting the shoes, No. X-488, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Numerology By Evelyn Holmes

Aug. 3, 1940.

Universal Day—Take no immediate action today—wait for your second thought and don't let yourself be swamped by the aggressive action of others.

Universal Month—When the universal month [or day] are not in harmony with your own personal numbers for the month or day [you can get these by sending for your personal chart], then you must use more care in trying to carry out the suggestions given for those periods. Since August is a four-month universally, if you are having a three-month or a five-month, you won't find things running as smoothly as if the month were in harmony with your own personal numbers. August will not be expansive in general, and the concentration on work, schedules, systems, discipline, and routine will be felt by every one.

Year Ahead—Don't try to promote yourself or your work objectively this year. Work for inward changes and seek wisdom.

Would you like to know what kind of a year 1940 will be for you? Send for your personal yearly, monthly, and daily guide.

Lake Geneva's Garden Show Is Thing of Beauty

The 36th annual Lake Geneva horticultural exhibit, a midsummer display of flowers, fruits, vegetables, eggs, butter, and cheese, is a delightful and interesting show. It opened yesterday and will continue thru today, 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., and tomorrow, 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Proceeds will be divided among the Lake Geneva Garden club, the Lake Geneva Gardeners and Foremen's association and Holiday Home.

The judges, Mrs. Gordon Pirie, Mrs. Harold Seaman, Mrs. Robert Work, Henry West, William Longland, George Ball, Richard Schmidt, and James Livingston, had a difficut time deciding which of four entries in the fruit pictures should receive first prize. They finally compromised by awarding blue ribbons to all four—Mrs. Charles Peace, Mrs. Robert Whittaker, Mrs. Philip Starck, and Mrs. A. D. Edwards.

Mrs. Robert Tarrant, chairman of the flower show committee, won honorable mention for her garden pool with a Chinese figure in the background and lotus blooms in the shallow pool. Mrs. Earle Zimmerman, chairman of the tea room committee, won the blue ribbon in the table class; Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., the red one; Miss Janet Fairbank, the yellow, and Mrs. William Spencer, the white.

Among other prize winners were Mrs. Norman Harris, who had a blue ribbon for eggs as well as several others; Mrs. Madlener Sr., Mrs. E. Perry Ellwood, Mrs. Hans Reese, Mrs. William F. Peterson, president of the club; Mrs. Madlener Jr., Mrs. A. F. Gartz Jr., Miss Harriet Clifford, Miss Edith Kohlsaat, Mrs. William Levering, Mrs. L. W. Schultz, Mrs. William N. Pelouze, Mrs. Everett N. McDonnell, Mrs. Henry H. Porter and her son, young Henry; Jody Pope, Marjorie Hanson, Barbara Schultz, Suzanne Spencer, Jane Zimmerman, Nancy Dickinson, and Margaret Redeker.

The tearoom did a booming business and the young amateur waitresses were kept busy all afternoon. They were all in white with aprons of red and white and green in a small design, matching the menu covers. Among the volunteers were Dorothy Wrigley, Barbara Warner, Barbara Wakeley, Priscilla and Jean White, Barbara White, Jane Beckwith, Dorothy and Mary Warner, Sara Peace, and Jane Zimmerman. Today sub-debs Peggy Nicholson, Bunny Hettler, Suzanne Spencer, Nancy Madlener, Clare and Marietta Chapin, and Barbara Whiting will serve.

SOPRANO, BASS WINNERS NAMED FOR NORTH SIDE

600 Cheer Contestants in Festival Event.

Festival Tickets!

Tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival, which will be held the night of Aug. 17 in Soldiers' field, are on sale at 50 cents and $1 at The Tribune's Public Service offices in Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street. All seats are reserved. Mail orders should be addressed to the Festival Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, and must be accompanied by a check or money order made payable to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Soaring soprano voices, balanced by others of mellow bass, filled the ballroom of the Edgewater Beach hotel last night, completing the contests for north side vocalists who aspire to sing in the 11th Chicagoland Music festival to be held on the night of Aug. 17 in Soldiers' field.

Dorothy Mahon.

An audience of almost 600 persons, practically double that of opening night, sat more than 3½ hours to hear them. Lyric, mezzo, coloratura and dramatic sopranos, and bassos sang their songs and won their honors amid storms of applause.

Lyric Soprano Winner.

Miss Dorothy Mahon, 22 years old, 810 North Dearborn street, triumphed over a field of 22 lyric sopranos. Six of them were called back to sing again before the judges could reach a final decision.

Miss Mahon, who won Wisconsin state high school contests in 1934 and 1935, graduated from music school last spring. She is working part time as a waitress just now to further her musical education.

Second and third places were taken by Miss Margaret Michael, 25, of 225 East Huron street, and Miss Virginia Tollstam, 22, of 3334 Sheffield avenue. Both are music students.

Top honors as a coloratura were won by Miss June Avanelle, 17, of 228 East Huron street. Tho she has studied voice six years here and in her old home of Portland, Ind., Miss Avanelle had never before taken part in a contest.

June Graduate Is Second.

Miss Naomi LeBree, also 17, of 2734 Arthur avenue, a June graduate of Senn High school, was second. A theater usherette, she won third place last year. Miss Darleen Thomas, 18, of 1409 Wilson avenue, was third. She also is a June graduate of Senn.

Bettylou Scandling, 21, of 5722 Winthrop avenue, was adjudged the best mezzo soprano. She was told by her first music teacher, in South Bend, Ind., that she could never sing. Forget it, he advised. But Bettylou has studied five years. She sings in the Chicago City Opera chorus. She is soloist in the Lutheran Memorial church. And in this, her first contest, she is a winner.

A bride, Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly Miller, 25, of 1415 Hudson avenue, was second. She intends to continue her musical education. Ruth Rundstrom, 29, of 4314 Clarendon avenue, was third. She was second in last year's contest.

Six Called Back.

After the 13 dramatic sopranos had sung, the judges called six back. Then they named as winner Miss Irma Cooper, 27, of 1223 Astor street. Miss Cooper, who took second place last year, has taught music in the Akron, Ia., public schools and has played the piano since she was a small girl. She sings in the Union church of Hinsdale.

Miss Jean Carol, 19, of 2100 Addison street, was first place winner in 1938. She was out of the money last year and regards her second place victory of last night the beginning of a comeback. Stephanie Dale, 515 Briar place, was third.

Charles B. Fries, 21, of 4241 Kenmore avenue, came here from Pennsylvania last year with his mother to study music. Last night's contest was his first and he took first place among the bassos. He devotes all his time to music.

Salesman Takes Second.

Albert Stewart, 31, of 4345 Kenmore avenue, a salesman, who was first place winner in 1939, was second this year. Robert W. Miller, 23, of 5040 Kenmore avenue, was third.

The judges last night were Harry Walsh, director of the Northerners, heard on Sunday nights on W-G-N; Marie Zendt, voice teacher, and Erhardt Bergstrasser, junior college director of music. The contests were under supervision of Mrs. Edmund Tyler, chairman of the festival vocal and choral groups.

Contests for west side vocalists will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the Graemere hotel, beginning at 7 p. m.

TINY HOMEMADE SUBMARINE STAR OF EXTORT PLOT

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 2 [Special].—Police tonight reported they had solved the extortion plot against Rowland H. Davies, manager of the Sears Roebuck and company stores here, with the arrest of three young men who had planned carrying out their scheme with the aid of a home made submarine.

The men are Walter Paul Minx, 23 years old, of 2189 North 55th street; his brother, Kurt Frederick, 27, and Daniel Carter, 28, of 2231 N. 22d street, a brother-in-law. Walter, the younger of the two Minx brothers, is charged with having initiated and directed the plot to extort $100,000 of the business executive and having made and planted the bomb which exploded in the Sears Roebuck store, July 24.

One of four extortion notes Walter is accused of writing to Mr. Davies directed him to fly a plane from the Curtiss Wright field out over Lake Michigan and signal with lights where and when he was to drop the extortion money. Walter, in his submarine, was to dash to the spot, grab the money, submerge and head for the government pier.

STRIKE OF C. I. O. SEAMEN'S UNION TIES UP 3 SHIPS

Walkout Is Blamed on Contract Dispute.

Superior, Wis., Aug. 2 [Special].—A strike of C. I. O. seamen, members of a union allegedly ruled by communists, today kept three Great Lakes freighters tied up in different ports.

The strikers, who are seeking contracts with operators, are members of the National Maritime union. Charles Yale Harrison, left wing novelist, recently produced in New York fresh evidence of widespread communist activities among seamen in the union and accused its head, Joseph Curran, of holding membership in the communist party.

"The National Maritime union is not a genuine labor union dedicated to the economic and social welfare of its members," Harrison said. "It is a political racket operating in the interests of a potentially hostile foreign government."

Joseph Curran.

May Affect Other Vessels.

Hays Jones, organizer for the N. M. U., said the three ships tied up by the strike are the first bulk freighters to be affected by the contract dispute. Union officers indicated that three more vessels, now in transit, will become strikebound as soon as they reach their present destinations.

The B. F. Jones, operated by Interstate Steamship company, a subsidiary of Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, lies inoperative at the Great Northern ore dock here, where all of the crew except licensed officers left the ship.

The Carrollton, owned and operated by the Saginaw Dock & Terminal company, with headquarters in Cleveland, was tied up at Buffalo, N. Y., following a strike of 21 seamen after the vessel put in there. A cargo of 2,860 tons of steel plate, reputedly intended for building British torpedo boats, was unloaded and shipped to New York City by barge canal.

One Idle at Saginaw.

The three ships expected soon to be inoperative because of the strike are the Willis L. King, the James Laughlin, and the Thomas Walters, all operated by the Interstate company.

Organizer Jones said the N. M. U. has won collective bargaining elections in both the Interstate and Saginaw companies but had been refused contracts. He said Interstate has refused for three years to sign an agreement. M. C. Angloch, Interstate president, said at Pittsburgh that his company recognized the union as bargaining agent but declined a written contract.

12 JAIL PRISONERS TUNNEL WAY OUT; 21 REFUSE TO JOIN

Salem, Ill., Aug. 2 (AP).—Twelve men, one of whom later surrendered in Centralia, tunneled their way to freedom from the Marion county jail here early today.

Sheriff H. E. Vogt said the prisoners tore a piece of iron off the dining table in the bull pen, pried open a door that led to an underpass in which the jail plumbing was installed and then tunneled thru approximately three feet of dirt under the jail wall. It took them four days to dig the tunnel.

Twenty-one other prisoners declined to join them and remained in their cells. Ray Lowry surrendered at his home in Centralia a few hours later.

MUSIC FESTIVAL SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT AT PERU

Peru, Ill., Aug. 2 [Special].—Two music festivals will be held in La Salle county over the week-end. Tomorrow at 7:30 o'clock the first annual Illinois Valley Music Festival will be conducted at Washington park here. It will be a preliminary to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S 11th annual Chicagoland Music Festival, to be held Aug. 17, in Soldiers' field, Chicago. On Sunday an all-day Accordion festival will be held at Starved Rock State park. Winners from the contests here will go to the Chicago festival, and several hundred of the accordionists at Starved Rock will join a massed accordion band of 1,000 pieces at the Chicagoland fête.

The buildings had been used recently as a garage and storage space by the Chicago Heights Trucking company. Two trucks and three automobiles were destroyed by the flames.

Chicago Heights firemen were handicapped in their fight by lack of a water supply. They ran nearly a mile of hose into the city limits to get a stream they could play on the nearby plant of the Mid West Forging company. This plant was saved. The blaze started as a prairie fire and was whipped by strong winds.

URGES REVISION OF VOTING LAWS TO CURB FRAUD

Revision of the Illinois election laws to prevent fraud at the polls was urged yesterday by Attorney Albert J. Meserow at a meeting of the Women's City club of Chicago in the headquarters at 410 South Michigan avenue. Meserow is chairman of the Chicago Bar association committee on elections.

The legal provision that permits illiterate voters to be "assisted" in casting their ballots is responsible for the greatest number of frauds, Meserow said.

FINED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, whose personal courage and achievements are an inspiration to all. He recently said: "Let us guard America today as our forefathers guarded it in the past. They won this country from Europe with a handful of revolutionary soldiers. We certainly can hold it now with a population of 130 million people. If we cannot, we are unworthy to have it."

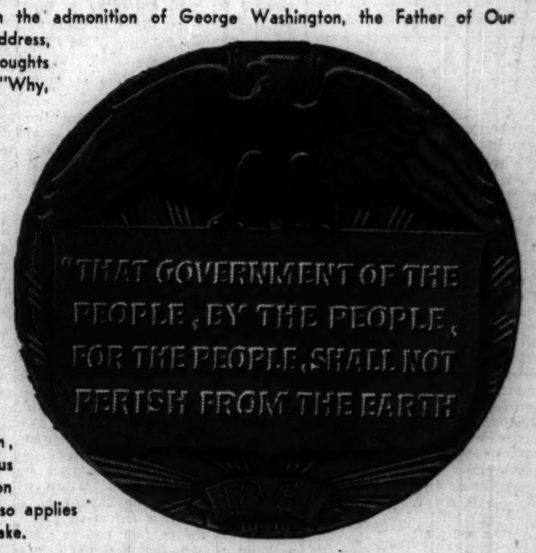
U. S. Senator Bennett Champ Clark, overseas World War Veteran, distinguished statesman and student of international affairs. He will tell you the folly of continued meddling in the business and conflicts of other nations, and why the United States should not intervene in foreign struggles.

The prophetic foresight in the admonition of George Washington, the Father of Our Country, in his Farewell Address, should give pause to any thoughts save honorable defense: "Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalship, interest, humor or caprice?"



The United States stands at the turning of the way. The path chosen will affect the destiny of us all, our children and our grandchildren. Abraham Lincoln, speaking on a similarly serious occasion, used the phrase on the adjoining plaque. It also applies today. Your future is at stake.

RISE AMERICANS!

Answer this emergency by your presence at Soldier Field Sunday afternoon, August 4th. The larger the crowd the more forcibly will we bring before the world our desire to mind our own business and to apply our energies and resources toward morally and physically strengthening our own country and its defenses.

CUBS BEAT DODGERS, 4-3; WHITE SOX WIN, 10-2

ALL RECORDS GO BY BOARD IN '39 ALL-STAR GAME

67 on Squad

THE All-Star football squad, which meets the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field on Aug. 29, last night was increased to 67 players with the acceptances of George Cafego, Tennessee quarter back, and Bob Kellogg, Tulane half back. Only three remain to report. They are Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana State end; Jim Turner, Holy Cross guard, and Harry Stella, Army tackle.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The New York Giants, champions of the professional league in 1938, tied the series with the All-Stars last August by winning, 9 to 0. Fully aroused by failure to win since 1935 and aware of the prestige millions of fans had given the game by participation in the players' and coaches' polls, the Giants played superlatively.

Sid Luckman.

But by their unwillingness to gamble with an open attack, the easterners had to be satisfied with three field goals, two by the veteran Ken Strong and the other by Marquette's Ward Cuff. So, as the Green Bay Packers, who meet the 1940 All-Stars in Soldiers' field Aug. 29, approach this seventh game in the series, the collegians may taunt them with the fact that the professionals, in their two victories, never have scored a touchdown.

After the scoreless tie in 1934, the Chicago Bears returned in 1935 to win, 5 to 0, by a safety and a field goal by Jack Manders. Detroit and the All-Stars tied, 7 to 7, in 1936. The following year, Green Bay lost to the All-Stars coached by Gus Dorais, 6 to 0, and in 1938 Washington's Redskins were badly beaten, 28 to 16. The tabulation is two victories each and two ties.

Preparation and presentation of the 1939 game was continuous advance to new records. In the players' poll, which chose a squad of 69, 10,916,366 votes were cast, exceeding the 1938 players' poll by 2,400,000. Davey O'Brien, successor to Sammy Baugh in the hearts of the followers of Texas Christian, led all players chosen for the starting lineup.

Three hundred thirty-two newspapers and radio stations coöperated in collecting and tabulating the gigantic vote, the number more than doubling the 1938 newspapers and radio stations participating in 1938.

Elmer Layden of Notre Dame received 1,247,916 first place votes in his successful campaign for head coach of the All-Stars and a total of 5,127,888 points. The total votes in the coaches' poll was 6,023,207. No such expression from the nation's sports fans ever had been witnessed in athletic history. It had not been visualized when the game was inaugurated in 1934.

Other Coaches Named.

Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, a teammate of Layden in the Notre Dame back field of 1924; Maj. Robert Neyland of Tenessee, whose 1938 team was undefeated; Carl Snavely of Cornell, coach of the eastern champions, and Edward P. [Slip] Madigan of St. Mary's completed the coaching staff. The system of election was altered last year to give the midwest, Western

MOORE GETS 65 TO TAKE LEAD IN MILWAUKEE OPEN

Johnny Bulla, Ed Oliver Second with 66s.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 2.—If you were to ask Frank Moore, one of professional golf's ablest apothecaries, his prescription for a 65, he would doubtless recommend a dash of summer flu, an injured left index finger, and ability to pitch close to the hole. These were the ingredients with which freckled Frank today took the first round lead in the first $5,000 Milwaukee Open tournament at the North Hills Country club.

The 30 year old Moore, older brother of Terry, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, went around the first nine in 33, and then finished up with a birdie on the 18th to come back in 32. The aforesaid ailing digit cropped up on the eve of the National Open in Cleveland, when he punctured it with a drill while adjusting spikes on a shoe. The flu caught up to him during the St. Paul Open last week-end, and after playing 36 holes Monday in Detroit where he is a free lance professional, Frank climbed into bed and stayed there for two days.

Oliver, Bulla Second.

Moore's irons were not the only ones which were dead on the North Hills flags today. There were those of Ed [Porky] Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., St. Paul winner and central figure in this year's National Open disqualification, and Johnny Bulla, the big Chicagoan, who was runner-up for the British Open last year.

The portly young Oliver assembled a pair of 33's for a 66, which presently was matched by Bulla, who blew a six footer on the final green for the 65 that would have tied Moore, last of the three leaders to finish.

Two shots behind Oliver and Bulla, entering tomorrow's second 18 holes, was a foursome of 68 shooters. These included Ralph Guldahl of Chicago; Chuck Kocsis of Detroit; Ernie Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., and Al Favelli of Litchfield, Ill.

Sinks 70 Foot Shot.

Highlight of Moore's round was his 70 foot chip shot for an eagle at the 331 yard tenth. Prior to that Frank holed an 8 footer at the second, put a 9 iron 18 inches from the sixth flag, dropped a 20 foot deuce at the eighth, and blew a six foot chance for a 31 on the ninth. After the eagle he smacked an 8 iron eight inches from the pin on the 12th, and concluded his labors with a wedge shot to within a foot and a half of the eighteenth cup.

Reds Lose First Double Header —to the Bees!

Boston, Mass., Aug. 2 [Special].—The lowly Boston Bees, buried in last place in the National league, today accomplished what no other club has been able to do this season: Whipped the league leading Cincinnati Reds in a double header, 10 to 3 and 4 to 3, the second game going 12 innings. The league champions previously engaged in 15 double headers this season, winning 10 and dividing 5.

The Bees won the first game and ended a six game losing streak, behind six hit pitching by Nick Strincevich. Chet Ross, the Bees' outstanding rookie, dealt the telling blow in the second game when in the 12th inning with one out and the bases loaded, he singled to score Johnny Cooney. Scores:

Dodgers Buy Southpaw; Pressnell Optioned Out

New York, Aug. 2 [Special].—The Brooklyn Dodgers today purchased Pitcher Wesley Flowers from Louisville to bolster their faltering pitching staff. Flowers, a left hander, has a 13 to 5 record with the Colonels. He is 27 and was once up with the Chicago Cubs. No purchase price was announced, but the Dodgers sent Tot Pressnell on option to the Colonels. Flowers will report Sunday.

Peewee Reese, Brooklyn shortstop, stands dejectedly at the plate after the last pitch in yesterday's game with the Cubs is called for a third strike. Two mates were waiting to score. The Cubs won, 4 to 3.

Passeau Halts Rally in Ninth; Herman Stars

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Larry French and Claude Passeau and some slugging Cub associates, notably Stan Hack, Bill Herman, Hank Leiber and Zeke Bonura, jolted the Brooklyn Dodgers' recently revived pennant dreams by effecting a 4 to 3 victory today in the opener of a four game series.

Passeau replaced French after Cookie Lavagetto and Pete Coscarart had singled with one out in the ninth. After a pinch single by Herman Franks had scored a run, Hack dropped Bill Nicholson's throw which had Johnny Hudson out at third for what should have been the final out. Passeau, who had struck out Pete Reiser for the second out of the inning immediately upon his entrance into the game, refused to be upset by Hack's bobble and ended the game by striking out Peewee Reese.

Dodgers Arouse Cubs.

The Cubs, who seem to be able to play according to their mood, showed clearly they have less of a spirit of camaraderie for the Dodgers than any National league team. Tho there were no fist fights today there wasn't a moment in which the Cubs weren't hustling.

French was the winning pitcher, thus accounting for his 11th victory. He held the Dodgers to two scattered singles in the first five innings and five the rest of the term.

Capt. Herman drove in three of the Cubs' runs with two singles. The other, the first of the day, got home on a force out by Rabbit Warstler in the fourth. The first of Herman's singles polished off the inning by driving in Bonura and Warstler. Stan Hack had three singles, a double and a walk in five trips to the plate. Hack scored what proved to be the winning run after doubling with two out in the sixth. Herman's second single sent him home.

Hack Keeps Hitting.

Leiber opened the fourth with a single and stopped at third on Bonura's double off the right field wall. Todd was given an intentional pass, loading the bases, whereupon Warstler forced Todd, Leiber scoring. French struck out as Warstler stole second. Hack walked, again loading the bases. Herman singled to left, scoring Bonura and Warstler. Tamulis was told his day's work was finished, whereupon he threw the ball to the right field wall and his glove past the dugout. Pressnell went in and made Gleeson roll to Coscarart.

After Pressnell had struck out Warstler and French in the sixth, Hack kept his afternoon batting average at 1.000 by doubling to left. Stan scored on Herman's single to center. The Dodgers broke thru in their half of the sixth. Reese opened with his second single, the third hit for

Kreevich and Kuhel Lead Attack.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who only recently began to appreciate their own strength, refused to surrender their fractional hold on the American league's first division yesterday. To assure themselves at least another 24 hours away from the common herd of the second division, they exploded 16 hits in the faces of their guests, the Washington Senators, and, for double assurance, Thornton Lee pitched a two-hitter in his eighth success of the year. The score was 10 to 2.

To attain their 12th victory out of their last 15 starts, and the 16th out of 23 since James Dykes' campaign took on serious aspects for the pennant contenders, the Sox knocked splinters from the frames of three enemy hurlers. First it was Sid Hudson, who was withdrawn in the sixth, an inning that Alex Carrasquel couldn't choke off until after five superfluous runs had registered. In the eighth Joe Krakauskas took a hand and three hits, for one run, knocked a few letters from his name.

Bloodworth Crashes One.

Despite his two-hit job, Lee once was forced to surrender a two-run lead fashioned for him off Hudson in the first three innings. In the fourth, after a pass, the giant left hander saw one of his pitches turned into a homer by Jim Bloodworth for a 2 to 2 tie. But, after the homer, the Senators had to depend on gratuities and they were scarce, so scarce that in the last five innings only one reached base. That was Bloodworth again, who walked with one out in the seventh.

A good portion of the Sox's 16 hit output was well handled by Mike Kreevich and Joe Kuhel. Iron Man Mike escaped from his 1940 slump long enough to record a single, a two-run homer, and a triple, all figuring in the scoring. Kuhel made his former mates think of Zeke Bonura for whom he was traded by slamming three singles and a two bagger. Three of Kuhel's smashes helped fellow travelers around the bases.

Webb Opens Attack.

The only hit off Lee for three innings was a single by Lewis in the first and he died stealing just ahead of Kennedy's fumble on Walker so no harm was done. The Sox crammed two hits into their opening attack but only one of them figured in production. Webb led off with a liner to the right field corner and was on third by the time Lewis located the ball. Hudson immediately made a wild pitch on which Webb drifted home. The other hit was Kuhel's single with one out but Wright fanned and Appling tapped to the pitcher.

Some of the Sox should have been lined up before the firing squad for what happened in the third. They collected one run off a double and three singles. Lee opened with the two bagger and was nailed by yards at third on Webb's intended sacrifice. Kreevich singled and a moment later Webb was caught napping off second base. Kuhel also singled and so did Wright to score Kreevich, but Kuhel was cut down trying to go from first to third.

Lee Has Some Trouble.

Lee was knocked back into a 2 to 2 tie in the fourth, but it could easily have been worse if it hadn't been for the leg power of the outfielders. The two run upset began with Lewis' getting a walk. Walker drove a long fly to center, but eventually Kreevich ran it down. Another long fly

*Woolford farm entry.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Joseph E. Widener's Roman, erstwhile leader of the middle western sprinters, will attempt to regain his somewhat damaged prestige in today's $5,000 Chicago handicap at Washington Park. He has quite a job cut out for him. Among his 14 rivals in this six furlong dash is the Lexbrook Stable's Potranco, which beat him by a nose in an allowance event last week at Arlington Park.

Some of the Widener star's other challengers have indicated they are just coming up to their best form. These include the Woolford's farm Joe Schenck and Tom Taggart's Yale o' Nine, both of which won impressively in recent starts at Arlington. There will be plenty of other speedy horses on the track to force a fast pace from start to finish.

Three Other Starts.

Roman has made three starts in the Chicago area this season, all of them at six furlongs and all at Arlington. In his first race, he surprised his backers by allowing Connaught to catch him at the head of the stretch, but stood a long hard drive to win by a head.

Later he came back to run in his accustomed fashion, drawing clear easily and keeping well in advance of his pursuers to finish nearly two lengths ahead of Talked About. Then came his defeat Tuesday of last week. Potranco caught him in the last furlong and beat him by a nose. Roman was yielding four pounds to his rival on that occasion. He will concede three today.

Potranco's victory over Roman was his second in succession. A few days previously he had beaten Royal Blue, Taxes and other good ones. This seems the time of the year when the Lexbrook teammates—Potranco and Designer—hit their winning stride. They were dominating the local juveniles in midsummer last season and now both have begun to win again after running poorly for weeks. Designer is not entered in today's stake event.

Joe Schenck Is Ready.

The consistent Joe Schenck, which will be running as an entry with his Woolford stablemate, Unerring, has shown he will be ready for another good effort. After winning a stake at Lincoln Fields, he went up to Arlington and finished third to his stablemate, Technician, in the Inaugural handicap. Then he came in second to Charles S. Howard's Advocator in the Stars and Stripes handicap. Last week, racing at odds of 4 to 5, he won a six furlong allowance event, beating Silverette, Plowshare and other well known campaigners.

Vale o' Nine, which is coming back powerfully this season after failing to live up to expectations last year, has won his last two starts. Previously he finished third to Advocator and Joe Schenck in the Stars and Stripes handicap.

Ex-Down Drafts Play at St. Philip's Field

The former Down Drafts, now playing as the Cardinals, tonight will meet the Ziemers of Milwaukee, Wisconsin State league leaders, in St. Philip stadium, Van Buren and Kedzie avenues. Recently in Normal park, the Ziemers defeated the Cardinals, 6 to 5. Gladys Keen, who has won 23 games in 25 starts this year, will pitch for the Milwaukee team and Jo Leonard will hurl for the Cardinals.

PIRATES' 4 RUNS IN 10TH CONQUER PHILLIES, 5 TO 2

Si Johnson Wilts After Duel with Bowman.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug 2 (AP).—Held to four hits in nine innings, the Pittsburgh Pirates bunched four hits for four runs in the 10th inning tonight to beat the Phillies, 5 to 2.

Singles by Frank Gustine and Lloyd Waner, doubles by Bob Elliott and Arkie Vaughan, and two infield outs in the 10th retired Si Johnson, who had relieved Cy Blanton in the third when Blanton injured his elbow. Until then Johnson and Joe Bowman had engaged in a mound duel.

Danny MacFayden, who replaced Bowman when the Phillies came back strong in their half of the 10th, was put out of the game by Umpire Bill Klem for protesting a called ball on Bob Bragan. Bob Klinger's first pitch to Bragan turned into a grounder to Vaughan, ending the game.

HARRY NYE'S GALE WINS FIFTH RACE IN STAR SERIES

Harry Nye Jr., leading Star class skipper of the Chicago Yacht club, yesterday sailed his Gale over a rough sea to win the fifth race of the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's annual race week series, off Wilmette harbor.

The Gale covered the five-legged course in 1 hour and 49 minutes. John T. Pirie II., of the Sheridan Shore Yacht club, was runner up in his Gemini, followed closely by the Otter brothers in Step-N-Fetchit, and Lockwood M. Pirie in his new Twin Star. Twenty other Stars from the Columbia, Jackson Park, Illinois Valley, Chicago, and Sheridan Shore clubs also competed. A moderate east to southeast wind prevailed.

Step-N-Fetchit lead the fleet on points at the end of yesterday's race, with a total of 154 points. Gemini was second with 149.

Palmer House Wins and Qualifies for Playoff

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 2 (AP).—Palmer House of Chicago, defending champion, advanced tonight to the playoff in the state semipro baseball tournament with a 5 to 1 victory over Jay's of Peoria.

The victory qualified the Palmer House to begin a three game series with Mills of Chicago Sunday night for the title.

Yankees Crush Indians, 10-2, Behind Russo

Cleveland, O., Aug. 2 (AP).—The New York Yankees had one of their good days today and crushed the Cleveland Indians 10 to 2 behind the six hit hurling of Lefty Marius Russo. The game was marred by nine errors, five by the Indians and four by the Yanks. Joe DiMaggio remained out of action, nursing minor injuries he received yesterday at Detroit when he bumped into the centerfield wall.

the Dodgers. He advanced on Walker's sacrifice and scored on Vosmik's single to center. Medwick fanned and Camilli flied to Gleeson.

With one out in the seventh Mancuso caromed a single off French's glove and Wasdell was sent to first to run for Gus. Wasdell was forced by Coscarart. Joe Gallagher, who got a bloody nose when he horned into a fight that was supposed to be more or less private in Wrigley field July 19, batted for Fressnell. French and Todd asked for instructions and Hartnett left the bench to hold a conference with them on the diamond. Apparently it was decided not to throw at the belligerent bench rider. At any rate, French got two strikes past Gallagher, whereupon Joe banged a triple to left, scoring Coscarart. Todd picked up Reese's tap and threw him out.

Passeau Rescues French.

With one out in the home ninth, Lavagetto and Phelps singled, bringing Passeau on the scene. Hudson ran for Phelps and Pete Reiser batted for Coscarart. Reiser was called out on strikes. Herman Franks batted for Carleton and on the first pitch singled to right, scoring Lavagetto. Nicholson had Hudson thrown out at third, but Hack dropped the ball after tagging Johnny. Franks stole second, but Reese was called out on strikes to end the game.

RIVALS, RAABS WIN IN GIRLS' SOFTBALL GAMES

The Rivals defeated the Rockolas 4 to 3, and the Raabs won a 6 to 2 decision over the Mills in girls' major softball league contests last night. The latter game inaugurated girls' major league softball in North Town Currency field, at Devon and Kedzie avenues.

Tonight the Mills, still challenging the Hydrox team for second place in the league standings, meet the Rockolas in Rand stadium, 1900 East 75th street, in the only league game on schedule. In other contests, the Hydrox team will play the Hill girls of Topeka, Kan., in Shewbridge stadium, 74th and Aberdeen streets, and the Rivals will play host to the Camello's, formerly the Rosebuds, of Covington, Ky., in Spencer Coals field, 4200 North Central avenue.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—The stock market resumed its creeping and selective advance today under leadership of steels, motors, and specialties.

While favorites finished with gains of fractions to a point or more, many pivotals were unable to make the grade and minor declines were plentiful at the close.

The list got off to a hesitant start and mixed tendencies prevailed throughout. The majority of oils, coppers and aircrafts never did get out in front.

Business prospects remained as the principal price bulwark and sentiment was buoyed somewhat by word from Washington congressional committees were ironing out the tax program for quick passage. Helpful was the announcement the house subcommitee had approved tentatively the proposal to amortize defense plant costs over a 5 year period.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 0.1 of a point at 42.9. With the exception of yesterday, when it was unchanged, this composite has tilted forward in the last eight consecutive sessions. From the standpoint of analysts and "chartists," this was considered a highly favorable sign.

Stocks ending ahead included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Westinghouse, du Pont, Chesapeake and Ohio, Great Northern, International Paper common and preferred, and Union Bag and Paper.

Texas corporation again was a soft spot among the oils. Lower also were Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, American Can, Consolidated Edison, and Sears, Roebuck.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—A limited number of rails and industrials moved up moderately in today's bond market while the general list idled along with changes small and the trend mixed.

An example of how close together buyers and sellers were in their ideas of price was the turnover of $106,000, par value, of Standard Oil of New Jersey, 2¾ at the unchanged price of 104⅛ and total sales of $241,000 of City of New York 3s at a net loss of but ¼ point. There were others equally active which showed only the smallest fractional change.

A group of inactive issues, generally classified as "special situations," moved within a fairly wide range, however. These included Warren Brothers 6s, up 6 points at 36⅛, Detroit Terminal 4½s, up 2 at 97, Greek Government 7s, up 4 at 22, and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Saut Ste. Marie 5½s, down 5 at 45.

PHELPS DODGE'S HALF YEAR NET PROFIT CLIMBS

Steel and Aviation Firms Have Gains.

Improved earnings were reported yesterday by three large producers of materials and implements allied with defense and war programs—Phelps Dodge corporation, Pittsburgh Steel company, and United Aircraft Products Inc. Radio Corporation of America and J. C. Penney company also announced increases, but National Dairy Products corporation reported a decline.

One of the leaders in the copper mining, smelting, and fabricating field, Phelps Dodge corporation and subsidiaries had net profit for the first six months of 1940 of $5,804,538, equal to $1.14 a share. This compared with $4,601,038, or 91 cents, in the first half of 1939, according to Louis S. Cates, president.

Steel Company Has Profit.

Pittsburgh Steel company and subsidiaries had consolidated net income of $176,399, or 59 cents a share on the 7 per cent class B preferred stock, during the June quarter. This was in contrast with a net loss for the same 1939 period amounting to $232,615. Net profit for the first quarter this year was $203,008, or $1.34 a share on the preferred.

For the six months ended June 30, Pittsburgh Steel profits totaled $379,407, or $1.94 a share on the preferred, against a net loss of $609,774 in the corresponding period of 1939, Henry A. Roemer, president, said.

United Aircraft Products, Inc., manufacturer of accessories and equipment for plane makers, had net income for the first six months of $249,997, or $1.84 a share. This was more than five times the $45,282, or 33 cents a share, in the same period last year.

R. C. A. Earns $1,415,728.

Net profit for the June quarter of the Radio Corporation of America and subsidiaries amounted to $1,415,728, equal after dividend requirements on preferred stocks to 4 cents a common share. This compared with $724,091, or 80 cents a share on $3.50 cumulative convertible first preferred, for the June quarter last year and $2,312,893, or 11 cents a common share, for the March quarter this year.

Engaged in various fields of the radio industry, the company for the first half of 1940 earned $3,728,621, or 15 cents a common share, against $2,172,201, or 4 cents a share, for the same period last year.

J. C. Penney company, apparel store chain, and its subsidiaries reported net profit for the first six months of $6,159,511, equal to $2.24 a share on 2,743,984 shares of common stock, including 200,000 shares voted earlier this year in the process of issuance. The total in the first half of 1939 was $5,920,614, or $2.33 a share on 2,543,984 shares.

Dairy Profits Decline.

Excluding foreign subsidiaries, National Dairy Products corporation and domestic subsidiaries for the first half of the year showed net profit of $5,125,871. This equaled, after allowing for preferred dividends, 76 cents a share on the common stock. For the same six months of 1939, the company, including foreign subsidiaries, had net profit of $6,678,849.

American Seating company, manufacturer of seating equipment, reported a profit against a net loss last year. For the six months ended June 30, net income totaled $100,197, or 45 cents a common share, compared with net loss of $53,818 in the 1939 period.

BRITISH ORDERS FOR WAR GOODS TOP 2 BILLIONS

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—British war purchases in the United States have climbed above the $2,000,000,000 mark, it was indicated by the British purchasing commission here today. Last week the figure was just under that total.

It also was intimated that airplane deliveries from the United States to Britain now are at the rate of about 300 a month, as against an April delivery rate of approximately 200 monthly.

Paris Bourse Reopens; Sellers Unable to Deliver

PARIS, July 30 [Delayed, (AP) via Berlin].—The bourse reopened today [Tuesday] in a burst of enthusiasm with the coal mining stock of northern France showing particular strength. Very little actual business was transacted due to the fact, said financial sources, that many would-be sellers were unable to deliver securities taken out of Paris during the evacuation of mid-June.

HOW 5 YEAR PLAN FOR AMORTIZING WOULD WORK OUT

The way in which the five year amortization plan for writing off costs of factory expansion for defense purposes would work was explained yesterday by an industrial executive, after the plan was approved by a subcommittee of the house ways and means committee.

The illustration was based on a hypothetical order for $5,000,000 of naval gun castings placed with a company which does not normally produce guns. The company would have to install special equipment even before work started. The cost of the equipment was placed at $1,000,000 in the illustration. Material, labor, and general overhead cost was placed at $3,600,000. The total cost, before taxes, would be $4,600,000, leaving a profit of $400,000 on the $5,000,000 order. The apparent profit would be $320,000, after the 20 per cent normal tax on corporations.

During each of the next five years, the books might show $1,000,000 of sales [1-5 of the order], manufacturing expenses of $720,000 [1-5 of the total cost], and charge against plant [or equipment], of $200,000 [1-5 of the cost], which also could be subtracted as operating expense.

Total expenses allowable for tax purposes for the year would be $920,000. "Profit," on which the government would get taxes, would be $80,000. Allowing the normal federal tax of $16,000, with no consideration of excess profits tax, the profit would be $64,000.

For five years the company would net five times $64,000, or $320,000, or equivalent to 6.4 per cent, giving fair assurance of a profit.

The $1,000,000 cash outlay in plant necessary to handle the order would be back in the till, with no loss possible on this item, even if the defense emergency passed and made the equipment useless.

Some manufacturers, however, plan to write off any special construction or equipment over the actual period of performance of the contract, even a year or less, as far as stating profits for shareholders, and providing funds, if any, for dividends, are concerned.

This action, however, would not affect taxes to be paid. For this purpose, the new plant would be written off in the five years or whatever number the law provides.

CAA EXAMINERS OPPOSE MEMPHIS TO K. C. AIR ROUTE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—Civil aeronautics board examiners have recommended against the establishment of a new air service between Kansas City, Mo., and Memphis, Tenn.

Eastern Air Lines, Inc., Braniff Airways, Inc., and Chicago and Southern Air Lines, Inc., sought to operate between the two cities. Braniff proposed to fly without a stop, while the other two companies proposed to make Springfield, Mo., an intermediate point.

Examiners Francis W. Brown and John W. Belt said that the cost to the government of the proposed route thru airway maintenance, etc., and the fact that its operation would divert traffic from existing carriers "outweigh the advantages to the public that might result therefrom."

GEN'L MOTORS TESTS ENGINE OF RADICAL DESIGN

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2 (AP).—A spokesman for General Motors corporation said today that a 175-horsepower airplane motor of radical design and construction is undergoing flight tests in Wichita, Kas.

The motor is a liquid cooled, radial power plant of five cylinders, presenting a combination of cooling method and cylinder arrangement not found in any other American aircraft engine. At present, the engine is installed in a Cessna monoplane for flight testing under supervision of the airplane company's engineers.

The General Motors spokesman said the development was one of a dozen engine projects which are the subject of current research by the company's engineers.

BUSINESS BOOKS

"Milk Distribution as a Public Utility," by Dr. W. P. Mortenson. [University of Chicago Press. $2.50.]

This book is a study of the proposal that milk be made a public utility like water, electricity, and gas. The author, an associate professor of agricultural economics at the University of Wisconsin, begins by pointing out that the high cost of processing and distributing milk leaves a wide margin between what the producer receives and the consumer pays.

The assertion is made that the welfare of urban populations depends largely upon fluid milk prices which do not prohibit purchase of amounts sufficient to maintain health and, similarly, the producers' welfare is improved by acceptable prices. Further, it is said, state and federal aid has been a stabilizing influence in maintaining satisfactory prices, but has not been a solution to the problem.

The history of milk regulation, costs, and profits of distribution, possible savings thru unification and the methods, problems, and economic effects of regulation are analyzed and discussed. The author concludes that from an objective viewpoint and as far as the consumer is concerned, the case for unified distribution is "clear cut." He states, however, that there would be opposition from distributors, labor, and organized producers, but adds that the latter group may be converted.

5 YEAR PLANT AMORTIZATION IS APPROVED

House Group Drops Profit Limits.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—A subcommittee of the house ways and means committee today agreed on the noncontroversial provisions of the forthcoming excess profits tax bill, but still had to decide on the basis of the tax.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Jere Cooper [D., Tenn.], reiterated agreement with a decision made at a White House tax conference on July 10 that the new bill will include provisions for: [1] Amortization of costs for expansion of plant and equipment for defense purposes over a five-year period and [2] suspension of profit limitations on warship and airplane contracts under the Vinson-Trammell act.

Face Struggle on Tax Base.

After announcing agreement on these provisions the subcommittee resumed conferences. Its biggest job is to iron out differences between treasury and congressional tax experts on the basis of the tax. Congressional sentiment is for a tax on earnings above the average for the last three or four years. The treasury proposes a taxing plan based upon a relationship between average earnings and the return on invested capital.

This latter plan would result in penalizing part of ordinary income. Rate schedules remain to be worked out, but the treasury hopes for revenues of 700 million dollars or more a year from the excess profits levy. Some observers believe that congress will ignore President Roosevelt's recommendation that the tax be made to apply to individuals as well as corporations.

Provide 20 Per Cent Writeoff.

The agreement announced today merely emphasized a decision already made at the President's tax conference 10 days after he had recommended the "steeply graduated" levy to congress. The amortization provision would provide for writing off of emergency expansion costs for defense purposes by allowing corporations a tax exemption each year equal to 20 per cent of the plant expansion costs.

While the five year provision is better than current taxing policy in which the amortization period allowed by the treasury runs much longer, it is believed that business will protest the flat provision for a uniform write-off over a five year period.

It has been observed by tax experts that if the amortization is limited to 20 per cent per year the taxpayer may have no earnings in the earlier years during construction or other preparation for the war orders and be prevented from obtaining full amortization in the remainder of the period.

Flaws Seen in Plan.

Also, in the event of a contract with the government providing for recovery of the investment in one or two years there might be large income beyond the flat rate of amortization—or tax exemption—and subjected to a high tax, possibly as high as 40 or 50 per cent, and in the remaining years there would be insufficient income to complete amortization.

Much of the credit for Germany's rapid rearmament is attributed to the German provision for complete amortization within a period of three years, a rule which enabled a quick turnover in plant and equipment and kept facilities modern.

Cooper said that companies seeking tax exemption on the basis of defense contracts would have to obtain certificates from the war department, navy or the President's national defense advisory commission stating that the plant expansion was required by defense contracts.

Term Is Defined.

He also asserted that an emergency industrial activity of the type eligible for tax concessions would be defined as "any land, building, machinery, or equipment, or part thereof, the construction, reconstruction, erection or installation of which was completed after July 10, 1940, or which was acquired after such date, and with respect to which a certificate has been made."

The subcommittee will recommend, he said, that a corporation may continue on a plant depreciation basis, instead of an amortization basis, if it elects to do so, and that even after it elects to claim amortization it can change back to depreciation if it gives proper notice. However, the corporation then could not return to an amortization basis. This rule would enable the corporation to make use of emergency facilities if it finds that they will have a useful value beyond the period of the defense contracts.

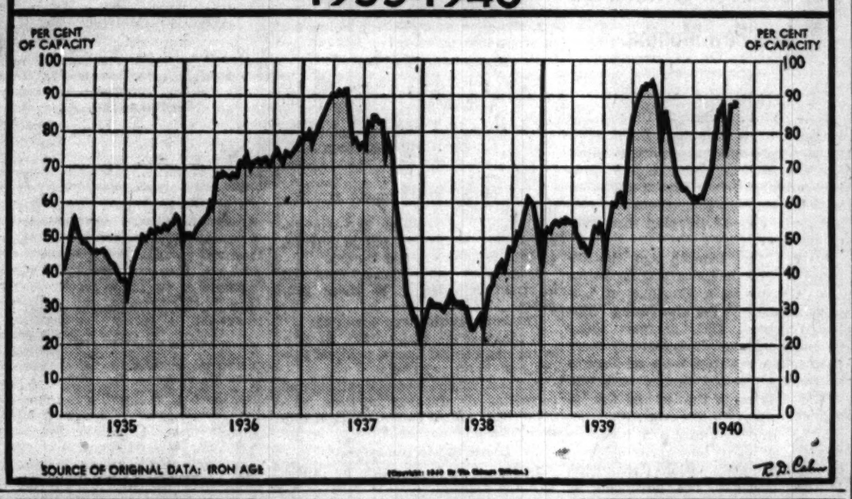
NEW SEABOARD AIRWAYS PLANS EASTERN ROUTES

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 2 [Special].—Alvin P. Adams, president of the Seaboard Airways, Inc., a subsidiary of the Seaboard Air Line railway, today announced plans for the establishment of several new air lines from the east to the south.

The new airways company has applied for a permit from the Civil Aeronautics administration which it hopes to get early next year, Adams said. About six months will then be required to put the new lines into full operation, he said.

Bondholders of the parent company have authorized the expenditure of $5,000,000 for planes and equipment, Adams said.

Ratio of Operations to Capacity of Steel Mills in the United States 1935-1940



INVESTORS WILL GET MORE THIS MONTH THAN IN AUGUST, 1939

Interest and dividend payments to American investors this month will aggregate $255,700,000, compared with $254,740,000 in August, 1939, according to a preliminary estimate by the New York Journal of Commerce.

Dividend distributions will total $132,885,000, or 14 per cent over the preliminary total for August last year. Interest payments will amount to $122,815,000, compared with $138,006,000 a year ago.

Included in the month's dividend payments will be $67,884,000 by industrial concerns; $34,793,000 from utilities, $21,727,000 from financial corporations, and $8,481,000 from railroads.

THREE OIL FIRMS FINED $4,500 EACH ON PRICE CHARGE

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 2 (AP).—Three major oil companies today were fined $4,500 each on pleas of nolo contendere to a federal indictment charging violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act in fixing gasoline prices.

The fines, $500 less than the maximum penalty, were assessed against the Union Oil, Standard and General Petroleum companies of California by Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick.

Tom Clark, special assistant to the United States attorney general, in charge of anti-trust law prosecutions in this area, indicated he expected others of the 41 major and independent companies indicted would follow suit.

In assessing less than the maximum fine, Judge McCormick said: "There are mitigating circumstances here, such as the attitude of the defendants in interposing a plea at this time. This saves a lengthy and expensive trial."

SEEKING COAL, HE FINDS 90 PCT. PURE LEAD VEIN

Bloomfield, Ind., Aug. 2 [Special].—While prospecting for coal with a homemade outfit, Robert Dailey struck what may be a valuable ore vein. Dailey sent samples of the ore to the state geologist and received a reply stating that while a complete chemical analysis had not been made, the samples are 90 per cent pure lead.

The vein, approximately 28 inches thick, was found on the farm of Dailey's father, William S. Dailey, about seven miles northeast of Bloomfield. There is no lead mine in this part of the state. It is understood few fields of the country test above 80 per cent pure, and that a vein testing 50 per cent is profitable.

Ball Brothers company, nationally known fruit jar manufacturers of Muncie, will send a geologist to the Dailey farm next Monday to make a complete investigation.

CHICAGO AIRPORT TRAFFIC IN JULY SETS NEW HIGH

Passenger traffic at Chicago airport established a record in July, it was announced yesterday. During the month 38,351 airplane passengers arrived at the airport and 39,130 departed, compared with 37,355 arrivals and 37,558 departures in June, the former record month.

Eastern Air Lines reported 28,815 revenue passengers flown last month, a gain of 52 per cent over July, 1939. The airline's revenue passenger miles flown totaled 11,619,521, or 54 per cent more than a year ago.

1½ MILLION JOBS ARE FOUND THRU PUBLIC OFFICES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—A federal security administration report said today that public employment offices found jobs in private industry for 1,500,000 persons during the first six months of 1940.

Placements and percentages of increase over the first half of 1939 for states in the Chicago area were: Illinois, 75,912, or 20.6 per cent increase; Michigan 54,290, or 32 per cent; Ohio 79,605, or 52.6; Indiana 43,178, or 13.7; Wisconsin 32,649, or 13.1, and Iowa 29,131, or 5.0.

U. S. Engineer Office, 816 U. S. Court House & Custom House, St. Louis, Mo. Sealed bids for constructing about 5,300 lin. ft. of bank protection, and 11,300 lin. ft. of timber piling clump and crib dikes in the Mississippi River between miles 0 and 157 above the Ohio River received until 10:30 A. M., August 6, 1940. Further information on application.

Railroad Buys 20 Streamline Locomotives

New and prospective railroad equipment purchases headed yesterday's news of stepped up industrial activity. The Southern Pacific company announced in San Francisco that it had placed an order with the Lima Locomotive works for 20 streamlined locomotives. Two middle western railroads were reported planning to build and buy a total of 2,200 freight cars.

C. Bedell Monro, who announced plane purchase.

The Southern Pacific locomonotives will cost 3,500,000, the announcement stated. They will be used for passenger service. Deliveries are expected to start toward the end of this year.

The freight car orders, to cost a total of $5,500,000, were reported by the Dow-Jones financial news agency as being planned by the Burlington and Rock Island railroads.

Freight Car Plans Disclosed.

The Burlington is planning to build 1,000 steel sheathed 50 ton box cars costing more than $2,500,000 in its own shops, according to the report, while the Rock Island may ask permission of the federal court to buy 800 box cars of 50 ton capacity and 200 automobile cars of 50 foot length which would cost a total of $2,700,000. This road also plans to build 200 gondola cars in its own shops, it was said.

Pennsylvania Central Airlines announced placing of an order for four 1941 Douglas airliners, to be delivered during the latter part of September. The new ships will cruise at more than three miles a minute, C. Bedell Monro, president of the airline, said. They will be powered with two 1,100 horse power engines and will carry 21 passengers and a crew of 3. The line will then have 22 ships in operation.

More Tanks Being Built.

Altho previous official reports had told only of 627 tanks under construction by the American Car and Foundry company, actually the firm is building 1,156 tanks for the United States army, it was revealed in Washington. Robert W. Horton, information director of the national defense commission, announced the larger number and added the company's plant at Berwick, Pa., was now turning out the combat vehicles at the rate of 2½ to 3 a day and would double its output in five months.

Defense commission officials said the North American Aviation company is producing training plans for the army and navy, altho no contract has actually been signed. According to the officials, several other aircraft makers are doing the same thing, since only slight adjustments stand in the way of signing most contracts.

More Munitions Ordered.

Contracts totaling $72,200,000 for the army and navy were cleared by the defense commission in the period July 18-27, making a total of $1,722,200,000 for the period from June 6 thru July 27, the commission announced yesterday. Largest single item listed was an order for $29,357,660 worth of weapons. Other contracts were also announced by the war department. Colt's Patent Firearms Manufacturing company of Hartford, Conn., received an order for $2,455,600 worth of weapons. Other government-owned Picatinny, N. J., arsenal.

A total of $7,859,162 worth of contracts included $3,241,290 for trucks from the Diamond T Motor Car company, and $1,737,000 for ammunition from Budd Wheel company, Detroit, Mich.

$5,000 BET WILLKIE WINS FINDS NO TAKER; 5 TO 4 ODDS OFFERED

A group of La Salle street brokers yesterday pooled $5,000 in cash and offered odds on Willkie over Roosevelt in the November Presidential election.

Edward J. Keeley, 141 West Jackson boulevard, one of the brokers, said the bet is still begging for a taker at odds of 5 to 4 despite wires to New York and extensive word of mouth advertising of the bet.

Keeley said the group insists on putting up the $5,000 sum against a lump sum of $4,000 by Roosevelt backers. Otherwise there are no restrictions, he said.

CHICAGO STORES' SALES DROP, BUT BEAT YEAR AGO

Chicago department store sales in the week ended July 29 averaged 4.1 cent higher than in the corresponding week last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Sales in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district showed a gain of 5.2 per cent for the week. Detroit and Indianapolis had gains of 8 per cent. Milwaukee's increase was less than 1 per cent. Store sales throughout the nation were estimated at 5 per cent larger than last year.

For the first six months of 1940, sales of Chicago department stores were 5 per cent better than in the corresponding period a year ago and were the best for the first half of the year since 1937. Sales of the seventh district were up 6.1 per cent.

The extremely hot weather last week slowed business, sales in the district and in Chicago declined to the smallest volume of the year, the bank said. District sales were down about 6 per cent. The decline was seasonal as July usually is the lightest month for retail trade.

Rolling Mill Debentures Sold to Insurance Firms

The American Rolling Mill company announced yesterday that it has contracted to sell to two insurance companies $7,500,000 principal amount of 10 year 3 per cent debentures, of which $5,000,000 were issued Thursday. Proceeds will be used for the redemption of $2,000,000 principal amount of 4 per cent first mortgage notes, for the payment of $1,500,000 of bank loans, and for additional working capital.

Inter-America Bank Getting Little Backing

Latin America has been slow to respond to the state department's proposal for the creation of a $100,000,000 Inter-American bank to effect economic coöperation among the 21 American republics.

The bank proposal, conforming to a Pan-American dream of 50 years, is still far from reality despite the active support of Secretary of State Cordell Hull. At the recent Pan-American conference in Havana the discussion of means to achieve western hemisphere unity did not include the Inter-American bank.

The present proposal for such a bank was put forward last November by the American state department. However, the idea was first proposed at the first International Conference of American States in 1890.

Nine Republics Sign.

Only nine American republics, including the United States, have signed the convention establishing the bank. The drafters of the convention had hoped originally that representatives of all the western hemisphere nations would sign en masse on April 14, the golden anniversary of the founding of the Pan-American union.

The Latin American diplomats attending the golden jubilee in Washington, however, did not rush to affix their signatures to the convention. Several of the governments objected to its terms and offered modifications. The signature date was postponed to May 10.

The state department obtained only the signatures of the representatives of Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Mexico, Nicaragua, Paraguay, and Bolivia on the scheduled day. Brazil signed on May 13.

Argentina an Absentee.

Conspicuously absent was the leading South American nation—Argentina. Argentina has persistently turned a cold shoulder to attempts at economic implementation of the "good neighbor" policy.

The idea of an Inter-American bank was revived late last year by the Inter-American financial and economic advisory committee representing the 21 republics. With the aid of experts from the state and treasury departments, the federal reserve board and the federal loan agency, the committee submitted drafts of the convention charter and by-laws setting up the bank.

At least five countries must ratify the convention and subscribe at least $14,500,000 of the proposed $100,000,000 capital before the bank can be opened. The present signatories provide sufficient participation to establish the bank.

Requires Two-Thirds.

Before the participation of the United States can become effective, however, the ratification of the convention must be approved by a two-thirds vote of the senate, a charter to the bank must be granted by congress, and subscription to at least $5,000,000 of the bank's capital must be provided by congressional appropriation.

The by-laws of the proposed bank provide that the main office be located in the United States and that branches be established in each of the American participating republics.

The capital of the bank would be $100,000,000, consisting of 1,000 shares of $100,000 par value each. Subscriptions for stock could be paid in instalments and each country's share would be determined in relation of the dollar value of its total foreign trade in 1938.

Nation's Shares Would Vary.

The schedule of minimum subscriptions would require 5 shares each from Costa Rica, Ecuador, El Salvador, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, and Paraguay; 10 shares from the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, and Panama; 15 shares from Bolivia; 20 shares from Uruguay; 25 shares from Peru; 30 shares from Chile, Columbia, and Cuba; 35 shares from Mexico and Venezuela; and 50 shares from Argentina, Brazil and the United States.

The primary aim of the bank would be to cement the economic and financial ties between the Americas and develop trade and credit facilities to promote this trade.

Among the avowed purposes of the bank are the following:

1. Assist in stabilizing the currencies of the republics, encourage maintenance of adequate monetary reserves, promote the use of and dis-

RECORD WHEAT DEAL MADE BY GREAT BRITAIN

100 Million Bushels Bought in Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 2 (AP).—Announcement of purchase of 100,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat by the British food ministry — the largest recorded wheat transaction in history—was made here and in London today.

J. A. MacKinnon.

The agreement, covering the cereal year—July, 1940, to July, 1941—was reached directly between the Canadian wheat board and the British cereal authority.

It was the second deal made in that way, the first being the sale of 50,000,000 bushels to the United Kingdom announced last June 1. Other British purchases since the war started have been made thru the Winnipeg Grain exchange.

Price Not Disclosed.

While it was indicated that the price involved in the present deal will not be revealed, following the policy followed earlier, the present purchase is understood to consist entirely of futures contracts.

The October contract currently is quoted at 73⅝ cents a bushel, the minimum permitted under the price pegging program.

Ownership of the wheat passes to the British authority and delivery can be taken when it suits British shipping convenience.

There will be no difficulty in providing delivery whenever required. At the moment, the visible supply of wheat in Canada, in store, is about 270,000,000 bushels. Of this total the British government is understood to own already somewhere between 50,000,000 and 70,000,000 bushels.

Most of the remainder of the 270,000,000 is for sale and that figure will increase steadily in coming weeks as the 1940 crop begins to move. The new Canadian crop is reported to be in excess of 400,000,000 bushels.

PRICES DIP IN CHICAGO.

Corn futures, reflecting forecasts of thundershowers in Illinois and elsewhere in the corn belt, and selling induced by fears Argentine corn may be imported, declined 1¼ to 1⅝ cents. Oats sagged ½ to ¾ cent and rye was ¾ cent lower.

	Yesterday.	Thurs.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .75½	$ .75¾	$ .84
Corn	.60⅜	* .61½	.42⅝
Oats	.29¼	.30	.27⅛
Rye	.42⅜	.43½	.40⅛
Soy beans	.74⅛	.74⅞	.68

*Bid.

The British purchase of Canadian wheat was no surprise to the American and Canadian grain trade.

Canadian Minimum 70 Cents.

Grain men understood that Canada appealed to England recently for financial help owing to the large amount of money said to be tied up in stocks of cash wheat. The huge supply accumulated as a result of the government's guaranteed minimum price of 70 cents for No. 1 northern spring wheat in 1939. Latest official reports indicate that about 285,000,000 bushels of the 1939 Canadian wheat harvest was on hand on July 31, the end of the 1939-'40 crop year, involving about $200,000,000.

Canada announced last week that it would pay a minimum price of 70 cents a bushel for the wheat crop to be harvested this summer, the price applying to grain delivered at Fort William or Vancouver.

SAVINGS BANKS TO OFFER BILL PAYING SERVICE

N. Y. Plan May Replace Cashier's Check.

New York, Aug. 2 [Special].—Savings banks, which have been working on a plan to offer depositors a bill paying system, expect to have it ready to present to the state banking department for its approval by October 1, it was reported today.

A subcommitte of the Savings Banks association is working on the plan. Clarence B. Plantz, assistant vice president of the New York Savings bank, is chairman.

Cashier's Checks Costly.

Under the plan banks which would offer the new service would present it in lieu of the present system whereby savings banks make out chashier's checks on the request of depositors. This service, for which no fee is charged here, runs into a considerable expense for the banks in the course of each year.

Several plans have been worked out to cover the bill paying services which the bank depositors might desire, but it is not yet known which one will be presented to the banking department. It will probably be an extension of the money order system now in operation in about 25 banks in the state.

May Turn in Passbooks.

It is believed that savings bank depositors would collect each month the bills they wished paid, turn them over to the savings bank, together with their passbook, and have the aggregate amount of the bills charged against their deposits.

Since many of the bills turned in by hundreds of depositors each month would be payable to a limited number of companies, such as gas and electric companies, the telephone company and other public utilities, the savings bank probably would lump all such bills and the utility company would get its pay from a central place instead of from a myriad of individual sources.

BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM HAS BIG JULY PHONE GAIN

The principal operating subsidiaries in the American Telephone and Telegraph company system had a net gain of 22,000 telephones in service in July, the company reported yesterday. This compares with a gain of 11,100 in July, 1939.

In the first seven months of this year the Bell system had a cumulative net gain of 471,000 telephones in service, compared with an increase of 381,000 units in the corresponding period a year ago. At the end of July there were 17,005,800 telephones in operation thruout the system—a new high record.

At the end of July, Chicago had 1,013,098 telephones in operation, the Illinois Bell Telephone company reported. This was a gain of 1,189 over June and 38,813 over July, 1939. The New York Telephone company reported a loss of 3393 stations in July against a decrease of 5,121 a year ago.

BRITISH TIGHTEN BLOCKADE RULE THRU NAVICERTS

Must Cover All Items to Avoid Seizure.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 [Special].—The British embassy announced today a number of conditions for the granting of navicerts in the wake of extension of the British blockade to include all outside trade with Europe. Ships are subject to seizure unless their entire cargoes are listed in the navicert which evidences British approval of the cargoes before the ships sail.

"Navicert applications," the embassy said, "will be accepted at British consulates for the following countries: Spain, Portugal, Switzerland, Spanish and International Morocco, Turkey, European Russia, Spanish and Portuguese Atlantic islands, and Iceland.

Demand Route to Switzerland.

"For Switzerland the proposed route should be stated. For European Russia the port of destination should be stated. For Turkey it is a condition of acceptance that the applicant agrees to ship by a route which does not involve the passage of Gibraltar.

"Applications for navicerts to Sweden should be made in the first instance to the Swedish government cargo clearance committee, 630 Fifth avenue, New York, as previously announced. That organization will pass the applications to the British consulate general in New York as shipping space is allotted to the consignments.

No Baltic Navicerts Issued.

"For Finland, applications will only be accepted if they are made by the Finnish American Trading Corporation, 52 William street, New York."

Applications for Baltic states, Jugoslavia, Hungary, Greece, Bulgaria, and Rumania, the embassy said, cannot be accepted in the United States since the passage of imports for those countries thru the allied contraband controls will be the subjects of negotiation between the governments of the country concerned and the United Kingdom.

SHIP PROBLEM: MORE VESSELS THAN CARGOES

War Situation Is Reversed in a Few Months.

BY HERBERT VEDDER.

New York, Aug. 2 [Special].—United States shipping, faced with constantly changing situations since the war in Europe began, now finds that an about face has made more vessels available than there are cargoes, a survey of shipping men indicated today.

Only a few months ago the demand for cargo space was so heavy that there was a shortage of bottoms, and rates for chartering ships had rocketed. Charter rates today in many instances are scarcely more than half what they were on June 1, so rapidly has the change occurred.

The collapse of France and the entry of Italy into the war, shutting off the Mediterranean sea for commercial shipping and removing two large customer nations thru the British blockade, are advanced by shipping men as the principal reasons for the sharp decline in demand for cargo space.

Dutch, Norwegian Ship Used.

Official British sources here advanced as a further reason Great Britain's utilization of Dutch and Norwegian ships which have fallen into her hands as a result of the war. These additions to the British merchant marine also have served to make Britain's blockade job much simpler, cutting down sharply the number of ships which could bring supplies to her axis enemies.

Some shipping officials here expect the restricting of American exports of aviation gasoline and oil, and of scrap iron and steel thru licensing to put another crimp in American shipping. Japan alone took more than $75,000,000 worth of scrap and oil products last year.

A sharp drop in demand for space in United States tankers already has sent the shipping rate on oil from Texas to New York and other Atlantic ports tumbling to 21 cents a barrel. It reached a high of 70 cents last spring and was at 50 cents or better only a little more than a month ago. Shipments were made at 17 cents a barrel before the European war began.

Seasonal Influences Seen.

Some sources today insisted seasonal influences were largely responsible for the decline, saying that fall, winter and spring bring the heaviest demand for tankers. Other well informed shipping men, however, were just as insistent that the fall of France and the Italian war entry were the principal reasons. A report that Standard Oil company [New Jersey] had laid up 30 tankers, a few because of age, but most of them because of slack business, could not be confirmed.

The decline in the charter market is illustrated by the chartering of a ship for a roundtrip to a South American port at $3 a ton. The rate on this same ship was as high as $6.50 a ton last spring and at $5 as recently as June. It could have been had at $1 a ton or less before the war.

A few ship lines, particularly those doing a general cargo business, reported that they have continued to run at or near capacity and are similarly booked ahead for several months.

Expect Rapid Changes.

Several shipping men predicted continued and sometimes rapid changes in the American shipping situation. A representative of one important freight line said:

"The charter market has been bouncing all over the place. It may shift rapidly to come up again. It all depends on future developments which we can't predict. There is no definite sign, however, that we are going into a tailspin for good."

American shipping, both cargo and passenger, has passed thru several phases since last September. Its being barred from an increasingly large European area as a war zone, under provisions of the neutrality laws has brought shifts in service. Preoccupation of the huge British merchant marine with war tasks opened new fields to the United States ships, particularly in the inter-American, South African and Pacific trade. Most of them readily found reëmployment or were transferred to foreign registry.

Far Eastern Demand an Aid

Far eastern demand has helped hold up the market for space in recent months, making some shippers apprehensive over possible effects of the oil and scrap licensing.

Others, however, hope for a pickup in South American trade again. Some slackening there in recent months is attributed largely to seasonal influences. A report that uncertain Chilean political conditions caused a drop in nitrate business was denied today. Torrential rains and seasonal influences were blamed by an authoritative source.

One widely expressed hope among shipping men is that further concentration of British shipping on carrying supplies to the beleaguered islands from increased distances because of the Mediterranean closing will open further trade to American vessels. Most sources agree that trade with Europe has been effectively cut off from the Americas by the British blockade.

Increasing imports of materials vital to United States defense needs is another source of encouragement to some shipping men.

4. Promote the development of industry, public utilities, mining, agriculture, commerce, and finance in the hemisphere.

5. Encourage and promote research in the technical arts.

6. Engage in research and contribute expert advice on public finance, exchange, banking, and money.

7. Promote publication of data and information relating to these purposes.

The bank would have power to:

1. Make loans and credits to governments, central banks, political subdivisions, and nationals.

2. Trade in and own obligations and securities of the participating governments, central banks, political subdivisions, and nationals.

Loans to Be Guaranteed.

3. Guarantee loans made by others to these debtors.

4. Act as a clearing house of funds, balances, checks, drafts, and acceptances.

5. Deal in precious metals, currencies and foreign exchange for its own and others' accounts.

6. Issue debentures and other obligations to obtain funds for bank purposes.

7. Accept demand, time, and custody deposits.

8. Discount and rediscount bills, acceptances.

9. Act as agent or correspondent for governments or central banks.

10. Publish financial and economic studies.

Plan Exchange Activities.

11. Deal in cable transfers, accept bills and drafts drawn on the bank and issue letters of credit.

The bank would be managed by a board of directors consisting of one representative and one alternate from each participating government.

The contemplated Inter-American bank is similar but not related to the Export-Import bank of Washington, D. C., created in 1934 to aid in the financing of foreign trade of the United States. The common stock valued at $1,000,000 of the Export-Import bank is owned by the United States government and the preferred stock of $45,000,000, by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

NEW SECURITIES OFFERINGS RISE TO 30 MILLIONS

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—Public offerings of new securities increased during the week ended yesterday to $30,676,079, compared with $22,081,000 the preceding week, Poor's Publishing company reported today.

Altho the total was well below the average weekly volume of the preceding month, the demand for new money increased, accounting for 84 per cent of the week's offerings. New stock issues were the largest in three months.

Assemblies of automobiles and trucks declined to 17,373 units this week compared with 34,822 last week and 33,550 in the corresponding 1939 week, Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., estimated yesterday. Nearly all plants were closed for changeover operations, Ward's predicted assemblies next week will be the smallest of the year, with a sustained and rapid rise in production thereafter.

Utility-Industrial Asset Value Is Above Year Ago

Utility and Industrial corporation, investment trust with headquarters in Chicago, reported yesterday that the net asset value per share of its cumulative convertible preferred stock was $2.87 on June 30, compared with $2.73 a share a year earlier and $3.50 a share at the end of 1939.

MONTH'S DEFICIT OF TREASURY IS HALF A BILLION

830 Million Spent; Only 331 Million Received.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—The treasury disclosed today that it had finished the first month of the fiscal year with a deficit of nearly a half billion dollars.

In July, the first month of a fiscal year in which national defense expenditures alone are expected to be several billion dollars, the treasury spent $830,598,844, and took in $331,220,815—a deficit of $499,378,029.

In the same month last year both expenditures and receipts were slightly lower, and the deficit was $499,479,186. In July, 1939, however, the treasury had to make some extra ordinary bookkeeping charges which did not appear this year.

Security Taxes Excluded.

For the first time, the treasury revenue figure excluded social security taxes going into the old age reserve fund. If these takes had been added in as formerly, revenue would have been larger and the deficit smaller by $35,842,715. Deduction of these taxes, however, did not affect comparisons with July, 1939, because no additions were made to the reserve fund in that month.

New defense taxes, altho generally effective July 1, also did not enter materially into July receipts, but are expected to start showing up in August.

Debt Sets New Peak.

Meanwhile, the federal debt, the limit of which was raised from $45,000,000,000 to $49,000,000,000, to enable financing of defense expenditures, reached a new record high of $43,770,544,600. This was an increase of $803,013,562 in one month, due mostly to the sale of $650,000,000 worth of long term bonds to replenish treasury cash. No new financing on a large scale is expected soon because the borrowing last month gave the treasury a cash working balance of $1,526,836,970.

OFFER NEW HOME RECORDER, RADIO AND PHONOGRAPH

Rock-Ola Manufacturing corporation, 800 North Kedzie avenue, maker of automatic phonographs, coin operated machines, and upholstered furniture, yesterday announced it would market a combination home recorder with radio and phonograph attachments.

Full production will begin at once so that deliveries can begin Sept. 1, David Rockola, president, said. Enabling users to make their own phonograph recordings, Rockola said the unit will be the only one of its type on the market which will be capable of playing 20 records without need of manual change. It will be equipped with from five to 11 radio tubes.

LIFE SAVERS.

Can stock in the company that makes Life Savers be bought on any exchange? What is the company's earnings and sales record? Are dividends being paid on the stock?—H. F.

Answer: Life Savers corporation makes vari-flavored candy drops and its subsidiaries produce gum, cough drops, and antiseptic tablets. The company's principal plant is at Port Chester, N. Y.

The corporation was formed in 1933 as one of the five companies resulting from the reorganization of Drug, Inc. Capitalization comprises 343,774 shares of $5 par capital stock, listed on the New York Stock exchange.

Dividends have been paid continuously on the stock since 1933. In addition to annual dividends of $1.60, the company paid extra dividends of 60 cents a share in 1936, $1.10 in 1937, 80 cents in 1938, and $1 in 1939

Two quarterly dividends of 40 cents each were paid thus far in 1940, and on Sept. 3 a quarterly payment will be accompanied by an extra of 40 cents on stock of record Aug. 1.

	Sales.	Net Income.	Earned per Share.
1936	3,626,000	844,134	2.46
1937	4,079,000	1,015,906	2.95
1938	4,051,000	966,261	2.81
1939	4,286,000	1,024,927	2.98

Net income in the first half of 1940 was $460,359, equal to $1.34 a share, compared with $493,560, or $1.44 a share, in the same 1939 period. Before deducting loss on foreign exchange adjustments, the profit in the latest period would have been $499,200, or $1.45 a share.

BRANIFF.

Do you have any financial data about Braniff Airways?—D. B.

Answer: Braniff Airways, Inc., operates a commercial air line covering about 2,400 miles in air routes serving the territory from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. The company owns 17 transport planes.

The company has outstanding 400,000 shares of $2.50 par capital stock. No cash dividend has been paid on the stock. T. E. Braniff, president, owned 55 per cent of the stock at the end of last March. The company had been privately owned before a public stock offering was made in March.

Net profit of $43,824 in 1939, equal to 11 cents a share on 400,000 shares of common stock, compared with $28,765, or 7 cents a share, in 1938, and a net loss of $64,206 in 1937.
